Allied Tanks Pour Shellfire On Red Troops

Two MIGs Downed In Air War Renewal

SEOUL, Korea, Thursday, Jan. 24 (AP)—Allied tanks poured more than 1,600 shells on Chinese troops on Korea's central front Wednesday as sharp fighting broke out all along the 145-mile battle front.

In a renewal of the air war, Russian-made MIG-15s and U. S. F-86 Sabre jets tangled twice in the skies over North Korea. Two MIGs were shot down, one was probably destroyed, and a fourth was damaged.

Wednesday's fighting marked the end of 19 months of war in Korea.

The Allied tanks rumbled through the snow and fanned out on a seven-mile line between Kumsong and the Pukhan River.

For more than 3½ hours they fired at Communist bunkers. One group of tanks reported 60 bunkers damaged.

Five tanks were damaged, but all were recovered.

U. N. raiding parties jabbed into Red lines on both the eastern and western fronts, hammered at Red positions, then returned to their own lines.

An Allied patrol on the central front was ambushed southeast of Kumsong and had a stiff fight in extricating itself. Farther west, another Allied patrol touched off a heavy artillery exchange when it bumped into a Chinese force on a hill west of Chorwon.

Armistice Talks Near "Complete Collapse"

MUNSAN, Korea, Thursday, Jan 24 (AP) — Korean armistice negotiations are drifting toward "a complete stalemate" Rear Adm. R. E. Libby, chief Allied negotiator on the prisoner exchange issue, said Wednesday.

(At the same time, a Chinese Red negotiator on truce supervision, Maj. Gen. Heieh Fang, charged the talks were taking a "new, dangerous turn" due to four "provocative" incidents by Allied aircraft within 11 days. He was quoted in a Peiping broadcast heard at San Francisco.)

No progress was made Wednesday on either prisoner exchange or an Allied proposal ban on construction of Red airfields during a truce.

Libby Looks Discouraged

Stepping out of a fruitless two hour and 50-minute session on prisoners, Libby looked weary and discouraged.

He said the negotiators would meet again but added: "I don't know exactly why.

"I don't know if we're coming up with a complete stalemate—it looks like it."

In other developments Wednesday:

1. The U. N. command admitted that an Allied plane dropped a 1,000 pound bomb by mistake inside the Kaesong neutral zone on Jan. 17. The pilot inadvertently pushed his bomb release when intending to drop a wing tank, the Allies reported after an investigation.

Allies Admit Strafing Convoy

2. The Allies also said that further evidence indicated a Communist armistice convoy was strafed by Fifth Air Force planes on the Pyongyang-Kaesong highway Jan. 18. The Reds had protested two men were wounded. Allied investigators said planes struck at antiaircraft positions and construction crews near Hanpo bridge, about two miles north of Kaesong, but did not see convoy vehicles on the road. They concluded the Red vehicles must have been hidden beneath trees.

3. The Communists agreed to give the U. N. command today a map marked with the exact location of 11 prisoner of war camps in North Korea. The staff officers conferred on safeguards for prisoners as the result of an alleged Allied bombing the night of Jan. 14 of a prison camp near Kangdong.

Twins' Mother May Go To Jail

Mrs. Henry M. Morey, St. Louis, is shown with her 7-year-old twins, Marilyn (left) and Carolyn, who are barred from school because their parents refuse to abide by school regulations requiring children to be vaccinated against smallpox. Warrants charge the parents with failing to send the children to school. Mrs. Morey says she will go to jail rather than have her daughters vaccinated.

Acheson Backs Ike's European Convention Call

Kefauver, McMahon Also Endorse Idea

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson stamped American government approval today on Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's suggestion to European nations that they hold a constitutional convention for unity.

He made his statement at a news conference in which he also said this country is most eager for an agreement on the differences that have held up action under a plan for a six-nation European army.

In backing up Eisenhower's call for a unity convention of Europe, Acheson ranged himself alongside a large segment of Congress which included some of the potential presidential candidates.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), who announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination later in the day, called the proposal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander "a splendid step in the right direction." Unification would "make it easier for us to work with them," Kefauver said.

Sen. McMahon (D-Conn), whose name has been entered in the Illinois presidential primary against Kefauver, said that unity on the continent "isn't just desirable; it is imperative if Europe is going to be able to handle her own defense in a few years."

"Ike's move is splendid and in the right direction," said Sen. Wiley (R-Wis), senior Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Eisenhower, in a statement from his headquarters near Paris yesterday, said long-term defensive security in Europe "cannot gain strength and stability if it (Europe) is to remain split up in a number of independent economies."

Asked about the Eisenhower proposal today, Acheson said this country enthusiastically supports it.

Mine Deaths Increase

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — The Bureau of Mines reported today it estimates 790 men were killed in the nation's coal mines in 1951, an increase of 148 over the 642 coal mine fatalities in 1950.

Egyptian Official Protests Search And Warns British

London Launches Big Cocktail Spree

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The grandest cocktail spree since the invention of the martini got under way today without a souse in the house.

Cocktails of all hues—red, green, yellow, even blue ones—poured from frosted shakers in an alcoholic marathon designed to find the world's champion mixed drink master.

It was tantalizing for everyone but the four judges—two men and two women—and they were allowed only to sip.

A few hundred watchers and a handful of newspapermen stood around with their tongues hanging out.

It was the opening of the world's cocktail-mixing championship, which has attracted 375 entries from 22 countries.

Charges Civilians Flogged, Evicted

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 23 (AP)—Egypt's interior minister denounced tonight a British search set off in Ismailia by the slaying of an American nun and declared Suez Canal zone matters have gone beyond the stage of "mere protestations."

The minister, Fouad Serag El Din Pasha, did not say what the next stage would be, but reported "the Egyptian government has had this subject under discussion for two days."

Asked by a reporter whether Egypt is considering using her army to guard Egyptians in the canal zone, he said:

"This is a matter left to the discretion of the Cabinet. I am not in a position to talk about that."

"Outrageous Aggression"

Serag El Din told a news conference the British have committed "outrageous aggressions" in the house-to-house search for hidden arms since Sister Anthony, 52-year-old Roman Catholic nun, was shot through the heart Saturday. She was killed as she stepped from a convent in Ismailia to welcome a British tank detachment.

He said he had lodged a protest with Lt. Gen. George Erskine, the British commander, "demanding an immediate cessation," but Erskine replied the steps were necessary to protect his forces and insure the safety of nationals of friendly states.

"These are only pretexts x x x," Serag El Din said of Erskine's reply. "No foreign national that I know of has asked for protection."

Floggings Charged

The minister declared the British "flogged Egyptian civilians, unleashed wild dogs on them, evicted them from their homes" and desecrated a mosque and a cemetery.

He said an Egyptian witness had reported the British "crucified" a young Egyptian on a tree in the Ismailia cemetery, set dogs on him and still hold him, although he is in a serious condition.

The British already have denied this story, which appeared earlier in Cairo newspapers.

Bruce Succeeds James E. Webb

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — President Truman announced the resignation of James E. Webb as undersecretary of state today and appointed David K. E. Bruce to succeed him in the key foreign relations post. Bruce is now ambassador to France.

The President also nominated Eric Johnston, former stabilization chief, as chairman of the International Development Advisory Board and named two new members to the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Abbot L. Mills, Jr., Portland, Ore., and James Louis Robertson of Nebraska, were chosen for the banking posts.

All the nominations are subject to Senate confirmation.

17-Pound Baby Born

CALDWELL, O., Jan. 23 (AP)—A 39-year-old mother of 10 previou children yesterday gave birth to a 17-pound, two-ounce baby boy.

Dr. C. F. Thompson, a physician at Caldwell, O., identified the woman as Mrs. Zella Marie Green wife of Arthur Green, 53, a farmer

"Good Russian" May Have Misled Vogeler; Denied Visa

VIENNA, Jan. 23 (AP)—The "good Russian" who was to emigrate with his family to the United States as a reward for trying to help American Businessman Robert Vogeler escape from a Red Hungarian prison will not be leaving just yet, and maybe not ever.

A U. S. Intelligence officer expressed belief the "good Russian" had misled Vogeler.

Another intelligence official said he understood "something new came to light in the last few hours" about the man.

The intelligence officials could not be identified by name.

The American visas granted to Nikita Kabiakov and family were withdrawn today by order of Walter J. Donnelly, U. S. ambassador to Austria. A further investigation of Kabiakov was ordered.

"It's clear that because Vogeler intervened and asked for him, somebody acted too fast and granted Kabiakov permission to go to the United States," a source close to the embassy said.

Donnelly posed for photograph with Kabiakov at Salzburg a few days ago, shook hands and congratulated him on Vogeler's volunteering to pay his expenses and help him find a job in America.

Today, Donnelly's office ordered the pictures destroyed.

King Backs Truman's Tax Agency Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Chairman King (D-Calif) of the House committee that turned up the tax collection scandals today endorsed President Truman's plan for reorganizing the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Backing in particular the plan to put the supervising regional collectors under civil service, King conceded that you can't legislate honesty into anybody who intends to be dishonest.

"But," he said, "it should be noted that thus far in the investigation of collectors, of whom there are at least 17 career men out of 64, not one single appointee who was actually a career man has been found corrupt."

King testified before the House Expenditures Committee which is considering the reorganization plan.

Tunisian Nationalists Seize Control Of Town

At Least 11 Die In New Disorders

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 23 (AP)—Tunisian nationalists in bloody demonstrations against French rule rioted around the Sousse area today and seized control of the town of Teboulba.

At least 11 persons were killed in the day's disorders.

An authorized French source said Teboulba, 20 miles southeast of the port of Sousse, was "in the hands of uncontrolled elements" tonight.

He said the French planned an operation tomorrow to retake the town.

At least 35 Tunisians and six French policemen and military officers have been killed in riots in this French North African protectorate since January 14.

Seven Tunisians were killed today at Teboulba in a clash between police and nationalists demonstrating for self-rule of Tunisia.

French Policeman Slain

At Mokhine, a few miles away, three French policemen were killed. Mokhine is 120 miles southeast of Tunis.

A French lieutenant of gendarmes was killed when his detachment was ambushed near Menzel Bou Zelfa, south of Sousse.

The clash at Teboulba occurred when police tried to rescue a French civilian who was being attacked by a crowd of nationalist demonstrators.

The bodies of the police killed at Mokhine were found by a rescue force dispatched to the scene after demonstrators sacked the local police station and attacked the gendarmerie barracks. Two other policemen seized by the crowd as hostages were released later, both wounded.

Tunis Trolly Stoned

The lieutenant was slain while his detachment was going to the rescue of French civilians who had been attacked at Menzel Bou Zelfa, just south of the port of Sousse where Col. Norbert Durand, military commander of the area, was killed yesterday.

The cars of several French civilians were stoned in this neighborhood today, and one was overturned and burned. The police post at Djemmal was burned, but no casualties were reported.

Tunis itself was calm except for one incident in which Arabs stoned a trolley. But the atmosphere was tense. Most Arab shopkeepers still observed a general strike proclaimed by nationalists as a protest at the arrest of scores of their leaders.

N. J. Legislators Demand Airliner Crash Inquiries

Body Of 29th Victim Found In Wreckage

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 23 (AP)—The remains of another victim were pulled from the sodden debris of the wrecked American Airlines plane late today, bringing the death toll to 29.

Meanwhile, demands for investigations, spurred by rising civic protests, echoed from City Hall to Capitol Hill in the wake of two major air disasters which took 85 lives here in 38 days.

While relatives sought to identify the bodies of the 23 plane occupants and the six residents who perished in yesterday's crash, New Jersey's congressional delegation acted in both houses.

Resolutions Introduced

Sens. Smith and Hendrickson, both Republicans, introduced a resolution calling for a 10-member commission to study the disaster.

Rep. Wolverton, (R-N.J.) introduced a similar resolution in the House. He called for investigation of the Elizabeth crashes and other recent air disasters.

A Florida-bound non-scheduled C-46 plane crashed in another residential area about a mile from yesterday's crackup, and killed 56 persons Dec. 16.

Sen. Smith said it was "unfortunate that the airport is located so close to a thickly populated area." He said residents had tried for some time to eliminate dangers from low-flying planes.

Port Relocation Demanded

Mayor James T. Kirk demanded that the airport be relocated regardless of cost to let the city's 112,000 residents come out from under an "umbrella of danger."

Rep. Case (R-N. J.) introduced a bill asking creation of a special house committee to investigate the site, operation and proposed expansion of the Newark airport, destination of yesterday's flight from Buffalo, N. Y.

The Elizabeth City Council announced a special "indignation meeting" to be held tomorrow night to protest any expansion of the adjacent Newark airport.

Czech Security Minister Ousted

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 23 (AP)—Vladislav Kipriva, long in the forefront of the Comunist purgers in Czechoslovakia, has been relieved of his job as security minister, the Prague radio announced tonight.

The announcement said he was taken out of the job "at his own request," but Czech refugees here wondered if the reason might not go back to the time when Kipriva's security police were reported on the trail of President Klement Gottwald himself.

The President shoved Rudolf Slansky, a Communist stalwart, out of the niche of vice premier and had him jailed on charges of anti-state activities last November. One report was that Slansky's downfall was not due to any Titoist treason but to personal rivalry for power with Gottwald.

Government Seizes Patterson's Passport

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Immigration authorities today seized the passport of William L. Patterson, executive secretary of the Civil Rights Congress, upon his arrival here by plane from London.

Patterson, a negro, had been to Paris where he presented a petition to the United Nations accusing the United States of genocide against the American negro.

Genocide is the mass destruction of people.

The Civil Rights Congress is on the United States attorney general's list of subversive organizations.

Demo Treasurer Quits

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—Former Gov. Roy J. Turner of Oklahoma announced here today he has submitted his resignation as national treasurer of the Democratic Party because of his wife's serious illness.

Patterson Will Be Buried In Arlington

NEW YORK Jan. 23 (AP)—Former War Secretary Robert P. Patterson will be given a military burial Friday in Washington's Arlington National Cemetery.

Patterson, 60, was killed yesterday in the Elizabeth, N. J., crash of an American Airlines plane. He resigned as secretary of war in 1947.

President Truman is expected to attend the funeral services Friday at the National Cathedral in Washington.

Rep. Wood Won't Run

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Rep. Wood (D-Ga), chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, announced today he would not seek reelection this year because he "cannot afford to stay in Congress."

Members of the House get $12,500 salary plus a $2,500 tax-free expense allowance.

HAT'S IN RING — Sen. Estes Kefauver (above), of Tennessee, yesterday announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Nepal Revolt Is Reported; India May Act

NEW DELHI, India, Thursday, Jan. 24 (AP)—A revolt against the newly-liberalized government of Nepal was reported today. India was described as ready to intervene if necessary to save the Himilayan kingdom from the fate of neighboring Communist-captive Tibet.

The Hindustan Times and other Indian morning newspapers said the revolt has been put down for the moment and 400 rebels are under arrest at Khatmandu, the capital, but unease continues.

Some reports said the rebels were supported by left-wing elements or infiltrated Communists.

Informed sources here said unless the situation is brought under control quickly there is every possibility that India will step in to restore stability.

India regards Nepal as responsible for guarding a 550-mile Himalayan border with Tibet, which now is under Red China's control.

Taft Leads Ike In Poll

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Quick magazine said today Sen. Taft of Ohio led Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a poll by the magazine to determine the preference of Republican senators for the GOP presidential nomination.

Of 44 senators polled, Taft received 17 votes and Eisenhower 12, Quick said.

Mexican Bandit Gang Shoots It Out And Loses

One Slain; $174,000 In Loot Recovered

JUAREZ, Mexico, Jan. 23 (AP)—A band of border bandits shot it out today with police and soldiers and lost. One bandit was killed, another wounded, two others captured and $174,000 in loot from a daring bank robbery recovered.

Federal police headquarters at Mexico City said tonight two additional bank robbers had been surrounded near Zaragoza, south of Juarez.

More than 200 shots from rifles and machine guns were exchanged in the fight in the village of San Lorenzo, six miles south of Juarez, where the bandits holed up after robbing El Banco Nacional here yesterday.

Loot Packed In Suitcases

The robbery loot, packed in three suitcases and a handbag, was found in the house and returned to the bank.

Police also arrested the owner of the house, Marguerita Dominguez, 31.

The dead man was identified by El Paso, Tex., Deputy Sheriff Bob Bailey as Alfonso Rey, 30, and the wounded man as his one-armed brother, Leopoldo Rey, 25.

They are wanted just across the border in El Paso for a $1,000 robbery of a housing project office on Dec. 6.

Held in Juarez jail are Lorenzo Gonzales, 31, and Simon Loya, 25, members of the bandit gang, and Marguerita Dominguez.

Bandits Open Fire

Twenty-five Juarez police and Mexican federal troops joined in the gun battle against the bandits.

Informed that the bandits were hidden with the loot in the house, police and troops surrounded it. When they approached the bandits opened fire and the officers fired back.

In the first exchange Alfonso was killed. Another burst of bullets sent the three remaining bandits on a run to escape. After about 150 yards, Leopoldo dropped with a bullet in his head. Then the other two men surrendered. No officers were hurt.

Military Assistance To Iran Is Held Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—W. Averell Harriman said today United States shipments of military material to Iran are being held up pending Iran's qualification for such aid under the Mutual Security Act.

Harriman, director of the mutual security program, disclosed at the same time that economic or technical assistance is being withheld from Afghanistan, Burma, Egypt, Iraq and Ireland.

Harriman informed four congressional committees by letter that Iran has qualified to receive economic and technical assistance and such assistance "will go forward."

Course For Ghost Writers Is Planned By University

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — A course of study for ghost writers will open next month at American University.

Among other things, they will be taught to write in such a way that orators will understand at all times what they are saying.

Dr. Walter P. Bowman, head of the university's department of communications who will teach the course, said today that ghost writers are "indispensable artisans" although only a few years ago they were "inadmissible."

"Most of the great speeches we hear are written in a whole or in part by someone backstage," he said. "It is time we recognized the fact and offered suitable training in the art of writing speeches."

There are no official estimates on how many ghost writers pen speeches in Washington, but D. W. Osten, assistant director of public relations at American U., told a reporter "there must be more than 150 at the top level in Washington alone."

Osten said the toughest part of a ghost's job is adjusting his own talents to fit the mental and oratorical capacities of the man for whom he is writing his speech.

Crime-Hunting Demo Senator "In To Finish"

Urges "New Blood" In U. S. Political Life

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today with a call for "new blood and new ideas" in the nation's political life.

The crime-hunting senator emphasized that he will be a stick-to-the-end candidate, with no interest in settling for the vice presidency in the event President Truman decides to seek reelection.

"I am not a candidate for any other office," Kefauver told a news conference.

"I am going to work hard to win. I'm in until the finish."

The Tennesseean, who skyrocketed to national prominence last year as chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, also declared he will campaign for a "clean house" in government and an end to "the unholy alliance between the criminal element and some men in politics."

He said he will lay stress on developing "the positive and great elements in our foreign policy," and seek to push a "policy of strength" as a "democratic counter-offensive against Communism."

First Demo To Declare

As Kefauver spoke, his attractive auburn-haired wife, Nancy, and one of their four children, 10-year-old Linda, sat beside him.

Kefauver is the first Democrat to declare himself formally for the presidential nomination. So far, three Republicans — Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), Gov. Earl Warren of California and Harold E. Stassen — have bid for the GOP nomination.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is a fourth potential GOP candidate. He has said he will not seek the nomination, but will obey a "clear-cut call to duty" if nominated.

Kefauver already has been entered in the Illinois primary, which occurs April 8. He is pitted there against Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut. There have been reports that McMahon's entry is part of an effort by Truman supporters to check the Kefauver movement.

Another Democrat whose name has been placed in the presidential picture is Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota who has been entered as a "favorite son" in the Minnesota primary, March 18.

DiSalle In Senate Race

Shortly before Kefauver announced his candidacy, new hints arose that President Truman may seek reelection.

Democratic National Committeeman John Nangle of the President's home state told newsmen he has "no doubt" that Mr. Truman will run again. Emerging from a White House visit, Nangle said Mr. Truman had not disclosed his plans, but he commented:

"I do think President Truman will run for the presidency again."

Elsewhere on the political scene:

1. Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told reporters, "Well, I'm gonna do it" — quit his federal post to seek the U. S. Senate seat now held by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

The chubby, 44-year-old price boss will try for the Democratic nomination.

2. Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, both frequently mentioned as potential "dark horse" candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, declared themselves out of the picture.

Fort Dix Worker Kills Three, Self

FORT DIX, N. J., Jan. 23 (AP) — A Fort Dix civilian worker killed three women members of his family with an automatic pistol tonight and then committed suicide, state police said.

Garner Powers, 32, shot to death his estranged wife, Gloria, 27, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen De Mayo, 59, and Mrs. Louise Bowker, 61, his wife's aunt, the police said.

The shooting took place in the Powers home in the cross-roads settlement of Cream Ridge, where the families lived near each other.

Before shooting himself, State Police Sgt. Ernest Stedler said, Powers grabbed his four-year-old son and shoved the boy into the hands of a neighbor, Mrs. M. H. Pilla. He ran back to his own home, where the three women lay dead, and fired one bullet from the .45 caliber pistol into his head, Stedler said.

Mrs. Pilla, nearly hysterical, telephoned state police to report the slayings.

The minister declared the British "flogged Egyptian civilians, unleashed wild dogs on them, evicted them from their homes" and desecrated a mosque and a cemetery.

He said an Egyptian witness had reported the British "crucified" a young Egyptian on a tree in the Ismailia cemetery, set dogs on him and still hold him, although he is in a serious condition.

The British already have denied this story, which appeared earlier in Cairo newspapers.

London Launches Big Cocktail Spree

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The grandest cocktail spree since the invention of the martini got under way today without a souse in the house.

Cocktails of all hues—red, green, yellow, even blue ones—poured from frosted shakers in an alcoholic marathon designed to find the world's champion mixed drink master.

It was tantalizing for everyone but the four judges—two men and two women—and they were allowed only to sip.

A few hundred watchers and a handful of newspapermen stood around with their tongues hanging out.

It was the opening of the world's cocktail-mixing championship, which has attracted 375 entries from 22 countries.

Bruce Succeeds James E. Webb

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — President Truman announced the resignation of James E. Webb as undersecretary of state today and appointed David K. E. Bruce to succeed him in the key foreign relations post. Bruce is now ambassador to France.

The President also nominated Eric Johnston, former stabilization chief, as chairman of the International Development Advisory Board and named two new members to the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Abbot L. Mills, Jr., Portland, Ore., and James Louis Robertson of Nebraska, were chosen for the banking posts.

All the nominations are subject to Senate confirmation.

17-Pound Baby Born

CALDWELL, O., Jan. 23 (AP)—A 39-year-old mother of 10 previou children yesterday gave birth to a 17-pound, two-ounce baby boy.

Dr. C. F. Thompson, a physician at Caldwell, O., identified the woman as Mrs. Zella Marie Green wife of Arthur Green, 53, a farmer

"Good Russian" May Have Misled Vogeler; Denied Visa

VIENNA, Jan. 23 (AP)—The "good Russian" who was to emigrate with his family to the United States as a reward for trying to help American Businessman Robert Vogeler escape from a Red Hungarian prison will not be leaving just yet, and maybe not ever.

A U. S. Intelligence officer expressed belief the "good Russian" had misled Vogeler.

Another intelligence official said he understood "something new came to light in the last few hours" about the man.

The intelligence officials could not be identified by name.

The American visas granted to Nikita Kabiakov and family were withdrawn today by order of Walter J. Donnelly, U. S. ambassador to Austria. A further investigation of Kabiakov was ordered.

"It's clear that because Vogeler intervened and asked for him, somebody acted too fast and granted Kabiakov permission to go to the United States," a source close to the embassy said.

Donnelly posed for photographs with Kabiakov at Salzburg a few days ago, shook hands and congratulated him on Vogeler's volunteering to pay his expenses and help him find a job in America.

Today, Donnelly's office ordered the pictures destroyed.

Government Seizes Patterson's Passport

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Immigration authorities today seized the passport of William L. Patterson, executive secretary of the Civil Rights Congress, upon his arrival here by plane from London.

Patterson, a negro, had been to Paris where he presented a petition to the United Nations accusing the United States of genocide against the American negro.

Genocide is the mass destruction of people.

The Civil Rights Congress is on the United States attorney general's list of subversive organizations.

Demo Treasurer Quits

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—Former Gov. Roy J. Turner of Oklahoma announced here today he has submitted his resignation as national treasurer of the Democratic Party because of his wife's serious illness.

Tunisian Nationalists Seize Control Of Town

At Least 11 Die In New Disorders

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 23 (AP)—Tunisian nationalists in bloody demonstrations against French rule rioted around the Sousse area today and seized control of the town of Teboulba.

At least 11 persons were killed in the day's disorders.

An authorized French source said Teboulba, 20 miles southeast of the port of Sousse, was "in the hands of uncontrolled elements" tonight.

He said the French planned an operation tomorrow to retake the town.

At least 35 Tunisians and six French policemen and military officers have been killed in riots in this French North African protectorate since January 14.

Seven Tunisians were killed today at Teboulba in a clash between police and nationalists demonstrating for self-rule of Tunisia.

French Slain

At Mokhine, a few miles away, three French policemen were killed. Mokhine is 120 miles southeast of Tunis.

A French lieutenant of gendarmes was killed when his detachment was ambushed near Menzel Bou Zelfa, south of Sousse.

The clash at Teboulba occurred when police tried to rescue a French civilian who was being attacked by a crowd of nationalist demonstrators.

The bodies of the police killed at Mokhine were found by a rescue force dispatched to the scene after demonstrators sacked the local police station and attacked the gendarmerie barracks. Two other policemen seized by the crowd as hostages were released later, both wounded.

Tunis Trolly Stoned

The lieutenant was slain while his detachment was going to the rescue of French civilians who had been attacked at Menzel Bou Zelfa, just south of the port of Sousse where Col. Norbert Durand, military commander of the area, was killed yesterday.

The cars of several French civilians were stoned in this neighborhood today, and one was overturned and burned. The police post at Djemmal was burned, but no casualties were reported.

Tunis itself was calm except for one incident in which Arabs stoned a trolley. But the atmosphere was tense. Most Arab shopkeepers still observed a general strike proclaimed by nationalists as a protest at the arrest of scores of their leaders.

N. J. Legislators Demand Airliner Crash Inquiries

Body Of 29th Victim Found In Wreckage

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 23 (AP)—The remains of another victim were pulled from the sodden debris of the wrecked American Airlines plane late today, bringing the death toll to 29.

Meanwhile, demands for investigations, spurred by rising civic protests, echoed from City Hall to Capitol Hill in the wake of two major air disasters which took 85 lives here in 38 days.

While relatives sought to identify the bodies of the 23 plane occupants and the six residents who perished in yesterday's crash, New Jersey's congressional delegation acted in both houses.

Resolutions Introduced

Sens. Smith and Hendrickson, both Republicans, introduced a resolution calling for a 10-member commission to study the disaster.

Rep. Wolverton, (R-N.J.) introduced a similar resolution in the House. He called for investigation of the Elizabeth crashes and other recent air disasters.

A Florida-bound non-scheduled C-46 plane crashed in another residential area about a mile from yesterday's crackup, and killed 56 persons Dec. 16.

Sen. Smith said it was "unfortunate that the airport is located so close to a thickly populated area." He said residents had tried for some time to eliminate dangers from low-flying planes.

Port Relocation Demanded

Mayor James T. Kirk demanded that the airport be relocated regardless of cost to let the city's 112,000 residents come out from under an "umbrella of danger."

Rep. Case (R-N. J.) introduced a bill asking creation of a special house committee to investigate the site, operation and proposed expansion of the Newark airport, destination of yesterday's flight from Buffalo, N. Y.

The Elizabeth City Council announced a special "indignation meeting" to be held tomorrow night to protest any expansion of the adjacent Newark airport.

Czech Security Minister Ousted

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 23 (AP)—Ladislav Kipriva, long in the forefront of the Comunist purgers in Czechoslovakia, has been relieved of his job as security minister, the Prague radio announced tonight.

The announcement said he was taken out of the job "at his own request," but Czech refugees here wondered if the reason might not go back to the time when Kipriva's security police were reported on the trail of President Klement Gottwald himself.

The President shoved Rudolf Slansky, a Communist stalwart, out of the niche of vice premier and had him jailed on charges of anti-state activities last November. One report was that Slansky's downfall was not due to any Titoist treason but to personal rivalry for power with Gottwald.

Patterson Will Be Buried In Arlington

NEW YORK Jan. 23 (AP)—Former War Secretary Robert P. Patterson will be given a military burial Friday in Washington's Arlington National Cemetery.

Patterson, 60, was killed yesterday in the Elizabeth, N. J., crash of an American Airlines plane. He resigned as secretary of war in 1947.

President Truman is expected to attend the funeral services Friday at the National Cathedral in Washington.

Rep. Wood Won't Run

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Rep. Wood (D-Ga), chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, announced today he would not seek reelection this year because he "cannot afford to stay in Congress."

Members of the House get $12,500 salary plus a $2,500 tax-free expense allowance.

HAT'S IN RING — Sen. Estes Kefauver (above), of Tennessee, yesterday announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

One Slain; $174,000 In Loot Recovered

JUAREZ, Mexico, Jan. 23 (AP)—A band of border bandits shot it out today with police and soldiers and lost. One bandit was killed, another wounded, two others captured and $174,000 in loot from a daring bank robbery recovered.

Federal police headquarters at Mexico City said tonight two additional bank robbers had been surrounded near Zaragoza, south of Juarez.

More than 200 shots from rifles and machine guns were exchanged in the fight in the village of San Lorenzo, six miles south of Juarez, where the bandits holed up after robbing El Banco Nacional here yesterday.

Loot Packed In Suitcases

The robbery loot, packed in three suitcases and a handbag, was found in the house and returned to the bank.

Police also arrested the owner of the house, Marguerita Dominguez, 31.

The dead man was identified by El Paso, Tex., Deputy Sheriff Bob Bailey as Alfonso Rey, 30, and the wounded man as his one-armed brother, Leopoldo Rey, 25.

They are wanted just across the border in El Paso for a $1,000 robbery of a housing project office on Dec. 6.

Held in Juarez jail are Lorenzo Gonzales, 31, and Simon Loya, 25, members of the bandit gang, and Marguerita Dominguez.

Bandits Open Fire

Twenty-five Juarez police and Mexican federal troops joined in the gun battle against the bandits.

Informed that the bandits were hidden with the loot in the house, police and troops surrounded it. When they approached the bandits opened fire and the officers fired back.

In the first exchange Alfonso was killed. Another burst of bullets sent the three remaining bandits on a run to escape. After about 150 yards, Leopoldo dropped with a bullet in his head. Then the other two men surrendered. No officers were hurt.

Nepal Revolt Is Reported; India May Act

NEW DELHI, India, Thursday, Jan. 24 (AP)—A revolt against the newly-liberalized government of Nepal was reported today. India was described as ready to intervene if necessary to save the Himilayan kingdom from the fate of neighboring Communist-captive Tibet.

The Hindustan Times and other Indian morning newspapers said the revolt has been put down for the moment and 400 rebels are under arrest at Khatmandu, the capital, but unease continues.

Some reports said the rebels were supported by left-wing elements or infiltrated Communists.

Informed sources here said unless the situation is brought under control quickly there is every possibility that India will step in to restore stability.

India regards Nepal as responsible for guarding a 550-mile Himalayan border with Tibet, which now is under Red China's control.

Taft Leads Ike In Poll

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Quick magazine said today Sen. Taft of Ohio led Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a poll by the magazine to determine the preference of Republican senators for the GOP presidential nomination.

Of 44 senators polled, Taft received 17 votes and Eisenhower 12, Quick said.

Military Assistance To Iran Is Held Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—W. Averell Harriman said today United States shipments of military material to Iran are being held up pending Iran's qualification for such aid under the Mutual Security Act.

Harriman, director of the mutual security program, disclosed at the same time that economic or technical assistance is being withheld from Afghanistan, Burma, Egypt, Iraq and Ireland.

Harriman informed four congressional committees by letter that Iran has qualified to receive economic and technical assistance and such assistance "will go forward."

Course For Ghost Writers Is Planned By University

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — A course of study for ghost writers will open next month at American University.

Among other things, they will be taught to write in such a way that orators will understand at all times what they are saying.

Dr. Walter P. Bowman, head of the university's department of communications who will teach the course, said today that ghost writers are "indispensable artisans" although only a few years ago they were "inadmissible."

"Most of the great speeches we hear are written in a whole or in part by someone backstage," he said. "It is time we recognized the fact and offered suitable training in the art of writing speeches."

There are no official estimates on how many ghost writers pen speeches in Washington, but D. W. Osten, assistant director of public relations at American U., told a reporter "there must be more than 150 at the top level in Washington alone."

Osten said the toughest part of a ghost's job is adjusting his own talents to fit the mental and oratorical capacities of the man for whom he is writing his speech.

Crime-Hunting Demo Senator "In To Finish"

Urges "New Blood" In U. S. Political Life

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today with a call for "new blood and new ideas" in the nation's political life.

The crime-hunting senator emphasized that he will be a stick-to-the-end candidate, with no interest in settling for the vice presidency in the event President Truman decides to seek reelection.

"I am not a candidate for any other office," Kefauver told a news conference.

"I am going to work hard to win. I'm in until the finish."

The Tennesseean, who skyrocketed to national prominence last year as chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, also declared he will campaign for a "clean house" in government and an end to "the unholy alliance between the criminal element and some men in politics."

He said he will lay stress on developing "the positive and great elements in our foreign policy," and seek to push a "policy of strength" as a "democratic counter-offensive against Communism."

First Demo To Declare

As Kefauver spoke, his attractive auburn-haired wife, Nancy, and one of their four children, 10-year-old Linda, sat beside him.

Kefauver is the first Democrat to declare himself formally for the presidential nomination. So far, three Republicans — Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), Gov. Earl Warren of California and Harold E. Stassen — have bid for the GOP nomination.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is a fourth potential GOP candidate. He has said he will not seek the nomination, but will obey a "clear-cut call to duty" if nominated.

Kefauver already has been entered in the Illinois primary, which occurs April 8. He is pitted there against Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut. There have been reports that McMahon's entry is part of an effort by Truman supporters to check the Kefauver movement.

Another Democrat whose name has been placed in the presidential picture is Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota who has been entered as a "favorite son" in the Minnesota primary, March 18.

DiSalle In Senate Race

Shortly before Kefauver announced his candidacy, new hints arose that President Truman may seek reelection.

Democratic National Committeeman John Nangle of the President's home state told newsmen he has "no doubt" that Mr. Truman will run again. Emerging from a White House visit, Nangle said Mr. Truman had not disclosed his plans, but he commented:

"I do think President Truman will run for the presidency again."

Elsewhere on the political scene:

1. Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told reporters, "Well, I'm gonna do it" — quit his federal post to seek the U. S. Senate seat now held by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

The chubby, 44-year-old price boss will try for the Democratic nomination.

2. Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, both frequently mentioned as potential "dark horse" candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, declared themselves out of the picture.

Fort Dix Worker Kills Three, Self

FORT DIX, N. J., Jan. 23 (AP) — A Fort Dix civilian worker killed three women members of his family with an automatic pistol tonight and then committed suicide, state police said.

Garner Powers, 32, shot to death his estranged wife, Gloria, 27, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen De Mayo, 59, and Mrs. Louise Bowker, 61, his wife's aunt, the police said.

The shooting took place in the Powers home in the cross-roads settlement of Cream Ridge, where the families lived near each other.

Before shooting himself, State Police Sgt. Ernest Stedler said, Powers grabbed his four-year-old son and shoved the boy into the hands of a neighbor, Mrs. M. H. Pilla. He ran back to his own home, where the three women lay dead, and fired one bullet from the .45 caliber pistol into his head, Stedler said.

Mrs. Pilla, nearly hysterical, telephoned state police to report the slayings.

Allied Tanks Pour Shellfire On Red Troops

Two MIGs Downed In Air War Renewal

SEOUL, Korea, Thursday, Jan. 24 (AP)—Allied tanks poured more than 1,600 shells on Chinese troops on Korea's central front Wednesday as sharp fighting broke out all along the 145-mile battle front.

In a renewal of the air war, Russian-made MIG-15s and U. S. F-86 Sabre jets tangled twice in the skies over North Korea. Two MIGs were shot down, one was probably destroyed, and a fourth was damaged.

Wednesday's fighting marked the end of 19 months of war in Korea.

The Allied tanks rumbled through the snow and fanned out on a seven-mile line between Kumsong and the Pukhan River.

For more than 3½ hours they fired at Communist bunkers. One group of tanks reported 60 bunkers damaged.

Five tanks were damaged, but all were recovered.

U. N. raiding parties jabbed into Red lines on both the eastern and western fronts, hammered at Red positions, then returned to their own lines.

An Allied patrol on the central front was ambushed southeast of Kumsong and had a stiff fight in extricating itself. Farther west, another Allied patrol touched off a heavy artillery exchange when it bumped into a Chinese force on a hill west of Chorwon.

Armistice Talks Near "Complete Collapse"

MUNSAN, Korea, Thursday, Jan 24 (AP) — Korean armistice negotiations are drifting toward "a complete statemate" Rear Adm. R. E. Libby, chief Allied negotiator on the prisoner exchange issue, said Wednesday.

(At the same time, a Chinese Red negotiator on truce supervision, Maj. Gen. Heieh Fang, charged the talks were taking a "new, dangerous turn" due to four "provocative" incidents by Allied aircraft within 11 days. He was quoted in a Peiping broadcast heard at San Francisco.)

No progress was made Wednesday on either prisoner exchange or an Allied proposal ban on construction of Red airfields during a truce.

Libby Looks Discouraged

Stepping out of a fruitless two hour and 50-minute session on prisoners, Libby looked weary and discouraged.

He said the negotiators would meet again but added: "I don't know exactly why.

"I don't know if we're coming up with a complete stalemate—it looks like it."

In other developments Wednesday:

1. The U. N. command admitted that an Allied plane dropped a 1,000 pound bomb by mistake inside the Kaesong neutral zone on Jan. 17. The pilot inadvertently pushed his bomb release when intending to drop a wing tank, the Allies reported after an investigation.

Allies Admit Strafing Convoy

2. The Allies also said that further evidence indicated a Communist armistice convoy was strafed by Fifth Air Force planes on the Pyongyang-Kaesong highway Jan. 18. The Reds had protested two men were wounded. Allied investigators said planes struck at antiaircraft positions and construction crews near Hanpo bridge, about two miles north of Kaesong, but did not see convoy vehicles on the road. They concluded the Red vehicles must have been hidden beneath trees.

3. The Communists agreed to give the U. N. command today a map marked with the exact location of 11 prisoner of war camps in North Korea. The staff officers conferred on safeguards for prisoners as the result of an alleged Allied bombing the night of Jan. 14 of a prison camp near Kangdong.

King Backs Truman's Tax Agency Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Chairman King (D-Calif) of the House committee that turned up the tax collection scandals today endorsed President Truman's plan for reorganizing the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Backing in particular the plan to put the supervising regional collectors under civil service, King conceded that you can't legislate honesty into anybody who intends to be dishonest.

"But," he said, "it should be noted that thus far in the investigation of collectors, of whom there are at least 17 career men out of 64, not one single appointee who was actually a career man has been found corrupt."

King testified before the House Expenditures Committee which is considering the reorganization plan.

Twins' Mother May Go To Jail

Mrs. Henry M. Morey, St. Louis, is shown with her 7-year-old twins, Marilyn (left) and Carolyn, who are barred from school because their parents refuse to abide by school regulations requiring children to be vaccinated against smallpox. Warrants charge the parents with failing to send the children to school. Mrs. Morey says she will go to jail rather than have her daughters vaccinated.

Acheson Backs Ike's European Convention Call

Kefauver, McMahon Also Endorse Idea

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson stamped American government approval today on Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's suggestion to European nations that they hold a constitutional convention for unity.

He made his statement at a news conference in which he also said this country is most eager for an agreement on the differences that have held up action under a plan for a six-nation European army.

In backing up Eisenhower's call for a unity convention of Europe, Acheson ranged himself alongside a large segment of Congress which included some of the potential presidential candidates.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), who announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination later in the day, called the proposal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander "a splendid step in the right direction." Unification would "make it easier for us to work with them," Kefauver said.

Sen. McMahon (D-Conn), whose name has been entered in the Illinois presidential primary against Kefauver, said that urity on the continent "isn't just desirable; it is imperative if Europe is going to be able to handle her own defense in a few years."

"Ike's move is splendid and in the right direction," said Sen. Wiley (R-Wis), senior Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Eisenhower, in a statement from his headquarters near Paris yesterday, said long-term defensive security in Europe "cannot gain strength and stability if it (Europe) is to remain split up in a number of independent economies."

Asked about the Eisenhower proposal today, Acheson said this country enthusiastically supports it.

Mine Deaths Increase

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — The Bureau of Mines reported today it estimates 790 men were killed in the nation's coal mines in 1951, an increase of 148 over the 642 coal mine fatalities in 1950.

Charges Civilians Flogged, Evicted

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 23 (AP)—Egypt's interior minister denounced tonight a British search set off in Ismailia by the slaying of an American nun and declared Suez Canal zone matters have gone beyond the stage of "mere protestations."

The minister, Fouad Serag El Din Pasha, did not say what the next stage would be, but reported "the Egyptian government has had this subject under discussion for two days."

Asked by a reporter whether Egypt is considering using her army to guard Egyptians in the canal zone, he said:

"This is a matter left to the discretion of the Cabinet. I am not in a position to talk about that."

"Outrageous Aggression"

Serag El Din told a news conference the British have committed "outrageous aggressions" in the house-to-house search for hidden arms since Sister Anthony, 52-year-old Roman Catholic nun, was shot through the heart Saturday. She was killed as she stepped from a convent in Ismailia to welcome a British tank detachment.

He said he had lodged a protest with Lt. Gen. George Erskine, the British commander, "demanding an immediate cessation," but Erskine replied the steps were necessary to protect his forces and insure the safety of nationals of friendly states.

"These are only pretexts x x x," Serag El Din said of Erskine's reply. "No foreign national that I know of has asked for protection."

Floggings Charged

The minister declared the British "flogged Egyptian civilians, unleashed wild dogs on them, evicted them from their homes" and desecrated a mosque and a cemetery.

He said an Egyptian witness had reported the British "crucified" a young Egyptian on a tree in the Ismailia cemetery, set dogs on him and still hold him, although he is in a serious condition.

Demo Treasurer Quits

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—Former Gov. Roy J. Turner of Oklahoma announced here today he has submitted his resignation as national treasurer of the Democratic Party because of his wife's serious illness.

Patterson Will Be Buried In Arlington

NEW YORK Jan. 23 (AP)—Former War Secretary Robert P. Patterson will be given a military burial Friday in Washington's Arlington National Cemetery.

Patterson, 60, was killed yesterday in the Elizabeth, N. J., crash of an American Airlines plane. He resigned as secretary of war in 1947.

President Truman is expected to attend the funeral services Friday at the National Cathedral in Washington.

Rep. Wood Won't Run

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Rep. Wood (D-Ga), chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, announced today he would not seek reelection this year because he "cannot afford to stay in Congress."

Members of the House get $12,500 salary plus a $2,500 tax-free expense allowance.

HAT'S IN RING — Sen. Estes Kefauver (above), of Tennessee, yesterday announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

One Slain; $174,000 In Loot Recovered

JUAREZ, Mexico, Jan. 23 (AP)—A band of border bandits shot it out today with police and soldiers and lost. One bandit was killed, another wounded, two others captured and $174,000 in loot from a daring bank robbery recovered.

Federal police headquarters at Mexico City said tonight two additional bank robbers had been surrounded near Zaragoza, south of Juarez.

More than 200 shots from rifles and machine guns were exchanged in the fight in the village of San Lorenzo, six miles south of Juarez, where the bandits holed up after robbing El Banco Nacional here yesterday.

Loot Packed In Suitcases

The robbery loot, packed in three suitcases and a handbag, was found in the house and returned to the bank.

Police also arrested the owner of the house, Marguerita Dominguez, 31.

The dead man was identified by El Paso, Tex., Deputy Sheriff Bob Bailey as Alfonso Rey, 30, and the wounded man as his one-armed brother, Leopoldo Rey, 25.

They are wanted just across the border in El Paso for a $1,000 robbery of a housing project office on Dec. 6.

Held in Juarez jail are Lorenzo Gonzales, 31, and Simon Loya, 25, members of the bandit gang, and Marguerita Dominguez.

Bandits Open Fire

Twenty-five Juarez police and Mexican federal troops joined in the gun battle against the bandits.

Informed that the bandits were hidden with the loot in the house, police and troops surrounded it. When they approached the bandits opened fire and the officers fired back.

In the first exchange Alfonso was killed. Another burst of bullets sent the three remaining bandits on a run to escape. After about 150 yards, Leopoldo dropped with a bullet in his head. Then the other two men surrendered. No officers were hurt.

Nepal Revolt Is Reported; India May Act

NEW DELHI, India, Thursday, Jan. 24 (AP)—A revolt against the newly-liberalized government of Nepal was reported today. India was described as ready to intervene if necessary to save the Himilayan kingdom from the fate of neighboring Communist-captive Tibet.

The Hindustan Times and other Indian morning newspapers said the revolt has been put down for the moment and 400 rebels are under arrest at Khatmandu, the capital, but unease continues.

Some reports said the rebels were supported by left-wing elements or infiltrated Communists.

Informed sources here said unless the situation is brought under control quickly there is every possibility that India will step in to restore stability.

India regards Nepal as responsible for guarding a 550-mile Himalayan border with Tibet, which now is under Red China's control.

Taft Leads Ike In Poll

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Quick magazine said today Sen. Taft of Ohio led Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a poll by the magazine to determine the preference of Republican senators for the GOP presidential nomination.

Of 44 senators polled, Taft received 17 votes and Eisenhower 12, Quick said.

Military Assistance To Iran Is Held Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—W. Averell Harriman said today United States shipments of military material to Iran are being held up pending Iran's qualification for such aid under the Mutual Security Act.

Harriman, director of the mutual security program, disclosed at the same time that economic or technical assistance is being withheld from Afghanistan, Burma, Egypt, Iraq and Ireland.

Harriman informed four congressional committees by letter that Iran has qualified to receive economic and technical assistance and such assistance "will go forward."

Course For Ghost Writers Is Planned By University

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — A course of study for ghost writers will open next month at American University.

Among other things, they will be taught to write in such a way that orators will understand at all times what they are saying.

Dr. Walter P. Bowman, head of the university's department of communications who will teach the course, said today that ghost writers are "indispensable artisans" although only a few years ago they were "inadmissible."

"Most of the great speeches we hear are written in a whole or in part by someone backstage," he said. "It is time we recognized the fact and offered suitable training in the art of writing speeches."

There are no official estimates on how many ghost writers pen speeches in Washington, but D. W. Osten, assistant director of public relations at American U., told a reporter "there must be more than 150 at the top level in Washington alone."

Osten said the toughest part of a ghost's job is adjusting his own talents to fit the mental and oratorical capacities of the man for whom he is writing his speech.

Crime-Hunting Demo Senator "In To Finish"

Urges "New Blood" In U. S. Political Life

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today with a call for "new blood and new ideas" in the nation's political life.

The crime-hunting senator emphasized that he will be a stick-to-the-end candidate, with no interest in settling for the vice presidency in the event President Truman decides to seek reelection.

"I am not a candidate for any other office," Kefauver told a news conference.

"I am going to work hard to win. I'm in until the finish."

The Tennesseean, who skyrocketed to national prominence last year as chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, also declared he will campaign for a "clean house" in government and an end to "the unholy alliance between the criminal element and some men in politics."

He said he will lay stress on developing "the positive and great elements in our foreign policy," and seek to push a "policy of strength" as a "democratic counter-offensive against Communism."

First Demo To Declare

As Kefauver spoke, his attractive auburn-haired wife, Nancy, and one of their four children, 10-year-old Linda, sat beside him.

Kefauver is the first Democrat to declare himself formally for the presidential nomination. So far, three Republicans — Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), Gov. Earl Warren of California and Harold E. Stassen — have bid for the GOP nomination.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is a fourth potential GOP candidate. He has said he will not seek the nomination, but will obey a "clear-cut call to duty" if nominated.

Kefauver already has been entered in the Illinois primary, which occurs April 8. He is pitted there against Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut. There have been reports that McMahon's entry is part of an effort by Truman supporters to check the Kefauver movement.

Another Democrat whose name has been placed in the presidential picture is Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota who has been entered as a "favorite son" in the Minnesota primary, March 18.

DiSalle In Senate Race

Shortly before Kefauver announced his candidacy, new hints arose that President Truman may seek reelection.

Democratic National Committeeman John Nangle of the President's home state told newsmen he has "no doubt" that Mr. Truman will run again. Emerging from a White House visit, Nangle said Mr. Truman had not disclosed his plans, but he commented:

"I do think President Truman will run for the presidency again."

Elsewhere on the political scene:

1. Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told reporters, "Well, I'm gonna do it" — quit his federal post to seek the U. S. Senate seat now held by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

The chubby, 44-year-old price boss will try for the Democratic nomination.

2. Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, both frequently mentioned as potential "dark horse" candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, declared themselves out of the picture.

Fort Dix Worker Kills Three, Self

FORT DIX, N. J., Jan. 23 (AP) — A Fort Dix civilian worker killed three women members of his family with an automatic pistol tonight and then committed suicide, state police said.

Garner Powers, 32, shot to death his estranged wife, Gloria, 27, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen De Mayo, 59, and Mrs. Louise Bowker, 61, his wife's aunt, the police said.

The shooting took place in the Powers home in the cross-roads settlement of Cream Ridge, where the families lived near each other.

Before shooting himself, State Police Sgt. Ernest Stedler said, Powers grabbed his four-year-old son and shoved the boy into the hands of a neighbor, Mrs. M. H. Pilla. He ran back to his own home, where the three women lay dead, and fired one bullet from the .45 caliber pistol into his head, Stedler said.

Mrs. Pilla, nearly hysterical, telephoned state police to report the slayings.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (INS)—Democratic leaders are bringing tremendous pressure to bear on the President, a man known for his ability to resist it, to get him to declare his presidential intentions.

Chief cause of their apprehensive fret is that there is a depressing dearth of outstanding successors as the party's banner carrier, in case the President yields to an equally determined pressure group—his wife and daughter—who want him to bow out as a means of adding years to his life span.

Truth of the matter, a man close to him swears, is that Mr. Truman just does not know which way he will turn at this time. He understands the concern of his backers. It would take them several months to build up a successor capable of prolonging the party's long stay in the White House.

Power does not always corrupt, but quite often it proves a very concentrating force that makes its holder glow brightly—yet not illuminate those around him. Mr. Truman himself was scarcely known to the people when the accident of Mr. Roosevelt's death thrust him into the highest office. Mr. Roosevelt had no obvious successor in his court. Mr. Truman followed the same pattern. If he is getting out, his political heir will need a tremendous buildup—a most difficult task in a day when the populace regards most office seekers with a shade of skepticism difficult to eradicate.

Chief Justice Fred Vinson, at 62, has been mentioned as one who might be handed the torch if Mr. Truman tires of it. But the nature of his post in recent years has removed him from public view and, almost, public mind. The two-best-known Democratic governors, Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Frank Lausche of Ohio, would have the problem of expanding their friendships from strictly regional areas. Sen. Paul Douglas doesn't want the role nor is it likely that Mr. Truman would tap him for it, in view of their dispute.

Sen. Kefauver, 48 years old, would appear—at this writing—to be a possible choice. But no one quite knows just how Mr. Truman, who'll guide the selection, if it is made, feels about him. The senator slightly horrified the party leaders during the course of his celebrated probe, and his calm castigation of Mr. Truman's appointee as ambassador to Mexico, Mr. O'Dwyer, is remembered around the White House.

The Republicans appear to be in somewhat better shape so far as candidates are concerned. They have what is called in football a "deeper" team. But its very depth could prove a hindrance. If their convention is reduced to a bitter family quarrel between old line and new line GOP leaders, they will have lost or seriously hurt their chances of a united assault on the Fair Deal's tender spots: Corruption in government, the situation in the Far East, heavy taxes, rising costs, the firing of Gen. MacArthur and so forth.

There is a plainer Republican handicap, which the Democrats are counting upon heavily to offset the continued silence of the President and the rough task that will fall to them if they must steam up a new champ on short notice. The polls (if you'll excuse the expression) show that the GOP has become a minority party. There just are more Democrats today than there were 20 years ago. The independents, estimated at perhaps 10,000,000 voters, will decide this one.

A survey I made of representatives of the Eisenhower, Taft and Stassen camps in Washington this week brought out an interesting point in connection with Gen. MacArthur. These spokesmen showed what amounted to a new concern over MacArthur's reinforced role in the race. The general has doggedly rebuffed those who wish to put his name in the competition.

But the general will make a speech at the convention. It is not the keynote address. "But it will turn into one," a Taft man said. "You can bet on that. And you can never tell what those delegates will do."

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headaches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Mr. Truman himself was scarcely known to the people when the accident of Mr. Roosevelt's death thrust him into the highest office. Mr. Roosevelt had no obvious successor in his court. Mr. Truman followed the same pattern. If he is getting out, his political heir will need a tremendous buildup—a most difficult task in a day when the populace regards most office seekers with a shade of skepticism difficult to eradicate.

Chief Justice Fred Vinson, at 62, has been mentioned as one who might be handed the torch if Mr. Truman tires of it. But the nature of his post in recent years has removed him from public view and, almost, public mind. The two-best-known Democratic governors, Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Frank Lausche of Ohio, would have the problem of expanding their friendships from strictly regional areas. Sen. Paul Douglas doesn't want the role nor is it likely that Mr. Truman would tap him for it, in view of their dispute.

Sen. Kefauver, 48 years old, would appear—at this writing—to be a possible choice. But no one quite knows just how Mr. Truman, who'll guide the selection, if it is made, feels about him. The senator slightly horrified the party leaders during the course of his celebrated probe, and his calm castigation of Mr. Truman's appointee as ambassador to Mexico, Mr. O'Dwyer, is remembered around the White House.

The Republicans appear to be in somewhat better shape so far as candidates are concerned. They have what is called in football a "deeper" team. But its very depth could prove a hindrance. If their convention is reduced to a bitter family quarrel between old line and new line GOP leaders, they will have lost or seriously hurt their chances of a united assault on the Fair Deal's tender spots: Corruption in government, the situation in the Far East, heavy taxes, rising costs, the firing of Gen. MacArthur and so forth.

There is a plainer Republican handicap, which the Democrats are counting upon heavily to offset the continued silence of the President and the rough task that will fall to them if they must steam up a new champ on short notice. The polls (if you'll excuse the expression) show that the GOP has become a minority party. There just are more Democrats today than there were 20 years ago. The independents, estimated at perhaps 10,000,000 voters, will decide this one.

A survey I made of representatives of the Eisenhower, Taft and Stassen camps in Washington this week brought out an interesting point in connection with Gen. MacArthur. These spokesmen showed what amounted to a new concern over MacArthur's reinforced role in the race. The general has doggedly rebuffed those who wish to put his name in the competition.

But the general will make a speech at the convention. It is not the keynote address. "But it will turn into one," a Taft man said. "You can bet on that. And you can never tell what those delegates will do."

Tour Postponed

A tour of the Potomac Edison River Plant by approximately 50 students of scientific classes of Allegany High School has been postponed until next Wednesday at 1:30 p. m., the Smoke Abatement Department announced yesterday.

The group which was to have toured the plant today is studying the smoke control program.

A school of "soldier" trout will all swim in the same direction, at the same speed, each a set number of "paces" apart.

Sea level in the distant past dropped many feet when untold tons of water were locked up in advancing glaciers.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headaches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

LaVale Man Dies 17 Months Following Rare Operation

Earl Crowe, the 46-year-old LaVale man given a new lease on life last March by a piece of plastic tubing, died yesterday morning at Allegany Hospital where he had been a patient since Saturday.

Seventeen months ago, Mr. Crowe, a pipe fitter, began to slowly starve. A local physician diagnosed his trouble and sent him to a specialist in Sinai Hospital in Baltimore

There a section of cancerous gullet was removed and was replaced with a plastic tube in a rare and delicate operation.

The operation was the subject of a series of pictures in Life Magazine July 9, 1951.

Members of his family said the operation was a success and he could eat normally three weeks after the tube had been inserted. But the cancer spread to other sections of his body and caused his death.

He was born in Avilton the son of Isaac Walter Crowe and the late Minnie (Robeson) Crowe. He was married to the former Helen Catherine Klosterman of LaVale.

Besides his father and wife, he is survived by one brother, Wilmer D. Crowe, LaVale; a half brother Hilary George Michaels, Detroit; and five sisters, Mrs. Leda Krausz and Mrs. Mae Biller, both of this city; Mrs. Pearl Brooks, Lake Milton, Ohio; and Mrs. Jessie Evans and Mrs. Datha Evans, Brookfield, Ohio.

The body will remain at the Hafer Funeral Home. Services will be held 9 a. m. Saturday in SS. Peter and Paul Church with Rev. Louis Glantz, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

25 County Men To Be Inducted

The four draft boards in Allegany County received orders yesterday to send a total of 25 selectees to Baltimore next month for induction into the armed forces.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk co-ordinator here, said the contingent will leave February 7. Boards and the number of inductees slated for military service are:

No. 27, eight; No. 28, five, and No. 29, seven, all of Cumberland, and No. 30, five, Frostburg. Names were withheld pending a final check of Selective Service records.

Fahey noted that the induction day was changed from Monday to Thursday in the orders. Monday had been the day of departure for draftees since before the Korean war began June 25, 1950.

Departure instructions accompanied the induction directive. A Blue Ridge bus will pick up selectees of Board No. 30 in Frostburg at 6:30 a. m. and come to Cumberland.

Inductees leaving here will assemble at draft headquarters in the Union Street County Building at 6:30 a. m. for final briefing prior to boarding the bus at 7 o'clock.

The Frostburg board is responsible for arranging transportation and appointing a leader for the draftees. The bus will arrive in Baltimore at 11:30 a. m.

Bibby Is Re-elected

G. William Bibby, president of the Cumberland Brewing Company, has been re-elected to the Board of Directors of the U. S. Brewers Foundation which is holding its 76th annual convention in New Orleans.

Priest To Talk At K. C. Event

Rev. George J. Pugh, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport, will speak at the annual Communion father-son breakfast of Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, Sunday.

The event will be held in St. Patrick's Social Center following 8:30 mass in the parish church. Joseph F. Stakem has been named toastmaster.

Grand Knight Joseph H. Love will preside and give the 'Welcome Address."

Father Pugh went to Westernport after he was ordained December 22, 1945, in Baltimore. For the past three years he has been chaplain of Piedmont, W. Va., Council No. 685, Knights of Columbus.

In charge of the breakfast are James E. Rickard, chairman, and Thomas Simon, John J. Loibel, Francis T. Kastner, Earl Darber, A. Fred Hokamp and Arthur McDade.

No. 27, eight; No. 28, five, and No. 29, seven, all of Cumberland, and No. 30, five, Frostburg. Names were withheld pending a final check of Selective Service records.

Fahey noted that the induction day was changed from Monday to Thursday in the orders. Monday had been the day of departure for draftees since before the Korean war began June 25, 1950.

Departure instructions accompanied the induction directive. A Blue Ridge bus will pick up selectees of Board No. 30 in Frostburg at 6:30 a. m. and come to Cumberland.

Inductees leaving here will assemble at draft headquarters in the Union Street County Building at 6:30 a. m. for final briefing prior to boarding the bus at 7 o'clock.

The Frostburg board is responsible for arranging transportation and appointing a leader for the draftees. The bus will arrive in Baltimore at 11:30 a. m.

Bibby Is Re-elected

G. William Bibby, president of the Cumberland Brewing Company, has been re-elected to the Board of Directors of the U. S. Brewers Foundation which is holding its 76th annual convention in New Orleans.

Priest To Talk At K. C. Event

Rev. George J. Pugh, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport, will speak at the annual Communion father-son breakfast of Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, Sunday.

The event will be held in St. Patrick's Social Center following 8:30 mass in the parish church. Joseph F. Stakem has been named toastmaster.

Grand Knight Joseph H. Love will preside and give the 'Welcome Address."

Father Pugh went to Westernport after he was ordained December 22, 1945, in Baltimore. For the past three years he has been chaplain of Piedmont, W. Va., Council No. 685, Knights of Columbus.

In charge of the breakfast are James E. Rickard, chairman, and Thomas Simon, John J. Loibel, Francis T. Kastner, Earl Darber, A. Fred Hokamp and Arthur McDade.

Fat Boy Of The Kremlin

"Let me have men about me who are fat," cried Shakespeare's Julius Caesar. Today Josef Stalin's right-hand man is Georgi Malenkov, who is fat. Turned 50, Malenkov is already older than Stalin was when Lenin died, and he is a good bet to succeed his septuagenarian chief. His ascension to the bolshevik throne may be over the dead body of Molotov.

But the post of party secretary is a strategic one. Stalin used it before him to infiltrate the bureaucracy with his own men and thus out-maneuver Trotsky. Malenkov—especially, if as reported, he has the backing of Beria, head of the secret police—may be able to turn the trick against Molotov.

The Communist party of Russia gave him quite a birthday celebration. Two center columns on page one of all principal newspapers were devoted to him. That is not to be overlooked where four-page editions are the general rule.

The West has an interest in Stalin's death that might seem ghoulish under other circumstances. The Red dictator will not live forever, fortunately. His successor may be as bad, or worse, as only men close to Stalin rate a chance. But it is worth remembering that Lenin's death started a Stalin-Trotsky feud that lasted through the purges of the mid-thirties—ending in the liquidation of Trotsky in Mexico — and so absorbed the belligerence of the Kremlin that Russia's neighbors were relatively safe.

Ever since 1945, the Communist world has been waiting for the United States to have another depression. That will be the signal for Russia to undertake new conquests without too much fear of American interference. But the civilized world has another hope: That there will be another long feud over the succession to Stalin, culminating in the overthrow of the bolshevik regime.

Delegates By Geography

The Republican National Committee, at its recent meeting in San Francisco, made only one change (five more delegates for Washington), in what had been its tentative assignment of delegates to the respective states in the 1952 national convention. How does the distribution of delegates, state by state, affect the respective chances of Taft and Eisenhower for the nomination?

It seems to be generally agreed that Taft is strongest in the Middle West, and then in the South, and that Eisenhower is strongest in the East. Neither camp seems willing to concede that the other has an edge in the West.

The 12 states of the Middle West (including Missouri) will have 372 delegates in the Republican convention. The ten states of the Solid South will have 172, which make a total of 544 when added to the 372. If the 56 delegates from Oklahoma, Kentucky, and Tennessee — sometimes called Southern states, sometimes called Border states—are added, the total becomes 600—and 603 will nominate.

The six New England and the three Middle Atlantic states have a total of 314 delegates. If Maryland and Delaware are added to make up the so-called "East," the total becomes 352. So the region where the general is supposed to be strongest has only about 60 per cent as many delegates as the regions where the senator is supposed to be strongest.

Of course, nobody expects Taft to get all, or even almost all, of the votes from the Middle West and the South on the first ballot at the convention. But neither does anybody expect Eisenhower to have all the votes from the East—for instance, the Taft forces are claiming one-fifth of those from New York. All the same, the geographical distribution of the total number of delegates is another indication that the Eisenhower supporters have an uphill fight on their hands.

Grange And Railroads

An advertisement appearing in many newspapers in the East, inserted by the eastern railroads, carries a letter to the Eastern Railroads Presidents Conference from Herschel D. Newsom, manager of the National Grange. Under the headline, "Farm Group Urges Modernization of National Transportation Policy," the letter discusses the historic attitude of the Grange on the issue of railway regulation and declares that its past transportation policy demands reexamination.

It is a striking fact that the Grange's past policy on railway regulation goes back to 1876, according to the letter, when the Grange first proposed regulation of the railroads. At that time there were only two other kinds of transportation, not counting walking: Water and horse. The railroads had a virtual monopoly. In the intervening years conditions have changed.

Moreover, costs have risen too steeply in recent years that the railroads, instead of enjoying freedom from competition, have been engaged in a struggle to stay alive in an increasingly sharp struggle. This the National Grange recognizes as a problem the railroads need help in meeting — unless they are to be taken over by the government or subsidized by the government.

What is needed is, the Grange says, modernization of "our total transportation policy" so that all forms can develop freely and none will be discriminated against.

He Who Got Slapped

Actor James Mason slapped Playwright William Saroyan in a Hollywood movie the other day, and says he was only acting for every frustrated movie fan in the world.

Assuming that the story is correct—that Mason was trying to concentrate on the movie and that Saroyan, a few rows ahead of him, was jabbering away —it is easy to appreciate the anger that prompted the slap.

There are all sorts of characters who talk in the movies. The doting mother eager to explain everything to Junior who can ask more questions than a district attorney. The popcorn munching girl who insists on giving rein to her reaction to the love scenes. The wise guy who wants to pick apart the costumes worn in an historical movie.

These are every day nuisances in every day movies, the nation over. But most movie fans do not go around slapping people. They just glare at the annoyers, or move away. However, Actor Mason took the law in his hand (literally) and made a story out of his protest.

If he had slapped just any one, that wouldn't have been a story. But William Saroyan—that's different! Even if it was a press agent's weird idea of publicity, it's still good enough for comment.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Mononucleosis, A Tiring Disease

Most physicians have been consulted by individuals suffering from a slight cold that refused to go away. They were not desperately ill but the cold was getting the best of them and help was needed. Some even wondered about cancer of the throat, tuberculosis, or chronic sinus infection.

This is an old story and the physician follows a regular routine to solve the problem. A thoro examination often determines the cause but in many patients X-ray and special blood tests are required. All too often, the outcome is infectious mononucleosis, one of our worst sounding diseases, yet one of the most innocent. It is important to recognize because it mimics several other disorders, varying from the common cold to the dreaded leukemia.

The malady favors young adults but age is no barrier; the disturbance has been diagnosed in infants of 7 months and men and women of 70 years. It begins like a simple respiratory infection, with or without sore throat. Fatigue is not unusual and most victims complain of headache, generalized aching, and loss of appetite. Fever of a nondescriptive nature is present and enlargement of the glands occurs, particularly those in the back of the neck. In addition, they frequently are hard and tender to the touch. Because the temperature remains elevated for five to 10 days and the glandular swelling rarely subsides in less than three weeks, the victim becomes concerned by the end of the first week. A blood test at this time will disclose an increase in the number of lymphocytes in the blood which is only natural because the lymphatic tissue is involved in this disease.

This is the typical picture. It is the atypical cases that have made some physicians famous and others lose their reputations. In some instances infectious mononucleosis settles chiefly in the liver and leads to a condition somewhat similar to infectious hepatitis. The yellow skin draws attention to the liver and away from the real cause. Other sufferers develop a rash which may resemble measles, hives, or scarlet fever. This too leads to errors in diagnosis. When the brain is attacked, another group of disorders may be suggested, varying from encephalitis to polio. Fortunately these complications are not common; as a rule the outlook is good and fatalities are rare.

There is no specific treatment but the majority recover faster when they remain in bed. The sulfas, aureomycin, and chloromycetin have been tried with uneven results. Their use has led to dramatic response in some but not in others. Adenosine monophosphate has been tried in a few cases and the effect of the preparation seemed good. Although the disease is labeled "infectious" its communicability has been questioned. Nevertheless, large outbreaks have occurred especially in the spring and fall. Fatigue, which is the outstanding symptom, may persist for weeks or months, interfering with studies or work.

EAR INFECTION

Mrs. F. writes: You say that there is no excuse for having a running ear today. I'm 48 years old and my left ear has drained for 45 years even tho I've consulted some of the best physicians. How do you explain this?

REPLY

There are exceptions to every rule, assuming you followed the advice of the ear specialists you consulted. You also fall into a slightly different category than today's victims of ear infection as my statement referred chiefly to new cases.

MENTALITY

Mrs. D. writes: Would a slow witted child be considered mentally retarded?

REPLY

This depends on what is meant by slow witted. A child is said to be mentally retarded when his mental development is such that he is incapable of social adaptation. One way in which mentality is measured is by the use of the intelligence quotient tests. An I. Q. of 51-75 usually indicates a moron; 21-50, an imbecile, and 0-20, an idiot.

SCABIES REMEDIES

A. W. W. writes: If nothing is done about "the itch" will it disappear by itself in seven years.

REPLY

No. This disorder (scabies) will persist if untreated; but the remedies now available will cure it in less than seven days. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this form of itch.

NATURAL AND SYNTHETIC

J. K. writes: Which are superior, the natural or the synthetic vitamins?

REPLY

If you refer to the natural vitamins in food, I would say this type is best; there is no substitute for a normal diet. But if you refer to manufactured products, to my knowledge there is no difference between what is called the natural and the synthetic types.

Democratic Party Experiences Healthy Realignment; White House Nobility Jockeys For Position; "Duke Of Tennessee" Challenges The Old Guard

WASHINGTON — Beneath the surface, the Democratic party is experiencing some of the most important realignments in 30 years. Leaders are dickering, jockeying, trading for position. There is a restless ferment in the air not seen among Democrats in a generation.

Beneath the ferment, of course, is a race to the throne—as an old monarch totters.

It is a race that is beginning to split the party up as never since the Al Smith-McAdoo Catholic-Protestant struggle at the Democratic Convention of 1924. And it has developed into a race not only between the monarch and his nobility but between the nobility themselves.

Here is how the struggle stacks up to date:

TRUMAN'S STRATEGY—Is based upon the monarch's right to put a princeling of his own choosing on the throne. To that end his strategy is to control each state delegation until he is ready to anoint the head of his successor. That is why ex-Sen. Robert Bulkley, 72 years old and not even remotely a candidate, will run as Ohio's favorite son in an attempt to control the Ohio delegation. That's also why Sen. Hubert Humphrey, though not a candidate, will run as Minnesota's favorite son to control the Minnesota delegation—and so on.

Then, just before the convention, these favorite sons will switch their support to the anointed princeling of Truman's choosing.

RESTLESS NOBILITY — Meanwhile, some of the dukes, earls, viscounts and barons around the White House are getting impatient. While they will support Truman if he runs again, they don't like the idea of waiting too long to pick the crown prince.

Among these restless nobles are popular Governor Paul Devers of Massachusetts; Mennen "Soapy" Williams, the energetic governor of Michigan; and Sid McMath, the shrewd anti-Dixiecrat governor of Arkansas. They have been angling with Governors Frank Lausche of Ohio and Adlai Stevenson of Illinois to form a new palace guard and pick the successor before the Duke of Tennessee, Estes Kefauver, garners too many delegates.

KEFAUVER'S STRATEGY—Meanwhile they are quite right about the Duke of Tennessee. He has really been making hay. Not content to have Truman capture the Ohio delegates through favorite-son Bulkley, Kefauver is challenging Truman in Ohio, and will challenge him elsewhere. The Tennessee senator is attracting volunteer Democratic leaders all over the country like Tennessee molasses attracts flies, and will probably end up with Gael Sullivan, former executive director of the Democratic National Committee, as his campaign manager. He is easily the most potent threat to both Truman and the Republicans today.

TRUMAN'S CROWN PRINCE—The man upon whom the President is reported ready to bestow the divine right of succession is Governor Stevenson of Illinois, an able man. When the three Northern governors sounded out Adlai, he was aloof, declined to team up, indicated that the monarch had a right to pick his own princeling.

THE PRINCE OF CONNECTICUT—One of the ablest members of the Senate and a close friend of the President, Sen. Brien McMahon, is doing some Presidential stalking on his own, probably with the idea of ending up on the vice presidential end of the ticket.

THE DUKE OF TEXAS—Modest Sam Rayburn is probably the last man to think of himself as a candidate. However, the Speaker's friends are doing a lot of thinking and planning for him, the most ardent rooters being Sen. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and Congressman John McCormack of Massachusetts.

THE EARL OF KENTUCKY—Vice President Barkley is lying low, saying little. However, some of his friends, led by Senate Secretary Les Biffle, believe that if the Democratic convention faces a deadlock, the party will turn—despite his age—to the old stalwart, who has made more Jefferson-Jackson Day speeches than any other man in history—Alben Barkley.

Such is the novel and healthy jockeying for position in a party where for 20 years almost no one dared challenge the divine right of the monarch to succeed himself.

Washington Pipeline

Attorney General McGrath has not held one single press conference since he took office. Many editors wonder why he isn't willing to answer questions like other officials. . . . Ralph Dyer of Bangor, Maine, a GOP candidate for Congress, may challenge Maine's Senator Brewster in the Republican primary. . . . They haven't been widely publicized, but the President has picked some top men for government recently—Charles Davis, who used to steer the Ways and Means Committee on taxes, to take Oliphant's place as Internal Revenue counsel; and astute Henry Fowler to succeed Manly Fleischmann as head of the National Production Authority. Charley Murphy of the White House staff is credited with their appointments. . . . Captain Carlsen's "Flying Enterprise" went down with one strategic treasure — five tons of columbite ore, badly needed for jet engines. . . . Russia is now reported stockpiling opium for sabotage purposes. Harry Anslinger, chief of the Narcotics Bureau, informed Congress last week that 500 tons of Chinese opium and another 330 tons from Iran have been shipped to the Soviet stockpile.

Well-Suited Congressman

Some strange things have gone on in the offices of congressmen. There was the late senator from Florida, Park Trammell, who slept in his office, never rented a hotel or apartment in Washington.

Then there was his opposite number from New York, Charles A Buckley, who became known as the "phantom congressman," because he was rarely in his office or, for that matter, in Washington. Buckley is still in Congress, but his attendance record is much better since he became chairman of the Public Works Committee.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Philip Murray, president of the CIO, has attempted to discourage Congress from enacting legislation that would emancipate American workers from the conspiracies of the Communists, who take control of key unions in the United States as a part of their plot to dominate the course of labor-management relations in vital industries.

Mr. Murray, in writing to Senator Humphrey, Democrat, of Minnesota, who heads a subcommittee which is studying the question, says that there should not be any legislation affecting the bargaining rights of Communist-controlled unions except after a showing that it is "vitally necessary to our national safety," and he adds: "We do not believe any such showing has been made."

This is virtually a challenge to the subcommittee to demonstrate by testimony what has been happening in Communist-controlled unions in recent years in this country. Mr. Murray asks where is the danger against which Congress seeks to legislate, and then says:

Murray's Statement Questioned

"It is the possibility that a union may seek to instigate a work stoppage, not to rectify the just grievances of the workers, but to hamper production for our defense program and thus to aid Soviet Russia. But there has been no evidence of a single such stoppage despite a year and a half of the war in Korea and an even longer period of the cold war."

Has Mr. Murray overlooked the copper strike which has caused such a shortage of copper as to cut down auto production and cause tens of thousands of members of the CIO Auto Workers' union to walk the streets of Detroit seeking employment? Or has Mr. Murray overlooked the costly dock strikes conducted by unions with Communist influences in them, thus delaying important shipments of goods?

The truth is that, while Mr. Murray claims that the CIO is ridding itself of Communists and has them on the run, the record of what has happened since the charges were preferred against CIO unions shows that there has not been as much alertness or vigilance as he would like to believe has prevailed.

Thus it took from March, 1944—when the House Un-American Activities Committee, after lengthy hearings, published its first report citing 24 CIO unions as under Communist influence—until the CIO convention of 1949 to get eight of these unions expelled. Why did it take five years?

During a large part of those five years, and in fact until 1948, Mr. Murray had at his side as general counsel a member of the Communist party—Lee Pressman—who did not confess until August 28, 1950, that he had been a party member. He stated that he had broken with the party only about 30 days before he made his confession to the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Everybody knows that a general counsel sits in on important policy matters and advises on many questions affecting constituent unions.

The House committee called attention in 1944 to the fact that 18 of the 49 CIO executive board members had Communist records.

Now it is assumed that the CIO has completely purged itself of all such influences, but can it be said that the interests of the United States would not have been better protected if there had been legislation which would have assisted the CIO in getting rid of Communist-controlled unions sooner?

Congress Considering Change

Today the Communists can enjoy collective-bargaining rights in their respective unions. Congress is considering a change in that privilege. Mr. Murray says Communists swear falsely to non-Communist affidavits or they administer union affairs through "fronts" and hence, he argues, the Taft-Hartley provisions requiring anti-Communist affidavits from union officers are no good. What he is saying in effect is that, because persons conspiring to violate the laws of the United States are for the moment not being detected, it serves no useful purpose to have such laws on the statute books.

If the CIO record were one of having dealt promptly with charges of Communist infiltration, its advice not to pass any new law might have greater weight. But having been soiled with Communist infiltration and having been gullible and having been deceived by Communists before, the CIO should be among the forefront of those who are advocating adequate safeguards against Communist conspirators who capture American labor unions through an abuse of collective-bargaining privileges.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Concerning Human Sacrifice

WASHINGTON

The Korean War, which most Americans have comfortably forgotten, can quite easily explode into sharp, renewed fighting before very long. That is the meaning, hard, immediate and unpleasant, of the increasingly bitter exchanges on the prisoner issue between the truce negotiators at Panmunjom.

The issue itself is simple enough. The United Nations forces have taken approximately 160,000 prisoners. Of these, great numbers are South Koreans, conscripted and thrust into the line by the Communists in the first phase of the war. Other large numbers are former Chinese Nationalist soldiers impressed to serve in the Chinese Communist armies. Literally scores of thousands of these unfortunates do not wish to return to their Communist masters.

After the most prolonged and even agonized consideration, the American policy makers decided some time ago that they could not repeat the horror at the end of the second World War, when Russians captured by the Germans were forcibly returned to the Soviet Union. Such scenes as that at the Alpine railway bridge leading into Austria, when nearly a thousand of these involuntary repatriates flung themselves from the windows of their train into the gorge beneath, seemed too terrible to be renewed. Hence the UN negotiators have insisted on prisoner exchange on a voluntary basis. Any other course, it is considered, would be tantamount to offering human sacrifice.

Defection Unthinkable Crime

For the Communist leaders, however, defection is the most unthinkable of all the crimes that their slave-peoples can commit. It moves them almost to hysteria. For example, when Oksana Kasenkina leaped from the Russian Consulate in New York, no less a person than Molotov himself called in the then-American ambassador to Moscow, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, and gave vent to one of the most violent tirades in the troubled history of Soviet-American relations. With equal violence, the Communist negotiators at Panmunjom have insisted on return of all prisoners in UN hands, by force if need be.

Hence what looks like a hard decision by the Communist leaders is diametrically opposed to the hard decision of the American policy makers, who are supported by our allies. This conflict over the prisoner issue is in fact far more serious than the better-publicized problem of the airfields.

No matter what safeguards are provided, the Communists can almost certainly manage to repair the airfields in North Korea, if they desire to do so. The real protection against renewed aggression after a truce has been signed is the readiness of this country and its allies to treat renewed aggression as an act of war, as indicated in Winston Churchill's speech to the Congress. And if the prisoner issue can be satisfactorily settled, a compromise of the airfield question ought not to be too hard to find.

The trouble is that as of today, the prisoner issue does not look like being satisfactorily settled. But this means, in turn, that the interminable truce negotiations are in considerable danger of breaking down for good and all. And if this happens, full-scale fighting in Korea will just as inevitably begin again.

Unattractive Alternatives

What to do in this event is the second problem which the American policy makers have been weighing. Are we to continue with the limited war in Korea, as before? Or are we to go all out this time, fighting to win a decisive victory, and by so doing becoming involved in a head-on clash with Communist China, and taking the risk of war with Russia? The alternatives are unattractive, to put it very mildly.

On balance, the trend seems to be towards the second alternative, if only because the policy makers are unhappily conscious that the American people will insist on fighting to win if they are required to fight at all. It is virtually certain that China will be subjected to a strict naval blockade if the truce talks end and fighting in Korea begins again. And it is also highly probable that other, even stronger measures, such as air attacks on Chinese cities and communications lines, will also be taken. The State Department still opposes bombing China's cities, on the ground that it will gain no victory, and solidify China and the rest of Asia against us. But the Pentagon takes the opposite view, and the Pentagon's arguments, plus the force of public opinion, seem likely to overcome the State Department's opposition in the end.

It is nightmarish that this turn of events should even be a remote possibility. It is nightmarish also to feel that the only escape from this turn of events may be literally to treat scores of thousands of prisoners in our hands as human sacrifices —a course this nation cannot adopt with honor. But this is the age of the air-conditioned nightmare, and these are the choices confronting us.

For the present, we may hope that the Communist negotiators will yield at last, which they may well do. But for the future, since there is no doubt of the danger hanging over us, President Truman would do well, to explain the position to the country. Then, if the worst happens, it will not take everyone utterly by surprise.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Total Loss

Great problems are not lightly solved nor do the slogans that drive men to blind acceptance of postulates save us from error.

Ours is a time when events course by so madly that few stand their ground stubbornly against the sea of troubles. We seem to leap from incident to incident. Suddenly there is a new emergency and men die. Since 1914, great empires have collapsed and nations hardly known then are now world problems.

I never saw all this stated more accurately than in George F. Kennan's study, "American Diplomacy, 1900-1950." Kennan is to be our ambassador to Soviet Russia where he will have the advantage over many of his predecessors, at least, of knowing the language and having a knowledge of the people and country. This is what he wrote:

"I would like first to say a word about the total result of these two world wars in Europe. These wars were fought at the price of some tens of millions of lives, of untold physical destruction, of the destruction of the balance of forces on the continent—at the price of rendering Western Europe dangerously, perhaps fatefully, vulnerable to Soviet power. Both wars were fought, really, with a view to changing Germany: to correcting her behavior, to making the Germans something different from what they were. Yet, today, if one were offered the chance of having back again the Germany of 1913—a Germany run by conservative but relatively moderate people, no Nazis and no Communists, a vigorous Germany, united and unoccupied, full of energy and confidence, able to play a part again in the balancing-off of Russian power in Europe—well, there would be objections to it from many quarters, and it wouldn't make everybody happy; but in many ways it wouldn't sound so bad, in comparison with our problems of today. Now, think what this means. When you tally up the total score of the two wars, in terms of their ostensible objective, you find that if there has been any gain at all, it is pretty hard to discern."

This is not hindsight, certainly not as it applies to World War II. Many warned of the dangers of that enterprise. Such men as Herbert Hoover, Hugh Gibson, Charles Lindbergh, and even this writer, cautioned, before and during that war, against the perils of opening the door to the Russians by destroying the Germans and the Japanese.

We were called Fascists in those days. Yet, the course of events has proved beyond doubt, as Kennan says, that the gains, the advantages, the benefits of these wars are difficult to discern. Actually, there were none. Those wars have proved to be a total loss to civilization.

The question then arises, why otherwise sound persons never see the perils in their own decisions. Perhaps one answer is that without a grounding in history, too many are guided by the angers of the moment. It is like that swift madness that drives a man to destroy his home and family over a trifling quarrel with his wife which the provident person would resolve by understanding and weighing of consequences.

Hitler was an abhorrent personality, but before Hitler, it was possible to meet a defeated Germany with understanding. It was proposed during World War I to hang the kaiser; out of that slogan came Hitler, and his successor is Stalin. And we are still in the course of a war with no end in sight.

Our problem is today, as it has been since 1914, to discover a formula for saving our civilization. We have tried war, appeasement, charity, diplomacy, the League of Nations, the United Nations.

These efforts have failed. The proof of their failure is that we are still at war. True, the battles for the moment have been localized, but the preparations are for a general war. All sides are engaged in such preparations as prevent the stabilization of domestic economies and the restoration of normal living among the people.

Perhaps the cure is a return to nationalism, to each country working out its own problems, each nation forming such agreements with others as prove beneficial without an acceptance of the doctrine of the world state, even in such a modified form as the United Nations.

The probability is that the human mind is not yet ready for heaven on earth and, in the attempt to achieve it, only war and confusion are produced. Surely, this is a time to revalue the accomplishments since 1914.

Fat Boy Of The Kremlin

"Let me have men about me who are fat," cried Shakespeare's Julius Caesar. Today Josef Stalin's right-hand man is Georgi Malenkov, who is fat. Turned 50, Malenkov is already older than Stalin was when Lenin died, and he is a good bet to succeed his septuagenarian chief. His ascension to the bolshevik throne may be over the dead body of Molotov.

But the post of party secretary is a strategic one. Stalin used it before him to infiltrate the bureaucracy with his own men and thus out-maneuver Trotsky. Malenkov—especially, if as reported, he has the backing of Beria, head of the secret police—may be able to turn the trick against Molotov.

The Communist party of Russia gave him quite a birthday celebration. Two center columns on page one of all principal newspapers were devoted to him. That is not to be overlooked where four-page editions are the general rule.

The West has an interest in Stalin's death that might seem ghoulish under other circumstances. The Red dictator will not live forever, fortunately. His successor may be as bad, or worse, as only men close to Stalin rate a chance. But it is worth remembering that Lenin's death started a Stalin-Trotsky feud that lasted through the purges of the mid-thirties—ending in the liquidation of Trotsky in Mexico — and so absorbed the belligerence of the Kremlin that Russia's neighbors were relatively safe.

Ever since 1945, the Communist world has been waiting for the United States to have another depression. That will be the signal for Russia to undertake new conquests without too much fear of American interference. But the civilized world has another hope: That there will be another long feud over the succession to Stalin, culminating in the overthrow of the bolshevik regime.

Delegates By Geography

The Republican National Committee, at its recent meeting in San Francisco, made only one change (five more delegates for Washington), in what had been its tentative assignment of delegates to the respective states in the 1952 national convention. How does the distribution of delegates, state by state, affect the respective chances of Taft and Eisenhower for the nomination?

It seems to be generally agreed that Taft is strongest in the Middle West, and then in the South, and that Eisenhower is strongest in the East. Neither camp seems willing to concede that the other has an edge in the West.

The 12 states of the Middle West (including Missouri) will have 372 delegates in the Republican convention. The ten states of the Solid South will have 172, which make a total of 544 when added to the 372. If the 56 delegates from Oklahoma, Kentucky, and Tennessee — sometimes called Southern states, sometimes called Border states—are added, the total becomes 600—and 603 will nominate.

The six New England and the three Middle Atlantic states have a total of 314 delegates. If Maryland and Delaware are added to make up the so-called "East," the total becomes 352. So the region where the general is supposed to be strongest has only about 60 per cent as many delegates as the regions where the senator is supposed to be strongest.

Of course, nobody expects Taft to get all, or even almost all, of the votes from the Middle West and the South on the first ballot at the convention. But neither does anybody expect Eisenhower to have all the votes from the East—for instance, the Taft forces are claiming one-fifth of those from New York. All the same, the geographical distribution of the total number of delegates is another indication that the Eisenhower supporters have an uphill fight on their hands.

Grange And Railroads

An advertisement appearing in many newspapers in the East, inserted by the eastern railroads, carries a letter to the Eastern Railroads Presidents Conference from Herschel D. Newsom, manager of the National Grange. Under the headline, "Farm Group Urges Modernization of National Transportation Policy," the letter discusses the historic attitude of the Grange on the issue of railway regulation and declares that its past transportation policy demands reexamination.

It is a striking fact that the Grange's past policy on railway regulation goes back to 1876, according to the letter, when the Grange first proposed regulation of the railroads. At that time there were only two other kinds of transportation, not counting walking: Water and horse. The railroads had a virtual monopoly. In the intervening years conditions have changed.

Moreover, costs have risen too steeply in recent years that the railroads, instead of enjoying freedom from competition, have been engaged in a struggle to stay alive in an increasingly sharp struggle. This the National Grange recognizes as a problem the railroads need help in meeting — unless they are to be taken over by the government or subsidized by the government.

What is needed is, the Grange says, modernization of "our total transportation policy" so that all forms can develop freely and none will be discriminated against.

He Who Got Slapped

Actor James Mason slapped Playwright William Saroyan in a Hollywood movie the other day, and says he was only acting for every frustrated movie fan in the world.

Assuming that the story is correct—that Mason was trying to concentrate on the movie and that Saroyan, a few rows ahead of him, was jabbering away —it is easy to appreciate the anger that prompted the slap.

There are all sorts of characters who talk in the movies. The doting mother eager to explain everything to Junior who can ask more questions than a district attorney. The popcorn munching girl who insists on giving rein to her reaction to the love scenes. The wise guy who wants to pick apart the costumes worn in an historical movie.

These are every day nuisances in every day movies, the nation over. But most movie fans do not go around slapping people. They just glare at the annoyers, or move away. However, Actor Mason took the law in his hand (literally) and made a story out of his protest.

If he had slapped just any one, that wouldn't have been a story. But William Saroyan—that's different! Even if it was a press agent's weird idea of publicity, it's still good enough for comment.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Mononucleosis, A Tiring Disease

Most physicians have been consulted by individuals suffering from a slight cold that refused to go away. They were not desperately ill but the cold was getting the best of them and help was needed. Some even wondered about cancer of the throat, tuberculosis, or chronic sinus infection.

This is an old story and the physician follows a regular routine to solve the problem. A thoro examination often determines the cause but in many patients X-ray and special blood tests are required. All too often, the outcome is infectious mononucleosis, one of our worst sounding diseases, yet one of the most innocent. It is important to recognize because it mimics several other disorders, varying from the common cold to the dreaded leukemia.

The malady favors young adults but age is no barrier; the disturbance has been diagnosed in infants of 7 months and men and women of 70 years. It begins like a simple respiratory infection, with or without sore throat. Fatigue is not unusual and most victims complain of headache, generalized aching, and loss of appetite. Fever of a nondescriptive nature is present and enlargement of the glands occurs, particularly those in the back of the neck. In addition, they frequently are hard and tender to the touch. Because the temperature remains elevated for five to 10 days and the glandular swelling rarely subsides in less than three weeks, the victim becomes concerned by the end of the first week. A blood test at this time will disclose an increase in the number of lymphocytes in the blood which is only natural because the lymphatic tissue is involved in this disease.

This is the typical picture. It is the atypical cases that have made some physicians famous and others lose their reputations. In some instances infectious mononucleosis settles chiefly in the liver and leads to a condition somewhat similar to infectious hepatitis. The yellow skin draws attention to the liver and away from the real cause. Other sufferers develop a rash which may resemble measles, hives, or scarlet fever. This too leads to errors in diagnosis. When the brain is attacked, another group of disorders may be suggested, varying from encephalitis to polio. Fortunately these complications are not common; as a rule the outlook is good and fatalities are rare.

There is no specific treatment but the majority recover faster when they remain in bed. The sulfas, aureomycin, and chloromycetin have been tried with uneven results. Their use has led to dramatic response in some but not in others. Adenosine monophosphate has been tried in a few cases and the effect of the preparation seemed good. Although the disease is labeled "infectious" its communicability has been questioned. Nevertheless, large outbreaks have occurred, especially in the spring and fall. Fatigue, which is the outstanding symptom, may persist for weeks or months, interfering with studies or work.

EAR INFECTION

Mrs. F. writes: You say that there is no excuse for having a running ear today. I'm 48 years old and my left ear has drained for 45 years even tho I've consulted some of the best physicians. How do you explain this?

REPLY

There are exceptions to every rule, assuming you followed the advice of the ear specialists you consulted. You also fall into a slightly different category than today's victims of ear infection as my statement referred chiefly to new cases.

MENTALITY

Mrs. D. writes: Would a slow witted child be considered mentally retarded?

REPLY

This depends on what is meant by slow witted. A child is said to be mentally retarded when his mental development is such that he is incapable of social adaptation. One way in which mentality is measured is by the use of the intelligence quotient tests. An I. Q. of 51-75 usually indicates a moron; 21-50, an imbecile, and 0-20, an idiot.

SCABIES REMEDIES

A. W. W. writes: If nothing is done about "the itch" will it disappear by itself in seven years.

REPLY

No. This disorder (scabies) will persist if untreated; but the remedies now available will cure it in less than seven days. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this form of itch.

NATURAL AND SYNTHETIC

J. K. writes: Which are superior, the natural or the synthetic vitamins?

REPLY

If you refer to the natural vitamins in food, I would say this type is best; there is no substitute for a normal diet. But if you refer to manufactured products, to my knowledge there is no difference between what is called the natural and the synthetic types.

Democratic Party Experiences Healthy Realignment; White House Nobility Jockeys For Position; "Duke Of Tennessee" Challenges The Old Guard

WASHINGTON — Beneath the surface, the Democratic party is experiencing some of the most important realignments in 30 years. Leaders are dickering, jockeying, trading for position. There is a restless ferment in the air not seen among Democrats in a generation.

Beneath the ferment, of course, is a race to the throne—as an old monarch totters.

It is a race that is beginning to split the party up as never since the Al Smith-McAdoo Catholic-Protestant struggle at the Democratic Convention of 1924. And it has developed into a race not only between the monarch and his nobility but between the nobility themselves.

Here is how the struggle stacks up to date:

TRUMAN'S STRATEGY—Is based upon the monarch's right to put a princeling of his own choosing on the throne. To that end his strategy is to control each state delegation until he is ready to anoint the head of his successor. That is why ex-Sen. Robert Bulkley, 72 years old and not even remotely a candidate, will run as Ohio's favorite son in an attempt to control the Ohio delegation. That's also why Sen. Hubert Humphrey, though not a candidate, will run as Minnesota's favorite son to control the Minnesota delegation—and so on.

Then, just before the convention, these favorite sons will switch their support to the anointed princeling of Truman's choosing.

RESTLESS NOBILITY — Meanwhile, some of the dukes, earls viscounts and barons around the White House are getting impatient. While they will support Truman if he runs again, they don't like the idea of waiting too long to pick the crown prince.

Among these restless nobles are popular Governor Paul Devers of Massachusetts; Mennen "Soapy" Williams, the energetic governor of Michigan; and Sid McMath, the shrewd anti-Dixiecrat governor of Arkansas. They have been angling with Governors Frank Lausche of Ohio and Adlai Stevenson of Illinois to form a new palace guard and pick the successor before the Duke of Tennessee, Estes Kefauver, garners too many delegates.

KEFAUVER'S STRATEGY—Meanwhile they are quite right about the Duke of Tennessee. He has really been making hay. Not content to have Truman capture the Ohio delegates through favorite-son Bulkley, Kefauver is challenging Truman in Ohio, and will challenge him elsewhere. The Tennessee senator is attracting volunteer Democratic leaders all over the country like Tennessee molasses attracts flies, and will probably end up with Gael Sullivan, former executive director of the Democratic National Committee, as his campaign manager. He is easily the most potent threat to both Truman and the Republicans today.

TRUMAN'S CROWN PRINCE—The man upon whom the President is reported ready to bestow the divine right of succession is Governor Stevenson of Illinois, an able man. When the three Northern governors sounded out Adlai, he was aloof, declined to team up, indicated that the monarch had a right to pick his own princeling.

THE PRINCE OF CONNECTICUT —One of the ablest members of the Senate and a close friend of the President, Sen. Brien McMahon, is doing some Presidential stalking on his own, probably with the idea of ending up on the vice presidential end of the ticket.

THE DUKE OF TEXAS—Modest Sam Rayburn is probably the last man to think of himself as a candidate. However, the Speaker's friends are doing a lot of thinking and planning for him, the most ardent rooters being Sen. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and Congressman John McCormack of Massachusetts.

THE EARL OF KENTUCKY—Vice President Barkley is lying low, saying little. However, some of his friends, led by Senate Secretary Les Biffle, believe that if the Democratic convention faces a deadlock, the party will turn—despite his age —to the old stalwart, who has made more Jefferson-Jackson Day speeches than any other man in history—Alben Barkley.

Such is the novel and healthy jockeying for position in a party where for 20 years almost no one dared challenge the divine right of the monarch to succeed himself.

Washington Pipeline

Attorney General McGrath has not held one single press conference since he took office. Many editors wonder why he isn't willing to answer questions like other officials. . . . Ralph Dyer of Bangor, Maine, a GOP candidate for Congress, may challenge Maine's Senator Brewster in the Republican primary. . . . They haven't been widely publicized, but the President has picked some top men for government recently—Charles Davis, who used to steer the Ways and Means Committee on taxes, to take Oliphant's place as Internal Revenue counsel; and astute Henry Fowler to succeed Manly Fleischmann as head of the National Production Authority. Charley Murphy of the White House staff is credited with their appointments. . . . Captain Carlsen's "Flying Enterprise" went down with one strategic treasure — five tons of columbite ore, badly needed for jet engines. . . . Russia is now reported stockpiling opium for sabotage purposes. Harry Anslinger, chief of the Narcotics Bureau, informed Congress last week that 500 tons of Chinese opium and another 330 tons from Iran have been shipped to the Soviet stockpile.

Well-Suited Congressman

Some strange things have gone on in the offices of congressmen. There was the late senator from Florida, Park Trammell, who slept in his office, never rented a hotel or apartment in Washington.

Then there was his opposite number from New York, Charles A Buckley, who became known as the "phantom congressman," because he was rarely in his office or, for that matter, in Washington. Buckley is still in Congress, but his attendance record is much better since he became chairman of the Public Works Committee.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Philip Murray, president of the CIO, has attempted to discourage Congress from enacting legislation that would emancipate American workers from the conspiracies of the Communists, who take control of key unions in the United States as a part of their plot to dominate the course of labor-management relations in vital industries.

Mr. Murray, in writing to Senator Humphrey, Democrat, of Minnesota, who heads a subcommittee which is studying the question, says that there should not be any legislation affecting the bargaining rights of Communist-controlled unions except after a showing that it is "vitally necessary to our national safety," and he adds: "We do not believe any such showing has been made."

This is virtually a challenge to the subcommittee to demonstrate by testimony what has been happening in Communist-controlled unions in recent years in this country. Mr. Murray asks where is the danger against which Congress seeks to legislate, and then says:

Murray's Statement Questioned

"It is the possibility that a union may seek to instigate a work stoppage, not to rectify the just grievances of the workers, but to hamper production for our defense program and thus to aid Soviet Russia. But there has been no evidence of a single such stoppage despite a year and a half of the war in Korea and an even longer period of the cold war."

Has Mr. Murray overlooked the copper strike which has caused such a shortage of copper as to cut down auto production and cause tens of thousands of members of the CIO Auto Workers' union to walk the streets of Detroit seeking employment? Or has Mr. Murray overlooked the costly dock strikes conducted by unions with Communist influences in them, thus delaying important shipments of goods?

The truth is that, while Mr. Murray claims that the CIO is ridding itself of Communists and has them on the run, the record of what has happened since the charges were preferred against CIO unions shows that there has not been as much alertness or vigilance as he would like to believe has prevailed.

Thus it took from March, 1944—when the House Un-American Activities Committee, after lengthy hearings, published its first report citing 24 CIO unions as under Communist influence—until the CIO convention of 1949 to get eight of these unions expelled. Why did it take five years?

During a large part of those five years, and in fact until 1948, Mr. Murray had at his side as general counsel a member of the Communist party—Lee Pressman—who did not confess until August 28, 1950, that he had been a party member. He stated that he had broken with the party only about 30 days before he made his confession to the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Everybody knows that a general counsel sits in on important policy matters and advises on many questions affecting constituent unions.

The House committee called attention in 1944 to the fact that 18 of the 49 CIO executive board members had Communist records.

Now it is assumed that the CIO has completely purged itself of all such influences, but can it be said that the interests of the United States would not have been better protected if there had been legislation which would have assisted the CIO in getting rid of Communist-controlled unions sooner?

Congress Considering Change

Today the Communists can enjoy collective-bargaining rights in their respective unions. Congress is considering a change in that privilege. Mr. Murray says Communists swear falsely to non-Communist affidavits or they administer union affairs through "fronts" and hence, he argues, the Taft-Hartley provisions requiring anti-Communist affidavits from union officers are no good. What he is saying in effect is that, because persons conspiring to violate the laws of the United States are for the moment not being detected, it serves no useful purpose to have such laws on the statute books.

If the CIO record were one of having dealt promptly with charges of Communist infiltration, its advice not to pass any new law might have greater weight. But having been soiled with Communist infiltration and having been gullible and having been deceived by Communists before, the CIO should be among the forefront of those who are advocating adequate safeguards against Communist conspirators who capture American labor unions through an abuse of collective-bargaining privileges.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Concerning Human Sacrifice

WASHINGTON

The Korean War, which most Americans have comfortably forgotten, can quite easily explode into sharp, renewed fighting before very long. That is the meaning, hard, immediate and unpleasant, of the increasingly bitter exchanges on the prisoner issue between the truce negotiators at Panmunjom.

The issue itself is simple enough. The United Nations forces have taken approximately 160,000 prisoners. Of these, great numbers are South Koreans, conscripted and thrust into the line by the Communists in the first phase of the war. Other large numbers are former Chinese Nationalist soldiers impressed to serve in the Chinese Communist armies. Literally scores of thousands of these unfortunates do not wish to return to their Communist masters.

After the most prolonged and even agonized consideration, the American policy makers decided some time ago that they could not repeat the horror at the end of the second World War, when Russians captured by the Germans were forcibly returned to the Soviet Union. Such scenes as that at the Alpine railway bridge leading into Austria, when nearly a thousand of these involuntary repatriates flung themselves from the windows of their train into the gorge beneath, seemed too terrible to be renewed. Hence the UN negotiators have insisted on prisoner exchange on a voluntary basis. Any other course, it is considered, would be tantamount to offering human sacrifice.

Defection Unthinkable Crime

For the Communist leaders, however, defection is the most unthinkable of all the crimes that their slave-peoples can commit. It moves them almost to hysteria. For example, when Oksana Kasenkina leaped from the Russian Consulate in New York, no less a person than Molotov himself called in the then-American ambassador to Moscow, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, and gave vent to one of the most violent tirades in the troubled history of Soviet-American relations. With equal violence, the Communist negotiators at Panmunjom have insisted on return of all prisoners in UN hands, by force if need be.

Hence what looks like a hard decision by the Communist leaders is diametrically opposed to the hard decision of the American policy makers, who are supported by our allies. This conflict over the prisoner issue is in fact far more serious than the better-publicized problem of the airfields.

No matter what safeguards are provided, the Communists can almost certainly manage to repair the airfields in North Korea, if they desire to do so. The real protection against renewed aggression after a truce has been signed is the readiness of this country and its allies to treat renewed aggression as an act of war, as indicated in Winston Churchill's speech to the Congress. And if the prisoner issue can be satisfactorily settled, a compromise of the airfield question ought not to be too hard to find.

The trouble is that as of today, the prisoner issue does not look like being satisfactorily settled. But this means, in turn, that the interminable truce negotiations are in considerable danger of breaking down for good and all. And if this happens, full-scale fighting in Korea will just as inevitably begin again.

Unattractive Alternatives

What to do in this event is the second problem which the American policy makers have been weighing. Are we to continue with the limited war in Korea, as before? Or are we to go all out this time, fighting to win a decisive victory, and by so doing becoming involved in a head-on clash with Communist China, and taking the risk of war with Russia? The alternatives are unattractive, to put it very mildly.

On balance, the trend seems to be towards the second alternative, if only because the policy makers are unhappily conscious that the American people will insist on fighting to win if they are required to fight at all. It is virtually certain that China will be subjected to a strict naval blockade if the truce talks end and fighting in Korea begins again. And it is also highly probable that other, even stronger measures, such as air attacks on Chinese cities and communications lines, will also be taken. The State Department still opposes bombing China's cities, on the ground that it will gain no victory, and solidify China and the rest of Asia against us. But the Pentagon takes the opposite view, and the Pentagon's arguments, plus the force of public opinion, seem likely to overcome the State Department's opposition in the end.

It is nightmarish that this turn of events should even be a remote possibility. It is nightmarish also to feel that the only escape from this turn of events may be literally to treat scores of thousands of prisoners in our hands as human sacrifices —a course this nation cannot adopt with honor. But this is the age of the air-conditioned nightmare, and these are the choices confronting us.

For the present, we may hope that the Communist negotiators will yield at last, which they may well do. But for the future, since there is no doubt of the danger hanging over us, President Truman would do well, to explain the position to the country. Then, if the worst happens, it will not take everyone utterly by surprise.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Total Loss

Great problems are not lightly solved nor do the slogans that drive men to blind acceptance of postulates save us from error.

Ours is a time when events course by so madly that few stand their ground stubbornly against the sea of troubles. We seem to leap from incident to incident. Suddenly there is a new emergency and men die. Since 1914, great empires have collapsed and nations hardly known then are now world problems.

I never saw all this stated more accurately than in George F. Kennan's study, "American Diplomacy, 1900-1950." Kennan is to be our ambassador to Soviet Russia where he will have the advantage over many of his predecessors, at least, of knowing the language and having a knowledge of the people and country. This is what he wrote:

"I would like first to say a word about the total result of these two world wars in Europe. These wars were fought at the price of some tens of millions of lives, of untold physical destruction, of the destruction of the balance of forces on the continent—at the price of rendering Western Europe dangerously, perhaps fatefully, vulnerable to Soviet power. Both wars were fought, really, with a view to changing Germany: to correcting her behavior, to making the Germans something different from what they were. Yet, today, if one were offered the chance of having back again the Germany of 1913—a Germany run by conservative but relatively moderate people, no Nazis and no Communists, a vigorous Germany, united and unoccupied, full of energy and confidence, able to play a part again in the balancing-off of Russian power in Europe—well, there would be objections to it from many quarters, and it wouldn't make everybody happy; but in many ways it wouldn't sound so bad, in comparison with our problems of today. Now, think what this means. When you tally up the total score of the two wars, in terms of their ostensible objective, you find that if there has been any gain at all, it is pretty hard to discern."

This is not hindsight, certainly not as it applies to World War II. Many warned of the dangers of that enterprise. Such men as Herbert Hoover, Hugh Gibson, Charles Lindbergh, and even this writer, cautioned, before and during that war, against the perils of opening the door to the Russians by destroying the Germans and the Japanese.

We were called Fascists in those days. Yet, the course of events has proved beyond doubt, as Kennan says, that the gains, the advantages, the benefits of these wars are difficult to discern. Actually, there were none. Those wars have proved to be a total loss to civilization.

The question then arises, why otherwise sound persons never see the perils in their own decisions. Perhaps one answer is that without a grounding in history, too many are guided by the angers of the moment. It is like that swift madness that drives a man to destroy his home and family over a trifling quarrel with his wife which the provident person would resolve by understanding and weighing of consequences.

Hitler was an abhorrent personality, but before Hitler, it was possible to meet a defeated Germany with understanding. It was proposed during World War I to hang the kaiser; out of that slogan came Hitler, and his successor is Stalin. And we are still in the course of a war with no end in sight.

Our problem is today, as it has been since 1914, to discover a formula for saving our civilization. We have tried war, appeasement, charity, diplomacy, the League of Nations, the United Nations.

These efforts have failed. The proof of their failure is that we are still at war. True, the battles for the moment have been localized, but the preparations are for a general war. All sides are engaged in such preparations as prevent the stabilization of domestic economies and the restoration of normal living among the people.

Perhaps the cure is a return to nationalism, to each country working out its own problems, each nation forming such agreements with others as prove beneficial without an acceptance of the doctrine of the world state, even in such a modified form as the United Nations.

The probability is that the human mind is not yet ready for heaven on earth and, in the attempt to achieve it, only war and confusion are produced. Surely, this is a time to revalue the accomplishments since 1914.

The West has an interest in Stalin's death that might seem ghoulish under other circumstances. The Red dictator will not live forever, fortunately. His successor may be as bad, or worse, as only men close to Stalin rate a chance. But it is worth remembering that Lenin's death started a Stalin-Trotsky feud that lasted through the purges of the mid-thirties—ending in the liquidation of Trotsky in Mexico — and so absorbed the belligerence of the Kremlin that Russia's neighbors were relatively safe.

Ever since 1945, the Communist world has been waiting for the United States to have another depression. That will be the signal for Russia to undertake new conquests without too much fear of American interference. But the civilized world has another hope: That there will be another long feud over the succession to Stalin, culminating in the overthrow of the bolshevik regime.

Delegates By Geography

The Republican National Committee, at its recent meeting in San Francisco, made only one change (five more delegates for Washington), in what had been its tentative assignment of delegates to the respective states in the 1952 national convention. How does the distribution of delegates, state by state, affect the respective chances of Taft and Eisenhower for the nomination?

It seems to be generally agreed that Taft is strongest in the Middle West, and then in the South, and that Eisenhower is strongest in the East. Neither camp seems willing to concede that the other has an edge in the West.

The 12 states of the Middle West (including Missouri) will have 372 delegates in the Republican convention. The ten states of the Solid South will have 172, which make a total of 544 when added to the 372. If the 56 delegates from Oklahoma, Kentucky, and Tennessee — sometimes called Southern states, sometimes called Border states—are added, the total becomes 600—and 603 will nominate.

The six New England and the three Middle Atlantic states have a total of 314 delegates. If Maryland and Delaware are added to make up the so-called "East," the total becomes 352. So the region where the general is supposed to be strongest has only about 60 per cent as many delegates as the regions where the senator is supposed to be strongest.

Of course, nobody expects Taft to get all, or even almost all, of the votes from the Middle West and the South on the first ballot at the convention. But neither does anybody expect Eisenhower to have all the votes from the East—for instance, the Taft forces are claiming one-fifth of those from New York. All the same, the geographical distribution of the total number of delegates is another indication that the Eisenhower supporters have an uphill fight on their hands.

Grange And Railroads

An advertisement appearing in many newspapers in the East, inserted by the eastern railroads, carries a letter to the Eastern Railroads Presidents Conference from Herschel D. Newsom, manager of the National Grange. Under the headline, "Farm Group Urges Modernization of National Transportation Policy," the letter discusses the historic attitude of the Grange on the issue of railway regulation and declares that its past transportation policy demands reexamination.

It is a striking fact that the Grange's past policy on railway regulation goes back to 1876, according to the letter, when the Grange first proposed regulation of the railroads. At that time there were only two other kinds of transportation, not counting walking: Water and horse. The railroads had a virtual monopoly. In the intervening years conditions have changed.

Moreover, costs have risen too steeply in recent years that the railroads, instead of enjoying freedom from competition, have been engaged in a struggle to stay alive in an increasingly sharp struggle. This the National Grange recognizes as a problem the railroads need help in meeting — unless they are to be taken over by the government or subsidized by the government.

What is needed is, the Grange says, modernization of "our total transportation policy" so that all forms can develop freely and none will be discriminated against.

He Who Got Slapped

Actor James Mason slapped Playwright William Saroyan in a Hollywood movie the other day, and says he was only acting for every frustrated movie fan in the world.

Assuming that the story is correct—that Mason was trying to concentrate on the movie and that Saroyan, a few rows ahead of him, was jabbering away —it is easy to appreciate the anger that prompted the slap.

There are all sorts of characters who talk in the movies. The doting mother eager to explain everything to Junior who can ask more questions than a district attorney. The popcorn munching girl who insists on giving rein to her reaction to the love scenes. The wise guy who wants to pick apart the costumes worn in an historical movie.

These are every day nuisances in every day movies, the nation over. But most movie fans do not go around slapping people. They just glare at the annoyers, or move away. However, Actor Mason took the law in his hand (literally) and made a story out of his protest.

If he had slapped just any one, that wouldn't have been a story. But William Saroyan—that's different! Even if it was a press agent's weird idea of publicity, it's still good enough for comment.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Mononucleosis, A Tiring Disease

Most physicians have been consulted by individuals suffering from a slight cold that refused to go away. They were not desperately ill but the cold was getting the best of them and help was needed. Some even wondered about cancer of the throat, tuberculosis, or chronic sinus infection.

This is an old story and the physician follows a regular routine to solve the problem. A thoro examination often determines the cause but in many patients X-ray and special blood tests are required. All too often, the outcome is infectious mononucleosis, one of our worst sounding diseases, yet one of the most innocent. It is important to recognize because it mimics several other disorders, varying from the common cold to the dreaded leukemia.

The malady favors young adults but age is no barrier; the disturbance has been diagnosed in infants of 7 months and men and women of 70 years. It begins like a simple respiratory infection, with or without sore throat. Fatigue is not unusual and most victims complain of headache, generalized aching, and loss of appetite. Fever of a nondescriptive nature is present and enlargement of the glands occurs, particularly those in the back of the neck. In addition, they frequently are hard and tender to the touch. Because the temperature remains elevated for five to 10 days and the glandular swelling rarely subsides in less than three weeks, the victim becomes concerned by the end of the first week. A blood test at this time will disclose an increase in the number of lymphocytes in the blood which is only natural because the lymphatic tissue is involved in this disease.

This is the typical picture. It is the atypical cases that have made some physicians famous and others lose their reputations. In some instances infectious mononucleosis settles chiefly in the liver and leads to a condition somewhat similar to infectious hepatitis. The yellow skin draws attention to the liver and away from the real cause. Other sufferers develop a rash which may resemble measles, hives, or scarlet fever. This too leads to errors in diagnosis. When the brain is attacked, another group of disorders may be suggested, varying from encephalitis to polio. Fortunately these complications are not common; as a rule the outlook is good and fatalities are rare.

There is no specific treatment but the majority recover faster when they remain in bed. The sulfas, aureomycin, and chloromycetin have been tried with uneven results. Their use has led to dramatic response in some but not in others. Adenosine monophosphate has been tried in a few cases and the effect of the preparation seemed good. Although the disease is labeled "infectious" its communicability has been questioned. Nevertheless, large outbreaks have occurred, especially in the spring and fall. Fatigue, which is the outstanding symptom, may persist for weeks or months, interfering with studies or work.

EAR INFECTION

Mrs. F. writes: You say that there is no excuse for having a running ear today. I'm 48 years old and my left ear has drained for 45 years even tho I've consulted some of the best physicians. How do you explain this?

REPLY

There are exceptions to every rule, assuming you followed the advice of the ear specialists you consulted. You also fall into a slightly different category than today's victims of ear infection as my statement referred chiefly to new cases.

MENTALITY

Mrs. D. writes: Would a slow witted child be considered mentally retarded?

REPLY

This depends on what is meant by slow witted. A child is said to be mentally retarded when his mental development is such that he is incapable of social adaptation. One way in which mentality is measured is by the use of the intelligence quotient tests. An I. Q. of 51-75 usually indicates a moron; 21-50, an imbecile, and 0-20, an idiot.

SCABIES REMEDIES

A. W. W. writes: If nothing is done about "the itch" will it disappear by itself in seven years.

REPLY

No. This disorder (scabies) will persist if untreated; but the remedies now available will cure it in less than seven days. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this form of itch.

NATURAL AND SYNTHETIC

J. K. writes: Which are superior, the natural or the synthetic vitamins?

REPLY

If you refer to the natural vitamins in food, I would say this type is best; there is no substitute for a normal diet. But if you refer to manufactured products, to my knowledge there is no difference between what is called the natural and the synthetic types.

Democratic Party Experiences Healthy Realignment; White House Nobility Jockeys For Position; "Duke Of Tennessee" Challenges The Old Guard

WASHINGTON — Beneath the surface, the Democratic party is experiencing some of the most important realignments in 30 years. Leaders are dickering, jockeying, trading for position. There is a restless ferment in the air not seen among Democrats in a generation.

Beneath the ferment, of course, is a race to the throne—as an old monarch totters.

It is a race that is beginning to split the party up as never since the Al Smith-McAdoo Catholic-Protestant struggle at the Democratic Convention of 1924. And it has developed into a race not only between the monarch and his nobility but between the nobility themselves.

Here is how the struggle stacks up to date:

TRUMAN'S STRATEGY—Is based upon the monarch's right to put a princeling of his own choosing on the throne. To that end his strategy is to control each state delegation until he is ready to anoint the head of his successor. That is why ex-Sen. Robert Bulkley, 72 years old and not even remotely a candidate, will run as Ohio's favorite son in an attempt to control the Ohio delegation. That's also why Sen. Hubert Humphrey, though not a candidate, will run as Minnesota's favorite son to control the Minnesota delegation—and so on.

Then, just before the convention, these favorite sons will switch their support to the anointed princeling of Truman's choosing.

RESTLESS NOBILITY — Meanwhile, some of the dukes, earls, viscounts and barons around the White House are getting impatient. While they will support Truman if he runs again, they don't like the idea of waiting too long to pick the crown prince.

Among these restless nobles are popular Governor Paul Devers of Massachusetts; Mennen "Soapy" Williams, the energetic governor of Michigan; and Sid McMath, the shrewd anti-Dixiecrat governor of Arkansas. They have been angling with Governors Frank Lausche of Ohio and Adlai Stevenson of Illinois to form a new palace guard and pick the successor before the Duke of Tennessee, Estes Kefauver, garners too many delegates.

KEFAUVER'S STRATEGY—Meanwhile they are quite right about the Duke of Tennessee. He has really been making hay. Not content to have Truman capture the Ohio delegates through favorite-son Bulkley, Kefauver is challenging Truman in Ohio, and will challenge him elsewhere. The Tennessee senator is attracting volunteer Democratic leaders all over the country like Tennessee molasses attracts flies, and will probably end up with Gael Sullivan, former executive director of the Democratic National Committee, as his campaign manager. He is easily the most potent threat to both Truman and the Republicans today.

TRUMAN'S CROWN PRINCE—The man upon whom the President is reported ready to bestow the divine right of succession is Governor Stevenson of Illinois, an able man. When the three Northern governors sounded out Adlai, he was aloof, declined to team up, indicated that the monarch had a right to pick his own princeling.

THE PRINCE OF CONNECTICUT—One of the ablest members of the Senate and a close friend of the President, Sen. Brien McMahon, is doing some Presidential stalking on his own, probably with the idea of ending up on the vice presidential end of the ticket.

THE DUKE OF TEXAS—Modest Sam Rayburn is probably the last man to think of himself as a candidate. However, the Speaker's friends are doing a lot of thinking and planning for him, the most ardent rooters being Sen. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and Congressman John McCormack of Massachusetts.

THE EARL OF KENTUCKY—Vice President Barkley is lying low, saying little. However, some of his friends, led by Senate Secretary Les Biffle, believe that if the Democratic convention faces a deadlock, the party will turn—despite his age—to the old stalwart, who has made more Jefferson-Jackson Day speeches than any other man in history—Alben Barkley.

Such is the novel and healthy jockeying for position in a party where for 20 years almost no one dared challenge the divine right of the monarch to succeed himself.

Washington Pipeline

Attorney General McGrath has not held one single press conference since he took office. Many editors wonder why he isn't willing to answer questions like other officials. . . . Ralph Dyer of Bangor, Maine, a GOP candidate for Congress, may challenge Maine's Senator Brewster in the Republican primary. . . . They haven't been widely publicized, but the President has picked some top men for government recently—Charles Davis, who used to steer the Ways and Means Committee on taxes, to take Oliphant's place as Internal Revenue counsel; and astute Henry Fowler to succeed Manly Fleischmann as head of the National Production Authority. Charley Murphy of the White House staff is credited with their appointments. . . . Captain Carlsen's "Flying Enterprise" went down with one strategic treasure — five tons of columbite ore, badly needed for jet engines. . . . Russia is now reported stockpiling opium for sabotage purposes. Harry Anslinger, chief of the Narcotics Bureau, informed Congress last week that 500 tons of Chinese opium and another 330 tons from Iran have been shipped to the Soviet stockpile.

Well-Suited Congressman

Some strange things have gone on in the offices of congressmen.

There was the late senator from Florida, Park Trammell, who slept in his office, never rented a hotel or apartment in Washington.

Then there was his opposite number from New York, Charles A Buckley, who became known as the "phantom congressman," because he was rarely in his office or, for that matter, in Washington. Buckley is still in Congress, but his attendance record is much better since he became chairman of the Public Works Committee.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Philip Murray, president of the CIO, has attempted to discourage Congress from enacting legislation that would emancipate American workers from the conspiracies of the Communists, who take control of key unions in the United States as a part of their plot to dominate the course of labor-management relations in vital industries.

Mr. Murray, in writing to Senator Humphrey, Democrat, of Minnesota, who heads a subcommittee which is studying the question, says that there should not be any legislation affecting the bargaining rights of Communist-controlled unions except after a showing that it is "vitally necessary to our national safety," and he adds: "We do not believe any such showing has been made."

This is virtually a challenge to the subcommittee to demonstrate by testimony what has been happening in Communist-controlled unions in recent years in this country. Mr. Murray asks where is the danger against which Congress seeks to legislate, and then says:

Murray's Statement Questioned

"It is the possibility that a union may seek to instigate a work stoppage, not to rectify the just grievances of the workers, but to hamper production for our defense program and thus to aid Soviet Russia. But there has been no evidence of a single such stoppage despite a year and a half of the war in Korea and an even longer period of the cold war."

Has Mr. Murray overlooked the copper strike which has caused such a shortage of copper as to cut down auto production and cause tens of thousands of members of the CIO Auto Workers' union to walk the streets of Detroit seeking employment? Or has Mr. Murray overlooked the costly dock strikes conducted by unions with Communist influences in them, thus delaying important shipments of goods?

The truth is that, while Mr. Murray claims that the CIO is ridding itself of Communists and has them on the run, the record of what has happened since the charges were preferred against CIO unions shows that there has not been as much alertness or vigilance as he would like to believe has prevailed.

Thus it took from March, 1944—when the House Un-American Activities Committee, after lengthy hearings, published its first report citing 24 CIO unions as under Communist influence—until the CIO convention of 1949 to get eight of these unions expelled. Why did it take five years?

During a large part of those five years, and in fact until 1948, Mr. Murray had at his side as general counsel a member of the Communist party—Lee Pressman—who did not confess until August 28, 1950, that he had been a party member. He stated that he had broken with the party only about 30 days before he made his confession to the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Everybody knows that a general counsel sits in on important policy matters and advises on many questions affecting constituent unions.

The House committee called attention in 1944 to the fact that 18 of the 49 CIO executive board members had Communist records.

Now it is assumed that the CIO has completely purged itself of all such influences, but can it be said that the interests of the United States would not have been better protected if there had been legislation which would have assisted the CIO in getting rid of Communist-controlled unions sooner?

Congress Considering Change

Today the Communists can enjoy collective-bargaining rights in their respective unions. Congress is considering a change in that privilege. Mr. Murray says Communists swear falsely to non-Communist affidavits or they administer union affairs through "fronts" and hence, he argues, the Taft-Hartley provisions requiring anti-Communist affidavits from union officers are no good. What he is saying in effect is that, because persons conspiring to violate the laws of the United States are for the moment not being detected, it serves no useful purpose to have such laws on the statute books.

If the CIO record were one of having dealt promptly with charges of Communist infiltration, its advice not to pass any new law might have greater weight. But having been soiled with Communist infiltration and having been gullible and having been deceived by Communists before, the CIO should be among the forefront of those who are advocating adequate safeguards against Communist conspirators who capture American labor unions through an abuse of collective-bargaining privileges.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Concerning Human Sacrifice

WASHINGTON

The Korean War, which most Americans have comfortably forgotten, can quite easily explode into sharp, renewed fighting before very long. That is the meaning, hard, immediate and unpleasant, of the increasingly bitter exchanges on the prisoner issue between the truce negotiators at Panmunjom.

The issue itself is simple enough. The United Nations forces have taken approximately 160,000 prisoners. Of these, great numbers are South Koreans, conscripted and thrust into the line by the Communists in the first phase of the war. Other large numbers are former Chinese Nationalist soldiers impressed to serve in the Chinese Communist armies. Literally scores of thousands of these unfortunates do not wish to return to their Communist masters.

After the most prolonged and even agonized consideration, the American policy makers decided some time ago that they could not repeat the horror at the end of the second World War, when Russians captured by the Germans were forcibly returned to the Soviet Union. Such scenes as that at the Alpine railway bridge leading into Austria, when nearly a thousand of these involuntary repatriates flung themselves from the windows of their train into the gorge beneath, seemed too terrible to be renewed. Hence the UN negotiators have insisted on prisoner exchange on a voluntary basis. Any other course, it is considered, would be tantamount to offering human sacrifice.

Defection Unthinkable Crime

For the Communist leaders, however, defection is the most unthinkable of all the crimes that their slave-peoples can commit. It moves them almost to hysteria. For example, when Oksana Kasenkina leaped from the Russian Consulate in New York, no less a person than Molotov himself called in the then-American ambassador to Moscow, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, and gave vent to one of the most violent tirades in the troubled history of Soviet-American relations. With equal violence, the Communist negotiators at Panmunjom have insisted on return of all prisoners in UN hands, by force if need be.

Hence what looks like a hard decision by the Communist leaders is diametrically opposed to the hard decision of the American policy makers, who are supported by our allies. This conflict over the prisoner issue is in fact far more serious than the better-publicized problem of the airfields.

No matter what safeguards are provided, the Communists can almost certainly manage to repair the airfields in North Korea, if they desire to do so. The real protection against renewed aggression after a truce has been signed is the readiness of this country and its allies to treat renewed aggression as an act of war, as indicated in Winston Churchill's speech to the Congress. And if the prisoner issue can be satisfactorily settled, a compromise of the airfield question ought not to be too hard to find.

The trouble is that as of today, the prisoner issue does not look like being satisfactorily settled. But this means, in turn, that the interminable truce negotiations are in considerable danger of breaking down for good and all. And if this happens, full-scale fighting in Korea will just as inevitably begin again.

Unattractive Alternatives

What to do in this event is the second problem which the American policy makers have been weighing. Are we to continue with the limited war in Korea, as before? Or are we to go all out this time, fighting to win a decisive victory, and by so doing becoming involved in a head-on clash with Communist China, and taking the risk of war with Russia? The alternatives are unattractive, to put it very mildly.

On balance, the trend seems to be towards the second alternative, if only because the policy makers are unhappily conscious that the American people will insist on fighting to win if they are required to fight at all. It is virtually certain that China will be subjected to a strict naval blockade if the truce talks end and fighting in Korea begins again. And it is also highly probable that other, even stronger measures, such as air attacks on Chinese cities and communications lines, will also be taken. The State Department still opposes bombing China's cities, on the ground that it will gain no victory, and solidify China and the rest of Asia against us. But the Pentagon takes the opposite view, and the Pentagon's arguments, plus the force of public opinion, seem likely to overcome the State Department's opposition in the end.

It is nightmarish that this turn of events should even be a remote possibility. It is nightmarish also to feel that the only escape from this turn of events may be literally to treat scores of thousands of prisoners in our hands as human sacrifices —a course this nation cannot adopt with honor. But this is the age of the air-conditioned nightmare, and these are the choices confronting us.

For the present, we may hope that the Communist negotiators will yield at last, which they may well do. But for the future, since there is no doubt of the danger hanging over us, President Truman would do well, to explain the position to the country. Then, if the worst happens, it will not take everyone utterly by surprise.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Total Loss

Great problems are not lightly solved nor do the slogans that drive men to blind acceptance of postulates save us from error.

Ours is a time when events course by so madly that few stand their ground stubbornly against the sea of troubles. We seem to leap from incident to incident. Suddenly there is a new emergency and men die. Since 1914, great empires have collapsed and nations hardly known then are now world problems.

I never saw all this stated more accurately than in George F. Kennan's study, "American Diplomacy, 1900-1950." Kennan is to be our ambassador to Soviet Russia where he will have the advantage over many of his predecessors, at least, of knowing the language and having a knowledge of the people and country. This is what he wrote:

"I would like first to say a word about the total result of these two world wars in Europe. These wars were fought at the price of some tens of millions of lives, of untold physical destruction, of the destruction of the balance of forces on the continent—at the price of rendering Western Europe dangerously, perhaps fatefully, vulnerable to Soviet power. Both wars were fought, really, with a view to changing Germany: to correcting her behavior, to making the Germans something different from what they were. Yet, today, if one were offered the chance of having back again the Germany of 1913—a Germany run by conservative but relatively moderate people, no Nazis and no Communists, a vigorous Germany, united and unoccupied, full of energy and confidence, able to play a part again in the balancing-off of Russian power in Europe—well, there would be objections to it from many quarters, and it wouldn't make everybody happy; but in many ways it wouldn't sound so bad, in comparison with our problems of today. Now, think what this means. When you tally up the total score of the two wars, in terms of their ostensible objective, you find that if there has been any gain at all, it is pretty hard to discern."

This is not hindsight, certainly not as it applies to World War II. Many warned of the dangers of that enterprise. Such men as Herbert Hoover, Hugh Gibson, Charles Lindbergh, and even this writer, cautioned, before and during that war, against the perils of opening the door to the Russians by destroying the Germans and the Japanese.

We were called Fascists in those days. Yet, the course of events has proved beyond doubt, as Kennan says, that the gains, the advantages, the benefits of these wars are difficult to discern. Actually, there were none. Those wars have proved to be a total loss to civilization.

The question then arises, why otherwise sound persons never see the perils in their own decisions. Perhaps one answer is that without a grounding in history, too many are guided by the angers of the moment. It is like that swift madness that drives a man to destroy his home and family over a trifling quarrel with his wife which the provident person would resolve by understanding and weighing of consequences.

Hitler was an abhorrent personality, but before Hitler, it was possible to meet a defeated Germany with understanding. It was proposed during World War I to hang the kaiser; out of that slogan came Hitler, and his successor is Stalin. And we are still in the course of a war with no end in sight.

Our problem is today, as it has been since 1914, to discover a formula for saving our civilization. We have tried war, appeasement, charity, diplomacy, the League of Nations, the United Nations.

These efforts have failed. The proof of their failure is that we are still at war. True, the battles for the moment have been localized, but the preparations are for a general war. All sides are engaged in such preparations as prevent the stabilization of domestic economies and the restoration of normal living among the people.

Perhaps the cure is a return to nationalism, to each country working out its own problems, each nation forming such agreements with others as prove beneficial without an acceptance of the doctrine of the world state, even in such a modified form as the United Nations.

The probability is that the human mind is not yet ready for heaven on earth and, in the attempt to achieve it, only war and confusion are produced. Surely, this is a time to revalue the accomplishments since 1914.

Midwest In Grip Of Frigid Wave

[By The Associated Press]

Bitter cold spread across upper sections of the Midwest Wednesday in the wake of the area's worst blizzard of the season, while local blizzards and moderate gales blew in on Western New York.

At least six persons died in the three-day snowstorm in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

In South Dakota, a stranded girl pupil froze to death in an unheated school house and the body of a man was found near his snow-stalled truck. Eighteen persons listed as missing in the storm were located Wednesday in stalled cars or isolated farmhouses.

The surge of Arctic cold drove the mercury to -34 in Bemidji, Minn., and -30 at Grand Forks, N. D.

One Missing After Ship Capsizes In Launching

NAPLES, Italy, Jan. 23 (AP) — A mishap in the launching of the 400-ton motorship Pio Orieco Cammini left one person missing and four injured today.

The vessel capsized upon sliding into the Bay of Naples, sank and came to the surface upside down. Ninety persons who had been on deck spilled into the bay. Small boats rescued them.

Veteran Learns He's Reported Dead

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—A. C. Russell opened a letter from the Veterans Administration to his wife, and learned he was reported dead.

A check of records showed Russell, who served 3½ years in the Air Force, blacked out recently from high blood pressure at a Shawnee, Okla., hospital.

He regained consciousness and was released.

Some one put a check mark in the wrong column on his medical report.

Vinson Bill Provides New Escort Carriers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Congress has been asked to approve construction of the first of several new-type escort aircraft carriers, designed to combat Russia's growing submarine fleet.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee brought the plan to light today in a statement giving further details of a $1,150,000,000 Navy shipbuil ing bill which he introduced Monday. It is obviously aimed to winter the "very real threat" of Soviet undersea strength which Secretary of the Navy Kimball discussed on a television program Sunday.

Vinson's measure also would add three carriers to this country's atom-bomb carrying fleet—bringing the total to at least ten big flatops, including two 60,000 tonners.

Sen. Smith Quits McCarthy 'Probe'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me) today withdrew from the Senate subcommittee considering a move to oust Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) from the Senate.

The Senate Rules Committee, of which the subcommittee is a branch, named Sen. Welker (R-Ida) to succeed her.

The switch represented only half of a contemplated shakeup in the committee, which has before it the resolution of Sen. Benton (D-Conn) calling for an investigation to determine whether McCarthy's seat should be declared vacant.

The other half of the shakeup failed to materialize when Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) agreed to remain on the subcommittee.

The actions were announced by Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz), the committee chairman after a closed session.

Benton has based his ouster move against McCarthy on accusations that the Wisconsin senator has committed fraud, perjury and "calculated deceit."

Devereux Demands Japan Repay Yanks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Rep. Devereux (R-Md), former Marine Corps general, protested today against the Japanese peace treaty's omission of any requirement that the Japanese repay American servicemen's savings confiscated in the Philippines.

Devereux, captured by the Japanese after leading a heroic defense of Wake Island early in World War II, estimated the total amount of money involved was around $200,000.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that this loss should not have to be borne by American soldiers captured or killed on Bataan and Corregidor or by their widows and orphans.

Iowa Hires Elliott

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 23 (AP)—Appointment of Chalmers "Bump" Elliott as assistant football coach at the state university of Iowa was announced today. He has served in a similar capacity at Oregon State College the last three seasons.

Elliott, 27, is a former Michigan star. Evashevski said he rated Elliott as the best backfield coach in the Pacific Coast Conference.

Fannie Ward Critical

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — Fannie Ward, the eternal flapper, remained in critical condition today and Lenox Hill Hospital said:

"There's nothing we can do for her."

The 79-year-old woman, who kept her youthful bloom well into middle age, was found in her Park Avenue apartment Monday, apparently the victim of a stroke.

Baby Sitter Who Saved Four Children Cited For Heroism

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23 (AP) — A 15-year-old girl baby sitter who saved four children from death in a log house fire won a Carnegie hero citation for bravery today.

Nineteen persons in 11 states received heroism awards from the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission. The late Steelmaker Andrew Carnegie set up the commission 48 years ago to reward personal valor.

The baby sitter who received a bronze medal is Margaret E. Frye. She led three children to safety as fire flared in their Colville, Wash., house.

Reentering the flaming house she battled her way through the intense heat to the second floor, picked up a three-year-old, and carried him outside.

The first floor of the log house was a huge torch but Miss Frye braved the dense smoke and flame a third time hoping to rescue four more children.

Once on the second floor, she noticed that escape by the stairway was sealed by the flames. She told the children to jump out the window. It was only 10 feet to the ground but to the frightened children it must have appeared tremendous.

They wanted Miss Frye to go first. As she steadied herself for the jump her foot caught in the screening and she hung suspended from the window for over a minute. The four children perished.

The young heroine suffered a broken arm before being rescued.

Stassen Makes Appeal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen said tonight that scientists are perfecting "freedom balloons" to reach any place inside the iron curtain.

He appealed for public donations to support this arm of the Crusade for Freedom, a nationwide volunteer movement which he headed last year.

Believed Destitute, Man Leaves $500,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — A shabbily-dressed old man buried in a Brooklyn "potter's field" last November was found today to have left an apparent fortune in a safe deposit box.

Police said the box contained bank books, bonds and stocks showing a value of $500,000.

How he amassed them nobody knows.

Midwest In Grip Of Frigid Wave

[By The Associated Press]

Bitter cold spread across upper sections of the Midwest Wednesday in the wake of the area's worst blizzard of the season, while local blizzards and moderate gales blew in on Western New York.

At least six persons died in the three-day snowstorm in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

In South Dakota, a stranded girl pupil froze to death in an unheated school house and the body of a man was found near his snow-stalled truck. Eighteen persons listed as missing in the storm were located Wednesday in stalled cars or isolated farmhouses.

The surge of Arctic cold drove the mercury to -34 in Bemidji, Minn., and -30 at Grand Forks, N. D.

The cold belt extended southward to the Gulf of Mexico and eastward to the Atlantic.

One Missing After Ship Capsizes In Launching

NAPLES, Italy, Jan. 23 (AP) — A mishap in the launching of the 400-ton motorship Pio Orieco Cammini left one person missing and four injured today.

The vessel capsized upon sliding into the Bay of Naples, sank and came to the surface upside down. Ninety persons who had been on deck spilled into the bay. Small boats rescued them.

Veteran Learns He's Reported Dead

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—A. C. Russell opened a letter from the Veterans Administration to his wife, and learned he was reported dead.

A check of records showed Russell, who served 3½ years in the Air Force, blacked out recently from high blood pressure at a Shawnee, Okla., hospital.

He regained consciousness and was released.

Some one put a check mark in the wrong column on his medical report.

Vinson Bill Provides New Escort Carriers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Congress has been asked to approve construction of the first of several new-type escort aircraft carriers, designed to combat Russia's growing submarine fleet.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee brought the plan to light today in a statement giving further details of a $1,150,000,000 Navy shipbuil ing bill which he introduced Monday. It is obviously aimed to winter the "very real threat" of Soviet undersea strength which Secretary of the Navy Kimball discussed on a television program Sunday.

Vinson's measure also would add three carriers to this country's atom-bomb carrying fleet—bringing the total to at least ten big flatops, including two 60,000 tonners.

Sen. Smith Quits McCarthy 'Probe'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me) today withdrew from the Senate subcommittee considering a move to oust Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) from the Senate.

The Senate Rules Committee, of which the subcommittee is a branch, named Sen. Welker (R-Ida) to succeed her.

The switch represented only half of a contemplated shakeup in the committee, which has before it the resolution of Sen. Benton (D-Conn) calling for an investigation to determine whether McCarthy's seat should be declared vacant.

The other half of the shakeup failed to materialize when Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) agreed to remain on the subcommittee.

The actions were announced by Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz), the committee chairman after a closed session.

Benton has based his ouster move against McCarthy on accusations that the Wisconsin senator has committed fraud, perjury and "calculated deceit."

Devereux Demands Japan Repay Yanks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Rep. Devereux (R-Md), former Marine Corps general, protested today against the Japanese peace treaty's omission of any requirement that the Japanese repay American servicemen's savings confiscated in the Philippines.

Devereux, captured by the Japanese after leading a heroic defense of Wake Island early in World War II, estimated the total amount of money involved was around $200,000.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that this loss should not have to be borne by American soldiers captured or killed on Bataan and Corregidor or by their widows and orphans.

Iowa Hires Elliott

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 23 (AP)—Appointment of Chalmers "Bump" Elliott as assistant football coach at the state university of Iowa was announced today. He has served in a similar capacity at Oregon State College the last three seasons.

Elliott, 27, is a former Michigan star. Evashevski said he rated Elliott as the best backfield coach in the Pacific Coast Conference.

Fannie Ward Critical

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — Fannie Ward, the eternal flapper, remained in critical condition today and Lenox Hill Hospital said:

"There's nothing we can do for her."

The 79-year-old woman, who kept her youthful bloom well into middle age, was found in her Park Avenue apartment Monday, apparently the victim of a stroke.

Baby Sitter Who Saved Four Children Cited For Heroism

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23 (AP) — A 15-year-old girl baby sitter who saved four children from death in a log house fire won a Carnegie hero citation for bravery today.

Nineteen persons in 11 states received heroism awards from the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission. The late Steelmaker Andrew Carnegie set up the commission 48 years ago to reward personal valor.

The baby sitter who received a bronze medal is Margaret E. Frye. She led three children to safety as fire flared in their Colville, Wash., house.

Reentering the flaming house she battled her way through the intense heat to the second floor, picked up a three-year-old, and carried him outside.

The first floor of the log house was a huge torch but Miss Frye braved the dense smoke and flame a third time hoping to rescue four more children.

Once on the second floor, she noticed that escape by the stairway was sealed by the flames. She told the children to jump out the window. It was only 10 feet to the ground but to the frightened children it must have appeared tremendous.

They wanted Miss Frye to go first. As she steadied herself for the jump her foot caught in the screening and she hung suspended from the window for over a minute. The four children perished.

The young heroine suffered a broken arm before being rescued.

Stassen Makes Appeal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen said tonight that scientists are perfecting "freedom balloons" to reach any place inside the iron curtain.

He appealed for public donations to support this arm of the Crusade for Freedom, a nationwide volunteer movement which he headed last year.

Believed Destitute, Man Leaves $500,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — A shabbily-dressed old man buried in a Brooklyn "potter's field" last November was found today to have left an apparent fortune in a safe deposit box.

Police said the box contained bank books, bonds and stocks showing a value of $500,000.

How he amassed them nobody knows.

He left no relatives and no will, so far as is known.

Police identified the old man as Harry C. Smith, 84. He lived amid a shambles of old newspapers and junk in a dilapidated house at 394 Cumberland Street, Brooklyn.

My New York
by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—You can count on the fingers of a three-toed sloth's right hand the movie actors or actresses who are genuine (this is one of my dark days; bear with me), and one of them is Lloyd Nolan. Mr. Nolan is just the kind of guy you would imagine him to be—direct, evidently honest, blunt without being malicious and so on. As they say over on Broadway, he's a pleasure.

These weeks Lloyd is holed up in a 15th floor sub-let overlooking the East River on Sutton Place South, and it was there that I caught up wtih him the other twilight. He had just come from a television rehearsal and had loosened his collar and tie under a floppy dressing gown. When he had poured my beer and we had taken a quick look at the breathless view of the river in the gathering dusk, we sat down and discussed how it felt to be a coast-to-coast commuter, as he is at present.

Nolan was one of the toughest hoods the films ever offered moviegoers, early in his career; then he switched to "good guys" and became a classic example of what Raymond Chandler likes to call a shamus. That led him directly to his present work as "Martin Kane, Private Eye," and thence here to New York, where he plays Kane over radio and TV several times a week. His family is still back in California—Brentwood—and so are a couple of businesses in which he has a finger, so every month or so he likes to climb into a plane and fly back to the West Coast for a weekend.

"'And I like them both," he said frankly. "What gets me down, sometimes, is the enmity between California and New York people. Show-business enmity, I guess I mean—they each look down the nose at the other and there really isn't any need for it at all."

This warring of communities is unique in Ameica; as Nolan pointed out, in England all of show business is pretty centrally located and actors shuttle back and forth between stage and films. The result is that nobody hoots at nobody.

"The TV brought me here to New York," Lloyd said, "and what to do with the family—or what they wanted to do—was a really tough problem. The kids really settled it. I have a girl, 11, and a boy, 8, and taking them away from everything they have out in California—the swimming every day, the fresh air and room to run around in, the school they're used to, etc.—would have been cruel. So I came east by myself and content myself with calling the family every midnight, which is 9 p. m. their time. My wife brings me up to date on all the gossip."

It was 1934 that Lloyd left Manhattan for dreamland. He was in a smash play, "One Sunday Afternoon," that ran endlessly and, indeed, at one time was the only play running on Broadway in that depression year, as contrasted with the 30 or so legitimate attractions now showing.

"New York has changed enormously since then," he said, "but it's peculiar about how TV is in the same place radio was back in the early Thirties. It's just beginning to seize the public's fancy, and there's the same excitement and glamor about it as radio had."

TV is such a tremendous devourer of talent and time that there never is as much time to rehearse and smooth out things as there should be. "For instance," Lloyd said, "just the other week we had a scene where the crook pulled out his gun and aimed it at me and another detective — but when he went to yank it out of his pocket it wouldn't come, and he struggled with it for a century before getting it out. There wasn't anything in the world I could do except stand there like a dope and wait for him."

Because of items like that, Nolan feels like a lot of other people that sooner or later most of the big shows will be filmed, just as radio shows are taped—and when that days comes, he says, it's possible the West Coast will become the nation's TV center, mostly because of weather, facilities, the availability of fine cameramen and other technicians and so on.

Meanwhile, Lloyd is worrying mildly over the coast-to-coast bickering. "They're both good places," he said, "and I'm not just ducking a controversy. I mean it." He does, too.

Mirror Of Your Mind
by Lawrence Gould

Should another's mannerisms irritate you?

Answer: They will not and cannot all by themselves. If watching a person twiddle his thumbs or keep straightening his necktie "drives you crazy," it is either because you attach some special meaning to it—such as his not paying attention to what you are saying—or because you're looking for a plausible excuse for picking on him. And, of course, the fact that he won't, and often really can't, "stop" highlights the most irritating thing of all about another person—that there is so much about him which is independent of you and your wishes. You are an unusual person if you have no "nervous habits" yourself.

May love arouse the urge to kill?

Answer: Not directly, or in reasonably normal people. But there is a type of mentally sick person to whom Oscar Wilde's saying, "Each man kills the thing he loves," may apply literally. The case of the schizophrenic girl who shot a baseball player with whom she was "madly in love" illustrates this. In the mind of such a person, the need of love can be so inextricably involved with the fear of being rejected that the urge to avenge the anticipated hurt may overwhelm all other feelings. A much milder form of the same pattern is the impulse to be "mean" to someone you love, which causes so many lovers' quarrels.

Does development depend on "interference"?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Hans W. Leowald in the International Journal of Psychoanalysis. To the new-born baby, nothing exists but himself, and it is not until things happen "against his will" that he begins to distinguish between himself and the outside world. Being taken from his mother, for example, helps him realize that he and she are different people and that there is something outside of himself which he wants. It is through the need to organize his efforts to get what he wants from the outside world that his "ego" and sense of reality develop, and if his desires met no "interference," neither would develop at all.

If you're tall and heavy, you can impress your world as a beautiful Valkyrie-type by using these ten tips!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Some women look extra tall and extra heavy. But some women who have exactly the same proportions look like beautiful Valkyries. What makes the difference in their impressions? Their clothes, of course! The woman who impresses you with her handsome statuesque appearance chooses only those clothes which will contribute to that effect; and furthermore, she learns how to comport herself in becoming ways.

Unbecoming Lines

The woman who looks too tall and too heavy may look that way because she wears cute, "little girl," or frou-frou effects. Horizontal lines, round necks, collars and trimmings, contrasting belts, all-around pleated or yoked skirts and very short or very long jackets also are errors she may have made that reveal her figure in most unflattering ways.

The statuesque beauty knows that only scantly-trimmed dresses, suits and coats designed with vertical and diagonal lines will become her. A favorite style of hers is a dress with medium-gored skirt and surplice bodice, because the vertical lines cut her girth and the diagonal line slices her height with both distinction and sophistication. She shuns round-looking handbags, jewelry and hats, and seeks out those that are angular in design and important in size and appearance. Her millinery is low-crowned and diagonally-brimmed and neither dinky nor out-sized.

If you are tall and heavy, by copying her ways you'll gain in attractiveness and win more admiration. You'll gain even more if you take these ten tips:

1. Wear your clothes turned below mid-calf. 2. Have them fitted to avoid any bursting-at-the-seams look. 3. Adjust long sleeves to cover the wrist bones and short sleeves to extend just below the elbow. 4. Be sure that waistlines in garments are as long as your own. 5. Underline your clothes with a long-line corselet. 6. Eschew dreary and bright-bright colors; muted shades are for you—and they're fashion leaders for spring! 7. Dress your hair with a diagonal part, close to the crown and slick all around. 8. Circumvent the mincing or the forceful in your actions; make all your movements light and lithesome. 9. Teach yourself the art of serenity. 10. Consider yourself a "fine figger of a woman." That's what you are!

My New York
by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—You can count on the fingers of a three-toed sloth's right hand the movie actors or actresses who are genuine (this is one of my dark days; bear with me), and one of them is Lloyd Nolan. Mr. Nolan is just the kind of guy you would imagine him to be—direct, evidently honest, blunt without being malicious and so on. As they say over on Broadway, he's a pleasure.

These weeks Lloyd is holed up in a 15th floor sub-let overlooking the East River on Sutton Place South, and it was there that I caught up wtih him the other twilight. He had just come from a television rehearsal and had loosened his collar and tie under a floppy dressing gown. When he had poured my beer and we had taken a quick look at the breathless view of the river in the gathering dusk, we sat down and discussed how it felt to be a coast-to-coast commuter, as he is at present.

Nolan was one of the toughest hoods the films ever offered movie-goers, early in his career; then he switched to "good guys" and became a classic example of what Raymond Chandler likes to call a shamus. That led him directly to his present work as "Martin Kane, Private Eye," and thence here to New York, where he plays Kane over radio and TV several times a week. His family is still back in California—Brentwood—and so are a couple of businesses in which he has a finger, so every month or so he likes to climb into a plane and fly back to the West Coast for a weekend.

"'And I like them both," he said frankly. "What gets me down, sometimes, is the enmity between California and New York people. Show-business enmity, I guess I mean—they each look down the nose at the other and there really isn't any need for it at all."

This warring of communities is unique in Ameica; as Nolan pointed out, in England all of show business is pretty centrally located and actors shuttle back and forth between stage and films. The result is that nobody hoots at nobody.

"The TV brought me here to New York," Lloyd said, "and what to do with the family—or what they wanted to do—was a really tough problem. The kids really settled it. I have a girl, 11, and a boy, 8, and taking them away from everything they have out in California—the swimming every day, the fresh air and room to run around in, the school they're used to, etc.—would have been cruel. So I came east by myself and content myself with calling the family every midnight, which is 9 p. m. their time. My wife brings me up to date on all the gossip."

It was 1934 that Lloyd left Manhattan for dreamland. He was in a smash play, "One Sunday Afternoon," that ran endlessly and, indeed, at one time was the only play running on Broadway in that depression year, as contrasted with the 30 or so legitimate attractions now showing.

"New York has changed enormously since then," he said, "but it's peculiar about how TV is in the same place radio was back in the early Thirties. It's just beginning to seize the public's fancy, and there's the same excitement and glamor about it as radio had."

TV is such a tremendous devourer of talent and time that there never is as much time to rehearse and smooth out things as there should be. "For instance," Lloyd said, "just the other week we had a scene where the crook pulled out his gun and aimed it at me and another detective — but when he went to yank it out of his pocket it wouldn't come, and he struggled with it for a century before getting it out. There wasn't anything in the world I could do except stand there like a dope and wait for him."

Because of items like that, Nolan feels like a lot of other people that sooner or later most of the big shows will be filmed, just as radio shows are taped—and when that days comes, he says, it's possible the West Coast will become the nation's TV center, mostly because of weather, facilities, the availability of fine cameramen and other technicians and so on.

Meanwhile, Lloyd is worrying mildly over the coast-to-coast bickering. "They're both good places," he said, "and I'm not just ducking a controversy. I mean it." He does, too.

Mirror Of Your Mind
by Lawrence Gould

Should another's mannerisms irritate you?

Answer: They will not and cannot all by themselves. If watching a person twiddle his thumbs or keep straightening his necktie "drives you crazy," it is either because you attach some special meaning to it—such as his not paying attention to what you are saying—or because you're looking for a plausible excuse for picking on him. And, of course, the fact that he won't, and often really can't, "stop" highlights the most irritating thing of all about another person—that there is so much about him which is independent of you and your wishes. You are an unusual person if you have no "nervous habits" yourself.

May love arouse the urge to kill?

Answer: Not directly, or in reasonably normal people. But there is a type of mentally sick person to whom Oscar Wilde's saying, "Each man kills the thing he loves," may apply literally. The case of the schizophrenic girl who shot a baseball player with whom she was "madly in love" illustrates this. In the mind of such a person, the need of love can be so inextricably involved with the fear of being rejected that the urge to avenge the anticipated hurt may overwhelm all other feelings. A much milder form of the same pattern is the impulse to be "mean" to someone you love, which causes so many lovers' quarrels.

Does development depend on "interference"?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Hans W. Leowald in the International Journal of Psychoanalysis. To the new-born baby, nothing exists but himself, and it is not until things happen "against his will" that he begins to distinguish between himself and the outside world. Being taken from his mother, for example, helps him realize that he and she are different people and that there is something outside of himself which he wants. It is through the need to organize his efforts to get what he wants from the outside world that his "ego" and sense of reality develop, and if his desires met no "interference," neither would develop at all.

If you're tall and heavy, you can impress your world as a beautiful Valkyrie-type by using these ten tips!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Some women look extra tall and extra heavy. But some women who have exactly the same proportions look like beautiful Valkyries. What makes the difference in their impressions? Their clothes, of course! The woman who impresses you with her handsome statuesque appearance chooses only those clothes which will contribute to that effect; and furthermore, she learns how to comport herself in becoming ways.

Unbecoming Lines

The woman who looks too tall and too heavy may look that way because she wears cute, "little girl," or frou-frou effects. Horizontal lines, round necks, collars and trimmings, contrasting belts, all-around pleated or yoked skirts and very short or very long jackets also are errors she may have made that reveal her figure in most unflattering ways.

The statuesque beauty knows that only scantly-trimmed dresses, suits and coats designed with vertical and diagonal lines will become her. A favorite style of hers is a dress with medium-gored skirt and surplice bodice, because the vertical lines cut her girth and the diagonal line slices her height with both distinction and sophistication. She shuns round-looking handbags, jewelry and hats, and seeks out those that are angular in design and important in size and appearance. Her millinery is low-crowned and diagonally-brimmed and neither dinky nor out-sized.

If you are tall and heavy, by copying her ways you'll gain in attractiveness and win more admiration. You'll gain even more if you take these ten tips:

1. Wear your clothes turned below mid-calf. 2. Have them fitted to avoid any bursting-at-the-seams look. 3. Adjust long sleeves to cover the wrist bones and short sleeves to extend just below the elbow. 4. Be sure that waistlines in garments are as long as your own. 5. Underline your clothes with a long-line corselet. 6. Eschew dreary and bright-bright colors; muted shades are for you—and they're fashion leaders for spring! 7. Dress your hair with a diagonal part, close to the crown and slick all around. 8. Circumvent the mincing or the forceful in your actions; make all your movements light and lithesome. 9. Teach yourself the art of serenity. 10. Consider yourself a "fine figger of a woman." That's what you are!

Miller Reveals His Associates

State Issues Charter To Dallas Grid Club

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 23 (INS) — Four prominent Dallas businessmen and sportsmen were named by Giles Miller today as his associates in the new Dallas Rangers professional football team.

Miller said that Harlan Ray, D. H. Byrd and Jack Vaughn, oilmen, and J. Curtis Sanford, originator of the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day game, are associated with him and his brother, Connell, in the new football venture.

The first board meeting will be held late today, and followed by a news conference.

The state of Texas has issued a charter to the Texas Football Rangers, Inc., of Dallas for a capital stock holding of $11,500 for 50 years. There will be 1,150 shares at $10 each.

Miller said that he, his brother and their wives would be the principal stockholders.

The coach and business manager of the team have not been named. Curly Lambeau, formerly of the Chicago Cardinals, Otis Douglas, Arkansas University and ex-Philadelphia Eagles mentor, and Dick Todd, former Texas A&M star and Washington Redskins coach, have been mentioned for the job.

Promoter Arrested In Cage Bribe

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—A former Cincinnati sports promoter was held in $10,000 bond today, named as the would-be briber of two University of Cincinnati basketball players.

Cincinnati was the eighth school drawn into the year-old basketball fix scandal—but its players were praised in court for turning down the bribes. The players were Alvin Rubenstein and Andy Laub.

The promoter, Sam D. Feinberg, 39, a stocky, bespectacled man, was held as a material witness. It was not explained why he was not a defendant.

Crafty Admiral Sets Track Mark

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 23 (INS) — Crafty Admiral, carrying lowest weight of 106 pounds, set a track record today at Hialeah to capture the $10,000 Palm Beach Handicap.

The four-year-old black colt owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cohen of Miami Beach streaked the seven furlong distance in 1:22 to best the old mark by two-fifths of a second.

Woodchuck was second and Oil Capitol finished third.

HERE SUNDAY — Jumping Jim Murray, former House of David and Washington Bears star will appear at a forward post on the Washington Colored Capitals team Sunday when the negro quint meets the Cumberland Spas at 9 p.m. on SS. Peter and Paul court. Murray specializes in a jump shot and excels in rebound work. The Spas will be seeking their fifth straight victory against the colored aggregation.

Frostburg Club Takes Lead In Shuffle League

Legion Defeats WOW In Ladies Circuit

The Frostburg American Legion shufflers turned back their arch rivals the Woodmen of the World to take sole possession of first place in the Women's National Shuffleboard League last night by winning three games from the WOW, breaking a tie for the lead.

In other matches played last night Century A. C. defeated Pocahontas 2-1, shoving the latter deeper in the cellar of the 11-team circuit, while Cresap Tavern and Stadium Inn each won three games from Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Moose Club.

The Legion and VFW were tied for first place prior to last night's meeting between the two teams.

Pat Frost, secretary of the women's league released the standings of the teams last night in addition to revealing the leading scorer of the loop and the high individual match effort for the season.

Prior to last night's games Olive Bottorf held the lead in scoring with 297 points in 15 matches or 45 games, an average of 19.8 points per three-game match. Mrs. Myrtle Clingerman holds the individual record for the year with 42 points scored against the Moose in one match.

Last night's leaders were Spates, Century, 25; Alda Dedman, Pocahontas, 21; Coleta McGuire 32 and Phyliss Geis 31 for Frostburg Legion; Mary Henderson, WOW, 18; Tilly Abrams, Cresap Tavern, 22; Vi Gibson, VFW, 18; Lil Bender, Stadium Inn, 29; and N. Roberts, Moose 22. The standings:

Savitt Pressed To Defeat Ayre In Net Match

McGregor, Sedgman, Rose Also Advance

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 23 (AP) —Defending champion Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., barely escaped with his skin today when he was forced to rally from 0-3 down in the fifth set to defeat Ian Ayre of Brisbane, 6-1, 6-4, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4, in the quarter finals of the Australian tennis championships.

After winning the first two sets easily, the big American appeared to wilt in the burning 100-degree heat and it was only by a supreme effort that he beat back the 22-year-old Queenslander's bid in the closing set. Both players were near exhaustion when it ended.

Savitt's opponent in Friday's semi-final will be tall Ken McGregor, whom he defeated in the finals of both the Australian and Wimbledon championship last year. McGregor turned back the unseeded veteran Geoff Brown today, 6-4, 6-2, 12-10.

It looked more and more like a final between Savitt and Frank Sedgman next Monday as the Aussie Davis Cup hero trounced Don Candy, 7-5, 6-1, 6-4. Lefthanded Mervyn Rose, who lost both his singles matches to America in the recent cup challenge round, was carried to the limit before he eliminated 17-year-old Ken Rosewell, 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 2-6, 6-2, in the remaining quarterfinal,

Hot Stovers Meet Tonight

New Team Managers Will Be Chosen

New team managers for the eight clubs in the Hot Stove League will be chosen tonight at the general membership meeting of the circuit at the Cumberland Brewing Company's social room at 8 o'clock.

President Earl Nonnenmann urges all former managers of teams in the league to be present at the conference if they again desire to lead the youthful ball clubs on the diamond this summer. The managers also will report on holdovers from the 1951 season, the president added.

An important executive board meeting will be held at 7 o'clock to discuss the possibility of formation of a new league for 15 and 16-year-old boys. Albert S. Paye is chairman of the board.

The annual draft of 1951 Little League players will be the most important part of tonight's agenda and Nonnenmann stated that all persons interested in formations of new teams or in assisting with old clubs are invited to be present.

Grantsville Trips Accident, 40-30

Dan Banquet Is Sold Out

David Kauffman To Be Toastmaster

Members of the Dapper Dan Club here have indicated that the annual dinner at the Knights of Columbus Home, Sunday, Feb. 3, is completely sold out.

A total of 350 tickets were printed and all are gone, they said.

David Kauffman, local attorney, will be toastmaster for the huge affair and guests will include Jake Mintz, co-manager of former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, Cliff Chambers of the St. Louis Cardinals, who hurled a no-hit game last season in the National League, and members of the University of Maryland football team which captured the Sugar Bowl championship New Year's Day.

The Cumberland Brewing Company has indicated it will furnish tickets for managers of the Little League baseball teams who will be guests of the company at the banquet.

It was also indicated that the Queen City Brewing Company will have the Maryland players as its guests at the affair.

Phoenix Open To Begin Today

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 23—(INS) —The $10,000 Phoenix golf open tournament begins tomorrow with three negroes, the first to appear in a PGA-sponsored meet, qualified for competition.

Negroes who qualified were Ted Rhodes, with a one-under-par 71, Eural Clark and Bill Spiller.

Joe Louis, ex-heavyweight boxing champion, failed to qualify yesterday with a sluggish 81, but to the fighter goes most of the credit for shattering the color line in the last of the major sports. He needed a 74 to qualify.

Gene Smith Scores Kayo Over Gonzales

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — With a whistling righthand punch that landed flush on his opponent's jaw, Gene Smith, Washington, tonight scored a spectacular knockout over Corky Gonzales, Denver, in 46 seconds of the third round in a scheduled 10-round bout at Uline Arena.

Smith weighed 126; Gonzales 127.

The cleancut kayo came shortly after the third round got under way. The two men cautiously exchanged blows. Then Smith moved in close and let go with a thunderous right hand that dropped Gonzales flat on his back.

Spas Seek 5th Straight Over Negro Quintet

Washington Club Features Former Globe Trotters

The Cumberland Spas will vie for No. 5 in a row Sunday night when they play host to the Washington Colored Capitols on the SS. Peter and Paul court at 9 p. m.

The Capitols, outstanding road attraction, recently completed a series of games with the Wheeling Blues, future foe of the Spas.

It will mark the first time the colored aggregation has appeared in Western Maryland. One of the leading road clubs in the country the Capitols are led by Zack Clayton, formerly of the Harlem Globetrotters who is a good shot and playmaker.

Cumberland, in an effort to get better attractions to the city, cancelled a previous engagement with the New York Giants and moved the Capitols appearance here up one week.

Cumberland, in its last start, made it four straight without defeat by blasting the Chicago Masked Marvels 78-39 on the local court.

Other members of the visiting Capitols are Leroy Whatley, former House of David star; Jumping Jim Murray, ex-Washington Bears forward who specializes in a jump shot and rebound play; Woody Woodcock, pivot ace from West Virginia who towers at 6' 5"; Joe Wilkie, formerly of Howard University who excells on defense; and Frank Woodcock, brother of Woody also from West Virginia.

Miller Reveals His Associates

State Issues Charter To Dallas Grid Club

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 23 (INS) — Four prominent Dallas businessmen and sportsmen were named by Giles Miller today as his associates in the new Dallas Rangers professional football team.

Miller said that Harlan Ray, D. H. Byrd and Jack Vaughn, oilmen, and J. Curtis Sanford, originator of the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day game, are associated with him and his brother, Connell, in the new football venture.

The first board meeting will be held late today, and followed by a news conference.

The state of Texas has issued a charter to the Texas Football Rangers, Inc., of Dallas for a capital stock holding of $11,500 for 50 years. There will be 1,150 shares at $10 each.

Miller said that he, his brother and their wives would be the principal stockholders.

The coach and business manager of the team have not been named. Curly Lambeau, formerly of the Chicago Cardinals, Otis Douglas, Arkansas University and ex-Philadelphia Eagles mentor, and Dick Todd, former Texas A&M star and Washington Redskins coach, have been mentioned for the job.

Promoter Arrested In Cage Bribe

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—A former Cincinnati sports promoter was held in $10,000 bond today, named as the would-be briber of two University of Cincinnati basketball players.

Cincinnati was the eighth school drawn into the year-old basketball fix scandal—but its players were praised in court for turning down the bribes. The players were Alvin Rubenstein and Andy Laub.

The promoter, Sam D. Feinberg, 39, a stocky, bespectacled man, was held as a material witness. It was not explained why he was not a defendant.

Crafty Admiral Sets Track Mark

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 23 (INS) — Crafty Admiral, carrying lowest weight of 106 pounds, set a track record today at Hialeah to capture the $10,000 Palm Beach Handicap.

The four-year-old black colt owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cohen of Miami Beach streaked the seven furlong distance in 1:22 to best the old mark by two-fifths of a second.

Woodchuck was second and Oil Capitol finished third.

HERE SUNDAY — Jumping Jim Murray, former House of David and Washington Bears star will appear at a forward post on the Washington Colored Capitals team Sunday when the negro quint meets the Cumberland Spas at 9 p.m. on SS. Peter and Paul court. Murray specializes in a jump shot and excels in rebound work. The Spas will be seeking their fifth straight victory against the colored aggregation.

Frostburg Club Takes Lead In Shuffle League

Legion Defeats WOW In Ladies Circuit

The Frostburg American Legion shufflers turned back their arch rivals the Woodmen of the World to take sole possession of first place in the Women's National Shuffleboard League last night by winning three games from the WOW, breaking a tie for the lead.

In other matches played last night Century A. C. defeated Pocahontas 2-1, shoving the latter deeper in the cellar of the 11-team circuit, while Cresap Tavern and Stadium Inn each won three games from Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Moose Club.

The Legion and VFW were tied for first place prior to last night's meeting between the two teams.

Pat Frost, secretary of the women's league released the standings of the teams last night in addition to revealing the leading scorer of the loop and the high individual match effort for the season.

Prior to last night's games Olive Bottorf held the lead in scoring with 297 points in 15 matches or 45 games, an average of 19.8 points per three-game match. Mrs. Myrtle Clingerman holds the individual record for the year with 42 points scored against the Moose in one match.

Last night's leaders were Spates, Century, 25; Alda Dedman, Pocahontas, 21; Coleta McGuire 32 and Phyliss Geis 31 for Frostburg Legion; Mary Henderson, WOW, 18; Tilly Abrams, Cresap Tavern, 22; Vi Gibson, VFW, 18; Lil Bender, Stadium Inn, 29; and N. Roberts, Moose 22. The standings:

Savitt Pressed To Defeat Ayre In Net Match

McGregor, Sedgman, Rose Also Advance

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 23 (AP) —Defending champion Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., barely escaped with his skin today when he was forced to rally from 0-3 down in the fifth set to defeat Ian Ayre of Brisbane, 6-1, 6-4, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4, in the quarter finals of the Australian tennis championships.

After winning the first two sets easily, the big American appeared to wilt in the burning 100-degree heat and it was only by a supreme effort that he beat back the 22-year-old Queenslander's bid in the closing set. Both players were near exhaustion when it ended.

Savitt's opponent in Friday's semi-final will be tall Ken McGregor, whom he defeated in the finals of both the Australian and Wimbledon championship last year. McGregor turned back the unseeded veteran Geoff Brown today, 6-4, 6-2, 12-10.

It looked more and more like a final between Savitt and Frank Sedgman next Monday as the Aussie Davis Cup hero trounced Don Candy, 7-5, 6-1, 6-4. Lefthanded Mervyn Rose, who lost both his singles matches to America in the recent cup challenge round, was carried to the limit before he eliminated 17-year-old Ken Rosewell, 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 2-6, 6-2, in the remaining quarterfinal,

Hot Stovers Meet Tonight

New Team Managers Will Be Chosen

New team managers for the eight clubs in the Hot Stove League will be chosen tonight at the general membership meeting of the circuit at the Cumberland Brewing Company's social room at 8 o'clock.

President Earl Nonnenmann urges all former managers of teams in the league to be present at the conference if they again desire to lead the youthful ball clubs on the diamond this summer. The managers also will report on holdovers from the 1951 season, the president added.

An important executive board meeting will be held at 7 o'clock to discuss the possibility of formation of a new league for 15 and 16-year-old boys. Albert S. Paye is chairman of the board.

The annual draft of 1951 Little League players will be the most important part of tonight's agenda and Nonnenmann stated that all persons interested in formations of new teams or in assisting with old clubs are invited to be present.

Dan Banquet Is Sold Out

David Kauffman To Be Toastmaster

Members of the Dapper Dan Club here have indicated that the annual dinner at the Knights of Columbus Home, Sunday, Feb. 3, is completely sold out.

A total of 350 tickets were printed and all are gone, they said.

David Kauffman, local attorney, will be toastmaster for the huge affair and guests will include Jake Mintz, co-manager of former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, Cliff Chambers of the St. Louis Cardinals, who hurled a no-hit game last season in the National League, and members of the University of Maryland football team which captured the Sugar Bowl championship New Year's Day.

The Cumberland Brewing Company has indicated it will furnish tickets for managers of the Little League baseball teams who will be guests of the company at the banquet.

It was also indicated that the Queen City Brewing Company will have the Maryland players as its guests at the affair.

Phoenix Open To Begin Today

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 23—(INS) —The $10,000 Phoenix golf open tournament begins tomorrow with three negroes, the first to appear in a PGA-sponsored meet, qualified for competition.

Negroes who qualified were Ted Rhodes, with a one-under-par 71, Eural Clark and Bill Spiller.

Joe Louis, ex-heavyweight boxing champion, failed to qualify yesterday with a sluggish 81, but to the fighter goes most of the credit for shattering the color line in the last of the major sports. He needed a 74 to qualify.

Gene Smith Scores Kayo Over Gonzales

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — With a whistling righthand punch that landed flush on his opponent's jaw, Gene Smith, Washington, tonight scored a spectacular knockout over Corky Gonzales, Denver, in 46 seconds of the third round in a scheduled 10-round bout at Uline Arena.

Smith weighed 126; Gonzales 127.

The cleancut kayo came shortly after the third round got under way. The two men cautiously exchanged blows. Then Smith moved in close and let go with a thunderous right hand that dropped Gonzales flat on his back.

Spas Seek 5th Straight Over Negro Quintet

Washington Club Features Former Globe Trotters

The Cumberland Spas will vie for No. 5 in a row Sunday night when they play host to the Washington Colored Capitols on the SS. Peter and Paul court at 9 p. m.

The Capitols, outstanding road attraction, recently completed a series of games with the Wheeling Blues, future foe of the Spas.

It will mark the first time the colored aggregation has appeared in Western Maryland. One of the leading road clubs in the country the Capitols are led by Zack Clayton, formerly of the Harlem Globetrotters who is a good shot and playmaker.

Cumberland, in an effort to get better attractions to the city, cancelled a previous engagement with the New York Giants and moved the Capitols appearance here up one week.

Cumberland, in its last start, made it four straight without defeat by blasting the Chicago Masked Marvels 78-39 on the local court.

Other members of the visiting Capitols are Leroy Whatley, former House of David star; Jumping Jim Murray, ex-Washington Bears forward who specializes in a jump shot and rebound play; Woody Woodcock, pivot ace from West Virginia who towers at 6' 5"; Joe Wilkie, formerly of Howard University who excells on defense; and Frank Woodcock, brother of Woody also from West Virginia.

Miller Reveals His Associates

State Issues Charter To Dallas Grid Club

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 23 (INS) — Four prominent Dallas businessmen and sportsmen were named by Giles Miller today as his associates in the new Dallas Rangers professional football team.

Miller said that Harlan Ray, D. H. Byrd and Jack Vaughn, oilmen, and J. Curtis Sanford, originator of the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day game, are associated with him and his brother, Connell, in the new football venture.

The first board meeting will be held late today, and followed by a news conference.

The state of Texas has issued a charter to the Texas Football Rangers, Inc., of Dallas for a capital stock holding of $11,500 for 50 years. There will be 1,150 shares at $10 each.

Miller said that he, his brother and their wives would be the principal stockholders.

The coach and business manager of the team have not been named. Curly Lambeau, formerly of the Chicago Cardinals, Otis Douglas, Arkansas University and ex-Philadelphia Eagles mentor, and Dick Todd, former Texas A&M star and Washington Redskins coach, have been mentioned for the job.

Promoter Arrested In Cage Bribe

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—A former Cincinnati sports promoter was held in $10,000 bond today, named as the would-be briber of two University of Cincinnati basketball players.

Cincinnati was the eighth school drawn into the year-old basketball fix scandal—but its players were praised in court for turning down the bribes. The players were Alvin Rubenstein and Andy Laub.

The promoter, Sam D. Feinberg, 39, a stocky, bespectacled man, was held as a material witness. It was not explained why he was not a defendant.

Crafty Admiral Sets Track Mark

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 23 (INS) — Crafty Admiral, carrying lowest weight of 106 pounds, set a track record today at Hialeah to capture the $10,000 Palm Beach Handicap.

The four-year-old black colt owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cohen of Miami Beach streaked the seven furlong distance in 1:22 to best the old mark by two-fifths of a second.

Woodchuck was second and Oil Capitol finished third.

HERE SUNDAY — Jumping Jim Murray, former House of David and Washington Bears star will appear at a forward post on the Washington Colored Capitals team Sunday when the negro quint meets the Cumberland Spas at 9 p.m. on SS. Peter and Paul court. Murray specializes in a jump shot and excels in rebound work. The Spas will be seeking their fifth straight victory against the colored aggregation.

Frostburg Club Takes Lead In Shuffle League

Legion Defeats WOW In Ladies Circuit

The Frostburg American Legion shufflers turned back their arch rivals the Woodmen of the World to take sole possession of first place in the Women's National Shuffleboard League last night by winning three games from the WOW, breaking a tie for the lead.

In other matches played last night Century A. C. defeated Pocahontas 2-1, shoving the latter deeper in the cellar of the 11-team circuit, while Cresap Tavern and Stadium Inn each won three games from Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Moose Club.

The Legion and VFW were tied for first place prior to last night's meeting between the two teams.

Pat Frost, secretary of the women's league released the standings of the teams last night in addition to revealing the leading scorer of the loop and the high individual match effort for the season.

Prior to last night's games Olive Bottorf held the lead in scoring with 297 points in 15 matches or 45 games, an average of 19.8 points per three-game match. Mrs. Myrtle Clingerman holds the individual record for the year with 42 points scored against the Moose in one match.

Last night's leaders were Spates, Century, 25; Alda Dedman, Pocahontas, 21; Coleta McGuire 32 and Phyliss Geis 31 for Frostburg Legion; Mary Henderson, WOW, 18; Tilly Abrams, Cresap Tavern, 22; Vi Gibson, VFW, 18; Lil Bender, Stadium Inn, 29; and N. Roberts, Moose 22. The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Frostburg Legion	32	13	.711
Woodmen Of World	29	16	.644
Century A. C.	28	17	.622

Savitt Pressed To Defeat Ayre In Net Match

McGregor, Sedgman, Rose Also Advance

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 23 (AP) —Defending champion Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., barely escaped with his skin today when he was forced to rally from 0-3 down in the fifth set to defeat Ian Ayre of Brisbane, 6-1, 6-4, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4, in the quarter finals of the Australian tennis championships.

After winning the first two sets easily, the big American appeared to wilt in the burning 100-degree heat and it was only by a supreme effort that he beat back the 22-year-old Queenslander's bid in the closing set. Both players were near exhaustion when it ended.

Savitt's opponent in Friday's semi-final will be tall Ken McGregor, whom he defeated in the finals of both the Australian and Wimbledon championship last year. McGregor turned back the unseeded veteran Geoff Brown today, 6-4, 6-2, 12-10.

It looked more and more like a final between Savitt and Frank Sedgman next Monday as the Aussie Davis Cup hero trounced Don Candy, 7-5, 6-1, 6-4. Lefthanded Mervyn Rose, who lost both his singles matches to America in the recent cup challenge round, was carried to the limit before he eliminated 17-year-old Ken Rosewell, 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 2-6, 6-2, in the remaining quarterfinal, quorterfinal,

Max Lanier Inks N. Y. Giants Contract

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (INS)—Veteran left-hander Max Lanier has signed his 1952 contract with the New York Giants.

Lanier, acquired from the St. Louis Cardinals with Chuck Diering in the Ed Stanky trade, sent in his signed pact today from St. Petersburg, Fla., where he is in the restaurant business.

The 36-year-old southpaw is the 12th Giant to come to terms.

Mae Murray Wins Golf Medal Honors At Miami Course

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 23 (AP) — Mae Murray of Rutland, Vt., shooting the day's only sub-par golf, won medal honors today in the qualifying round of the Helen Lee Doherty women's amateur golf tournament.

Miss Murray's 35-39—74, one under women's tournament par for the Miami Country Club course, gave her a two-stroke edge as 152 competitors battled for 31 vacant places in the championship flight. Defending champion Claire Doran of Cleveland was not required to qualify.

Deadlocked in second place with 76s were Mary Ann Downey, Trans-Mississippi champion from Baltimore, Md.; Polly Riley, Southern titleholder from Fort Worth, Tex., and Barbara Romack, long-hitting, 19-year-old Sacramento, Calif., girl.

Match play will begin tomorrow over the 18-hole route. The 36-hole final is scheduled for Sunday.

Hot Stovers Meet Tonight

New Team Managers Will Be Chosen

New team managers for the eight clubs in the Hot Stove League will be chosen tonight at the general membership meeting of the circuit at the Cumberland Brewing Company's social room at 8 o'clock.

President Earl Nonnenmann urges all former managers of teams in the league to be present at the conference if they again desire to lead the youthful ball clubs on the diamond this summer. The managers also will report on holdovers from the 1951 season, the president added.

An important executive board meeting will be held at 7 o'clock to discuss the possibility of formation of a new league for 15 and 16-year-old boys. Albert S. Paye is chairman of the board.

The annual draft of 1951 Little League players will be the most important part of tonight's agenda and Nonnenmann stated that all persons interested in formations of new teams or in assisting with old clubs are invited to be present.

Dan Banquet Is Sold Out

David Kauffman To Be Toastmaster

Members of the Dapper Dan Club here have indicated that the annual dinner at the Knights of Columbus Home, Sunday, Feb. 3, is completely sold out.

A total of 350 tickets were printed and all are gone, they said.

David Kauffman, local attorney, will be toastmaster for the huge affair and guests will include Jake Mintz, co-manager of former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, Cliff Chambers of the St. Louis Cardinals, who hurled a no-hit game last season in the National League, and members of the University of Maryland football team which captured the Sugar Bowl championship New Year's Day.

The Cumberland Brewing Company has indicated it will furnish tickets for managers of the Little League baseball teams who will be guests of the company at the banquet.

It was also indicated that the Queen City Brewing Company will have the Maryland players as its guests at the affair.

Phoenix Open To Begin Today

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 23—(INS) —The $10,000 Phoenix golf open tournament begins tomorrow with three negroes, the first to appear in a PGA-sponsored meet, qualified for competition.

Negroes who qualified were Ted Rhodes, with a one-under-par 71, Eural Clark and Bill Spiller.

Joe Louis, ex-heavyweight boxing champion, failed to qualify yesterday with a sluggish 81, but to the fighter goes most of the credit for shattering the color line in the last of the major sports. He needed a 74 to qualify.

Gene Smith Scores Kayo Over Gonzales

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — With a whistling righthand punch that landed flush on his opponent's jaw, Gene Smith, Washington, tonight scored a spectacular knockout over Corky Gonzales, Denver, in 46 seconds of the third round in a scheduled 10-round bout at Uline Arena.

Smith weighed 126; Gonzales 127.

The cleancut kayo came shortly after the third round got under way. The two men cautiously exchanged blows. Then Smith moved in close and let go with a thunderous right hand that dropped Gonzales flat on his back.

Spas Seek 5th Straight Over Negro Quintet

Washington Club Features Former Globe Trotters

The Cumberland Spas will vie for No. 5 in a row Sunday night when they play host to the Washington Colored Capitols on the SS. Peter and Paul court at 9 p. m.

The Capitols, outstanding road attraction, recently completed a series of games with the Wheeling Blues, future foe of the Spas.

It will mark the first time the colored aggregation has appeared in Western Maryland. One of the leading road clubs in the country the Capitols are led by Zack Clayton, formerly of the Harlem Globetrotters who is a good shot and playmaker.

Cumberland, in an effort to get better attractions to the city, cancelled a previous engagement with the New York Giants and moved the Capitols appearance here up one week.

Cumberland, in its last start, made it four straight without defeat by blasting the Chicago Masked Marvels 78-39 on the local court.

Other members of the visiting Capitols are Leroy Whatley, former House of David star; Jumping Jim Murray, ex-Washington Bears forward who specializes in a jump shot and rebound play; Woody Woodcock, pivot ace from West Virginia who towers at 6' 5"; Joe Wilkie, formerly of Howard University who excells on defense; and Frank Woodcock, brother of Woody also from West Virginia.

St. Louis Clubs Put Bite On Fans To Attend Games

Owners And Managers On Luncheon Circuit

BY NELLO CASSAI

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 23—(AP)—If personal appearances will put fans in the bleachers, the Browns and Cardinals should break all attendance records this year.

Like jungle "beaters," Owner Bill Veeck of the Browns and Manager Eddie Stanky of the Cards are thrashing the bushes in a wild winter-time scramble for patronage.

"Drive them to the turnstiles," seems to be the cry of this strange chorus on the banquet circuit.

Veeck Started Drive

The tireless Veeck started beating the drums first. He likes noise and to him it's just possible to be in two places at once.

Stanky is catching on. Although a novice in this hungry race to luncheons — anyone's luncheon — he's touching a few good-will bases of his own.

Yesterday, for instance, he appeared on two TV shows here, then raced to a northside civic affair. Monday night he was on three different radio programs in Springfield, Ill. Today he was in East St. Louis.

Tomorrow he's off for the Missouri capital at Jefferson City, then down to Springfield, Mo., on Friday. Saturday it's back to St. Louis and next Monday to Omaha, Neb.

But Veeck seems to be putting on more speed and like a fast express he sweeps other members of the Brownie family along with him on the grand tour of the hinterlands.

At noon yesterday Veeck's wife, Mary Francis, spoke to an advertising club at Hotel Statler here. One floor below, the man with the sports shirt and furrowed brow chatted and joked with Missouri and Illinois press and radio representatives.

Speaks To 275 Groups

Later Veeck took off with Traveling Secretary Bill Durney in time to catch the dessert at a luncheon in Alton, Ill., where his new manager, Rogers Hornsby, already had participated in the main course—or chorus.

Nor can you forget that on the Brownie side is another man of words, Dizzy Dean, who will do the team's radio broadcasting this season.

Veeck estimates that since he took over as president of the Browns he has spoken to 275 groups and about 250,000 potential customers.

Even Marty Marion has been swept up in the public relations scramble. As player-coach of the Browns he has made a number of personal appearances around town lately.

Moran 4th Among Maryland Scorers

Big Don Moran, former star athlete at Bruce High of Westernport, is fourth highest scorer on the University of Maryland's Terrapins basketball team this season with 90 points in 13 games.

Don also is fourth in percentage of foul shooting, having converted 28 of 39 tries for 72 per cent. He has hit on 31 of 89 attempts from the field and has tallied 57 points against Southern Conference foes.

The tall, blond center converted eight of nine free throws against North Carolina to tie Forward Lee Brawley for the most fouls scored in one game. Brawley leads the Maryland point-getters with 170.

The offspring of one pair of barn rats, excluding deaths, would exceed 350,000 within the space of three years.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (INS) — There appears to be little doubt that Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin is our best miler and probably our only hope of winning the metric mile (1500 meters) at the Olympics this summer.

Track coaches argue over Don's ability. Those who think he is unbeatable argue that he runs only hard enough to win and believe that if a fast enough pace were set for him he might come close to the mystical four-minute mile.

It is certain that Fred Wilt, a natural two-miler, hasn't the finishing kick to hold off Gehrmann's closing burst of speed in the stretch.

It is equally certain that Don can follow a 3:06 pace for three quarters and outfinish anybody we have around today. But how much kick would Don have left if one of those Swift Swedes or Flying Finns shaded 3 minutes for three-quarters? And he is sure to face just such a pace at the Olympics.

When Gundar Haag set the world mark for the mile at 4:01.4, he reeled off the first quarter in 56.6, hit the half in 1:59.5, the three-quarters in 3:01.4 and topped it off with a final quarter in one minute flat.

That's the closest approach to a four-minute mile yet made.

Now the question before the house is: could Don follow such a heart-breaking pace and still have enough left to uncork his usual blistering finish?

Wilt has tried repeatedly to run the kick out of Gehrmann and will try it again at the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

But Wilt simply hasn't a true miler's speed and any time Gehrmann is running anywhere near his best the FBI man does not figure to win.

Runners like heavyweight fighters sometimes develop amazingly overnight and for that reason we hesitate to say that nobody but Gehrmann can win any points for us in the Olympic metric mile.

A youngster like Fred Dwyer of Villanova might suddenly come to life as others are doing in other events.

For instance, Manhattan College now has three sprinters — Jack O'Connell, Joe Schatzle and Lindy Remigano—who have been clocked in 9.7 for the century and Schatzle has shaded 22 seconds for the 220. With ordinary improvement, those three should make the team.

Manhattan also has a hammer thrower — Steve Dillon — who has done better than 184 and he would seem to be a sure point winner.

And we have any number of high jumpers capable of a 6' 7" leap anytime they start. Some of them are "belly rollers"; some use the western roll. If you don't know what they are, a "belly roller" goes over the bar facing the ground and often lands on his back. A western roller goes over with his side facing the ground.

All in all, the U. S. olympic team's chances look brighter every day.

Schedule Changed

A change has been made in Saturday's YMCA Sunday School Basketball League schedule, Clifton Van Roby, physical ed director, stated last night. The St. Matthew's-Living Stone contest originally set for 4:35 p. m. at Campobello has been moved to the "Y" court and the time moved up to 11 a. m., Roby stated.

Stadium Inn Hosts Century Shuffle Team

Their 11-game victory streak halted last week by the Cumberland Amvets, the front-running Stadium Inn shufflers hope to regain their winning form tonight when they play hosts to the Century Club of Frostburg in an Allegany County League match.

Stadium holds a three-game lead over the Cumberland Knights of Columbus who are slated to visit the Military Order of Purple Heart tonight.

Cumberland V. F. W., in third place two full games back of the Knights, tackle the Viaduct Inn team tonight at the latter place.

Other matches are: Frostburg Legion at Cumberland Amvets, Mt. Savage V.F.W. at Goodfellowship Club and Fisher and Robinette at the Alhambra Club.

The W.O.W. at Frostburg K. of C. match is set for tomorrow.

Tonight marks the 16th week of the 26 weeks' schedule which ends on April 3.

U. S. Hockey Team Beaten By Britons

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The American olympic ice hockey team took a 9-4 beating tonight at the hands of the British champions Streatham team.

It was the start of a pre-olympic European tour by the Americans who will compete in the winter games at Oslo next month.

Zawoluk May Break N. Y. Scoring Record

BROOKLYN, Jan. 23 (AP)—Big Bob Zawoluk of St. John's University needs only five points against Temple in Philadelphia Saturday night to become the first player from a New York City college to score 1,500 points.

The St. John's publicity office today toted up the 6-6½ senior center's figures and discovered he has accumulated 1,495 points in 2½ seasons. He has connected for 253 points in 14 games this season.

Berra And McDougald Sign Yankee Pacts

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — The New York Yankees today signed their two prize winners—Catcher Yogi Berra and Infielder Gil McDougald—to one year contracts calling for handsome raises.

No figures were given but it was believed that Berra, named the American League's Most Valuable Player for 1951, signed for $35,000 or about $5,000 more than for last year. He hit .294 last year.

McDougald, who hit .306 for the Yanks and was picked as the league's Rookie of the Year, was believed to have signed for $12,000, about twice as much as he collected in 1951.

Nichols Passes Exam

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 23 (AP) —Chet Nichols, Jr., Boston Braves lefthander who had the best National League earned run average last season, was declared fit today for service in the armed forces.

Final reports on Nichols' physical examination came from the Providence induction center.

St. Louis Clubs Put Bite On Fans To Attend Games

Owners And Managers On Luncheon Circuit

BY NELLO CASSAI

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 23—(AP)—If personal appearances will put fans in the bleachers, the Browns and Cardinals should break all attendance records this year.

Like jungle "beaters," Owner Bill Veeck of the Browns and Manager Eddie Stanky of the Cards are thrashing the bushes in a wild winter-time scramble for patronage.

"Drive them to the turnstiles," seems to be the cry of this strange chorus on the banquet circuit.

Veeck Started Drive

The tireless Veeck started beating the drums first. He likes noise and to him it's just possible to be in two places at once.

Stanky is catching on. Although a novice in this hungry race to luncheons — anyone's luncheon — he's touching a few good-will bases of his own.

Yesterday, for instance, he appeared on two TV shows here, then raced to a northside civic affair. Monday night he was on three different radio programs in Springfield, Ill. Today he was in East St. Louis.

Tomorrow he's off for the Missouri capital at Jefferson City, then down to Springfield, Mo., on Friday. Saturday it's back to St. Louis and next Monday to Omaha, Neb.

But Veeck seems to be putting on more speed and like a fast express he sweeps other members of the Brownie family along with him on the grand tour of the hinterlands.

At noon yesterday Veeck's wife, Mary Francis, spoke to an advertising club at Hotel Statler here. One floor below, the man with the sports shirt and furrowed brow chatted and joked with Missouri and Illinois press and radio representatives.

Speaks To 275 Groups

Later Veeck took off with Traveling Secretary Bill Durney in time to catch the dessert at a luncheon in Alton, Ill., where his new manager, Rogers Hornsby, already had participated in the main course—or chorus.

Nor can you forget that on the Brownie side is another man of words, Dizzy Dean, who will do the team's radio broadcasting this season.

Veeck estimates that since he took over as president of the Browns he has spoken to 275 groups and about 250,000 potential customers.

Even Marty Marion has been swept up in the public relations scramble. As player-coach of the Browns he has made a number of personal appearances around town lately.

Moran 4th Among Maryland Scorers

Big Don Moran, former star athlete at Bruce High of Westernport, is fourth highest scorer on the University of Maryland's Terrapins basketball team this season with 90 points in 13 games.

Don also is fourth in percentage of foul shooting, having converted 28 of 39 tries for 72 per cent. He has hit on 31 of 89 attempts from the field and has tallied 57 points against Southern Conference foes.

The tall, blond center converted eight of nine free throws against North Carolina to tie Forward Lee Brawley for the most fouls scored in one game. Brawley leads the Maryland point-getters with 170.

The offspring of one pair of barn rats, excluding deaths, would exceed 350,000 within the space of three years.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (INS) — There appears to be little doubt that Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin is our best miler and probably our only hope of winning the metric mile (1500 meters) at the Olympics this summer.

Track coaches argue over Don's ability. Those who think he is unbeatable argue that he runs only hard enough to win and believe that if a fast enough pace were set for him he might come close to the mystical four-minute mile.

It is certain that Fred Wilt, a natural two-miler, hasn't the finishing kick to hold off Gehrmann's closing burst of speed in the stretch.

It is equally certain that Don can follow a 3:06 pace for three quarters and outfinish anybody we have around today. But how much kick would Don have left if one of those Swift Swedes or Flying Finns shaded 3 minutes for three-quarters? And he is sure to face just such a pace at the Olympics.

When Gundar Haag set the world mark for the mile at 4:01.4, he reeled off the first quarter in 56.6, hit the half in 1:59.5, the three-quarters in 3:01.4 and topped it off with a final quarter in one minute flat.

That's the closest approach to a four-minute mile yet made.

Now the question before the house is: could Don follow such a heart-breaking pace and still have enough left to uncork his usual blistering finish?

Wilt has tried repeatedly to run the kick out of Gehrmann and will try it again at the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

But Wilt simply hasn't a true miler's speed and any time Gehrmann is running anywhere near his best the FBI man does not figure to win.

Runners like heavyweight fighters sometimes develop amazingly overnight and for that reason we hesitate to say that nobody but Gehrmann can win any points for us in the Olympic metric mile.

A youngster like Fred Dwyer of Villanova might suddenly come to life as others are doing in other events.

For instance, Manhattan College now has three sprinters — Jack O'Connell, Joe Schatzle and Lindy Remigano—who have been clocked in 9.7 for the century and Schatzle has shaded 22 seconds for the 220. With ordinary improvement, those three should make the team.

Manhattan also has a hammer thrower — Steve Dillon — who has done better than 184 and he would seem to be a sure point winner.

And we have any number of high jumpers capable of a 6' 7" leap anytime they start. Some of them are "belly rollers"; some use the western roll. If you don't know what they are, a "belly roller" goes over the bar facing the ground and often lands on his back. A western roller goes over with his side facing the ground.

All in all, the U. S. olympic team's chances look brighter every day.

Schedule Changed

A change has been made in Saturday's YMCA Sunday School Basketball League schedule, Clifton Van Roby, physical ed director, stated last night. The St. Matthew's-Living Stone contest originally set for 4:35 p. m. at Campobello has been moved to the "Y" court and the time moved up to 11 a. m., Roby stated.

Zawoluk May Break N. Y. Scoring Record

BROOKLYN, Jan. 23 (AP)—Big Bob Zawoluk of St. John's University needs only five points against Temple in Philadelphia Saturday night to become the first player from a New York City college to score 1,500 points.

The St. John's publicity office today toted up the 6-6½ senior center's figures and discovered he has accumulated 1,495 points in 2½ seasons. He has connected for 253 points in 14 games this season.

Berra And McDougald Sign Yankee Pacts

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — The New York Yankees today signed their two prize winners—Catcher Yogi Berra and Infielder Gil McDougald—to one year contracts calling for handsome raises.

No figures were given but it was believed that Berra, named the American League's Most Valuable Player for 1951, signed for $35,000 or about $5,000 more than for last year. He hit .294 last year.

McDougald, who hit .306 for the Yanks and was picked as the league's Rookie of the Year, was believed to have signed for $12,000, about twice as much as he collected in 1951.

St. Louis Clubs Put Bite On Fans To Attend Games

Owners And Managers On Luncheon Circuit

BY NELLO CASSAI

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 23—(AP)—If personal appearances will put fans in the bleachers, the Browns and Cardinals should break all attendance records this year.

Like jungle "beaters," Owner Bill Veeck of the Browns and Manager Eddie Stanky of the Cards are thrashing the bushes in a wild winter-time scramble for patronage.

"Drive them to the turnstiles," seems to be the cry of this strange chorus on the banquet circuit.

Veeck Started Drive

The tireless Veeck started beating the drums first. He likes noise and to him it's just possible to be in two places at once.

Stanky is catching on. Although a novice in this hungry race to luncheons — anyone's luncheon — he's touching a few good-will bases of his own.

Yesterday, for instance, he appeared on two TV shows here, then raced to a northside civic affair. Monday night he was on three different radio programs in Springfield, Ill. Today he was in East St. Louis.

Tomorrow he's off for the Missouri capital at Jefferson City, then down to Springfield, Mo., on Friday. Saturday it's back to St. Louis and next Monday to Omaha, Neb.

But Veeck seems to be putting on more speed and like a fast express he sweeps other members of the Brownie family along with him on the grand tour of the hinterlands.

At noon yesterday Veeck's wife, Mary Francis, spoke to an advertising club at Hotel Statler here. One floor below, the man with the sports shirt and furrowed brow chatted and joked with Missouri and Illinois press and radio representatives.

Speaks To 275 Groups

Later Veeck took off with Traveling Secretary Bill Durney in time to catch the dessert at a luncheon in Alton, Ill., where his new manager, Rogers Hornsby, already had participated in the main course—or chorus.

Nor can you forget that on the Brownie side is another man of words, Dizzy Dean, who will do the team's radio broadcasting this season.

Veeck estimates that since he took over as president of the Browns he has spoken to 275 groups and about 250,000 potential customers.

Even Marty Marion has been swept up in the public relations scramble. As player-coach of the Browns he has made a number of personal appearances around town lately.

Moran 4th Among Maryland Scorers

Big Don Moran, former star athlete at Bruce High of Westernport, is fourth highest scorer on the University of Maryland's Terrapins basketball team this season with 90 points in 13 games.

Don also is fourth in percentage of foul shooting, having converted 28 of 39 tries for 72 per cent. He has hit on 31 of 89 attempts from the field and has tallied 57 points against Southern Conference foes.

The tall, blond center converted eight of nine free throws against North Carolina to tie Forward Lee Brawley for the most fouls scored in one game. Brawley leads the Maryland point-getters with 170.

The offspring of one pair of barn rats, excluding deaths, would exceed 350,000 within the space of three years.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (INS) — There appears to be little doubt that Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin is our best miler and probably our only hope of winning the metric mile (1500 meters) at the Olympics this summer.

Track coaches argue over Don's ability. Those who think he is unbeatable argue that he runs only hard enough to win and believe that if a fast enough pace were set for him he might come close to the mystical four-minute mile.

It is certain that Fred Wilt, a natural two-miler, hasn't the finishing kick to hoid off Gehrmann's closing burst of speed in the stretch.

It is equally certain that Don can follow a 3:06 pace for three quarters and outfinish anybody we have around today. But how much kick would Don have left if one of those Swift Swedes or Flying Finns shaded 3 minutes for three-quarters? And he is sure to face just such a pace at the Olympics.

When Gundar Haag set the world mark for the mile at 4:01.4, he reeled off the first quarter in 56.6, hit the half in 1:59.5, the three-quarters in 3:01.4 and topped it off with a final quarter in one minute flat.

That's the closest approach to a four-minute mile yet made.

Now the question before the house is: could Don follow such a heart-breaking pace and still have enough left to uncork his usual blistering finish?

Wilt has tried repeatedly to run the kick out of Gehrmann and will try it again at the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

But Wilt simply hasn't a true miler's speed and any time Gehrmann is running anywhere near his best the FBI man does not figure to win.

Runners like heavyweight fighters sometimes develop amazingly overnight and for that reason we hesitate to say that nobody but Gehrmann can win any points for us in the Olympic metric mile.

A youngster like Fred Dwyer of Villanova might suddenly come to life as others are doing in other events.

For instance, Manhattan College now has three sprinters — Jack O'Connell, Joe Schatzle and Lindy Remigano—who have been clocked in 9.7 for the century and Schatzle has shaded 22 seconds for the 220. With ordinary improvement, those three should make the team.

Manhattan also has a hammer thrower—Steve Dillon—who has done better than 184 and he would seem to be a sure point winner.

And we have any number of high jumpers capable of a 6' 7" leap anytime they start. Some of them are "belly rollers"; some use the western roll. If you don't know what they are, a "belly roller" goes over the bar facing the ground and often lands on his back. A western roller goes over with his side facing the ground.

All in all, the U. S. olympic team's chahces look brighter every day.

Schedule Changed

A change has been made in Saturday's YMCA Sunday School Basketball League schedule, Clifton Van Roby, physical ed director, stated last night. The St. Matthew's-Living Stone contest originally set for 4:35 p. m. at Campobello has been moved to the "Y" court and the time moved up to 11 a. m., Roby stated.

Zawoluk May Break N. Y. Scoring Record

BROOKLYN, Jan. 23 (AP)—Big Bob Zawoluk of St. John's University needs only five points against Temple in Philadelphia Saturday night to become the first player from a New York City college to score 1,500 points.

The St. John's publicity office today toted up the 6-6½ senior center's figures and discovered he has accumulated 1,495 points in 2½ seasons. He has connected for 253 points in 14 games this season.

Berra And McDougald Sign Yankee Pacts

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — The New York Yankees today signed their two prize winners—Catcher Yogi Berra and Infielder Gil McDougald—to one year contracts calling for handsome raises.

No figures were given but it was believed that Berra, named the American League's Most Valuable Player for 1951, signed for $35,000 or about $5,000 more than for last year. He hit .294 last year.

McDougald, who hit .306 for the Yanks and was picked as the league's Rookie of the Year, was believed to have signed for $12,000, about twice as much as he collected in 1951.

Nichols Passes Exam

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 23 (AP) —Chet Nichols, Jr., Boston Braves lefthander who had the best National League earned run average last season, was declared fit today for service in the armed forces.

Final reports on Nichols' physical examination came from the Providence induction center.

New Bapistry Dedicated By Eckhart Church

Service Repeated Because Of Crowd

FROSTBURG — Eckhart Baptist Church was crowded to capacity Tuesday and Wednesday evening by residents of the community and neighboring localities who attended services in connection with the unveiling of a new baptistry.

The service was in charge of Rev. Sydney S. Aldrich, pastor, and the program was as follows:

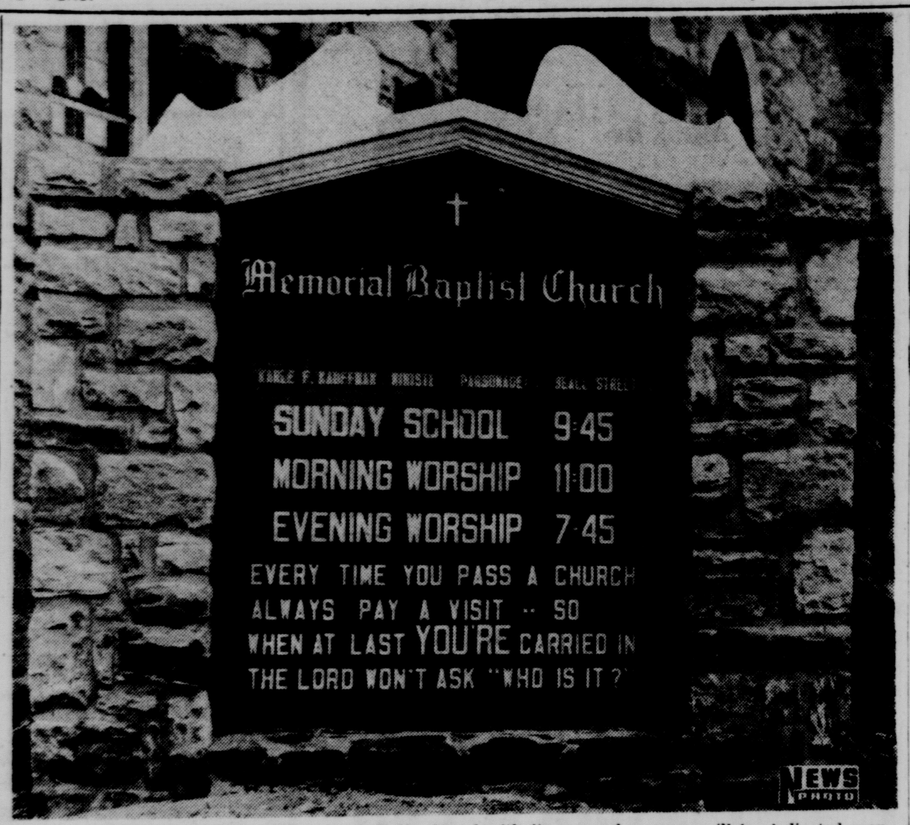
Congregation, "I Love to Tell the Story," and "Onward, Christian Soldiers;" prayer, Rev. William Stroup, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Cresaptown; vocal duet, Rev. and Mrs. Dale Flemming, Confluence, Pa.

Ceremonial address, Rev. Aldrich, who also introduced the artist who created the baptistry, J. Alfred Fullerton. Following remarks by the artist, the choir sang "Conquering Now and Still to Conquer" and Mrs. Aldrich sang the unveiling solo, "The Unveiled Christ."

Other numbers following were, Congregation, "Heavenly Sunlight"; men's trio, "Footsteps of Jesus," F. Earl Kreitzburg, Melvin Muir and Rev. Aldrich; solo, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," J. Alfred Fullerton; women's trio, "God Leads Us Along," Mrs. Kreitzburg, Miss Edith Eckhart and Mrs. Aldrich.

Choir, "Over Jordon"; solo, "When I get to the End of the Way," Mrs. Leah Rephann; trumpet solo, Rev. Flemming; choir, "Hallelujah for the Cross."

Fullerton presented the painting to Rev. Aldrich, who gave the acceptance speech and prayer of dedication. An instrumental number by Mr. and Mrs. Fullerton followed, and Rev. Flemming led the congregational song and benediction.



NEW CHURCH BULLETIN—This new bulletin board with its unusual message will be dedicated soon by Welsh Memorial Baptist Church, Frostburg. Built by Charles F. Engle and George Engle, Frostburg contractors, the board was donated to the church by Mr. and Mrs. Royal Skidmore, Frostburg, as a memorial to Skidmore's father, the late Clifton W. Skidmore. The dedication will be held after the lawn landscaping is completed.

Miss Cook Named Church Deaconess

FROSTBURG—Miss Olive Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin O. Cook, Wood Street, was commissioned a deaconess of the Methodist Church in a service Friday in New York by the Board of Missions and Church Extension.

Police Chief's Suspension Cut By Council Vote

Stanley Davis To Return To Force

LONACONING — A 30-day suspension imposed on Police Chief Stanley Davis by the Mayor and Council last week has been trimmed to 10 days.

At a special meeting Tuesday night, the Council amended the original order, which relieved Davis of his duties for "holding out" on town officials.

Police Commissioner William Berry, who had recommended Davis' suspension, was sponsor of the amendment, which split the council 4-2.

Voting for the modification Councilmen were Berry, Douglas Waddell, Fred Stoudt and James Nightingale. Opposed were John R. Merrbaugh and Wilmoth Garlitz.

Mayor Virgil Alexander, who first preferred charges against Davis, also went on record in opposition to leniency, although he has no vote except in case of a tie.

Davis began serving his suspension last Tuesday after he was charged with tampering with a time clock recently installed at the town hall to keep a check on patrolmens' movements.

Tuesday's meeting was called by Mayor Alexander at the request of a majority of councilmen.

The Council also voted a $100 annual increase in the salary of Mrs. Sara B. Schramm, town clerk, bringing her total salary to $1,000.

Orchardists To Meet Jan. 31

BEDFORD, Pa. — Fruit growers will meet in the Court House here Thursday, January 31, to get the 1952 spraying recommendations of the Extension Service of Pennsylvania State College. E. J. Udine will present the insect control recommendations and L. P. Nichols the materials for disease prevention.

A morning session beginning at 10 o'clock will cover small fruits, including raspberries and strawberries. Apple disease and insect control will be the center of interest during the afternoon program, which starts at 1:30 p.m.

Chairman for the small fruit group will be Clan Claycomb, New Enterprise, and for the apple growers, Albert Wingard, New Paris.

New pesticides appearing on the market each year require constant testing by experiment stations to determine their value, according to County Agent L. R. Mollenaur. He said growers need to keep informed of new progress in the age-old battle of man against the forces threatening his food supply.

Police Chief's Suspension Cut By Council Vote

Stanley Davis To Return To Force

LONACONING — A 30-day suspension imposed on Police Chief Stanley Davis by the Mayor and Council last week has been trimmed to 10 days.

At a special meeting Tuesday night, the Council amended the original order, which relieved Davis of his duties for "holding out" on town officials.

Police Commissioner William Berry, who had recommended Davis' suspension, was sponsor of the amendment, which split the council 4-2.

Voting for the modification Councilmen were Berry, Douglas Waddell, Fred Stoudt and James Nightingale. Opposed were John R. Merrbaugh and Wilmoth Garlitz.

Mayor Virgil Alexander, who first preferred charges against Davis, also went on record in opposition to leniency, although he has no vote except in case of a tie.

Davis began serving his suspension last Tuesday after he was charged with tampering with a time clock recently installed at the town hall to keep a check on patrolmens' movements.

Tuesday's meeting was called by Mayor Alexander at the request of a majority of councilmen.

The Council also voted a $100 annual increase in the salary of Mrs. Sara B. Schramm, town clerk, bringing her total salary to $1,000.

Orchardists To Meet Jan. 31

BEDFORD, Pa. — Fruit growers will meet in the Court House here Thursday, January 31, to get the 1952 spraying recommendations of the Extension Service of Pennsylvania State College. E. J. Udine will present the insect control recommendations and L. P. Nichols the materials for disease prevention.

A morning session beginning at 10 o'clock will cover small fruits, including raspberries and strawberries. Apple disease and insect control will be the center of interest during the afternoon program, which starts at 1:30 p.m.

Chairman for the small fruit group will be Clan Claycomb, New Enterprise, and for the apple growers, Albert Wingard, New Paris.

New pesticides appearing on the market each year require constant testing by experiment stations to determine their value, according to County Agent L. R. Mollenaur. He said growers need to keep informed of new progress in the age-old battle of man against the forces threatening his food supply.

New Bapistry Dedicated By Eckhart Church

Service Repeated Because Of Crowd

FROSTBURG — Eckhart Baptist Church was crowded to capacity Tuesday and Wednesday evening by residents of the community and neighboring localities who attended services in connection with the unveiling of a new baptistry.

The service was in charge of Rev. Sydney S. Aldrich, pastor, and the program was as follows:

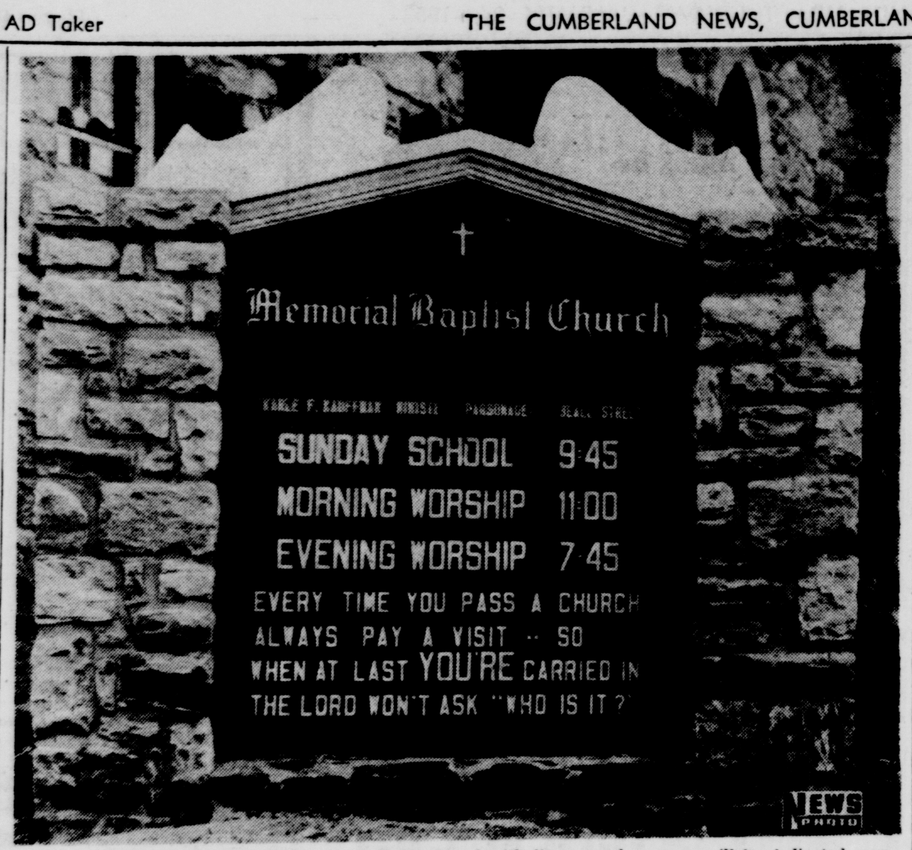
Congregation, "I Love to Tell the Story," and "Onward, Christian Soldiers;" prayer, Rev. William Stroup, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Cresaptown; vocal duet, Rev. and Mrs. Dale Flemming, Confluence, Pa.

Ceremonial address, Rev. Aldrich, who also introduced the artist who created the baptistry, J. Alfred Fullerton. Following remarks by the artist, the choir sang "Conquering Now and Still to Conquer" and Mrs. Aldrich sang the unveiling solo, "The Unveiled Christ."

Other numbers following were, Congregation, "Heavenly Sunlight"; men's trio, "Footsteps of Jesus," F. Earl Kreitzburg, Melvin Muir and Rev. Aldrich; solo, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," J. Alfred Fullerton; women's trio, "God Leads Us Along," Mrs. Kreitzburg, Miss Edith Eckhart and Mrs. Aldrich.

Choir, "Over Jordon"; solo, "When I get to the End of the Way," Mrs. Leah Rephann; trumpet solo, Rev. Flemming; choir, "Hallelujah for the Cross."

Fullerton presented the painting to Rev. Aldrich, who gave the acceptance speech and prayer of dedication. An instrumental number by Mr. and Mrs. Fullerton followed, and Rev. Flemming led the congregational song and benediction.



NEW CHURCH BULLETIN—This new bulletin board with its unusual message will be dedicated soon by Welsh Memorial Baptist Church, Frostburg. Built by Charles F. Engle and George Engle, Frostburg contractors, the board was donated to the church by Mr. and Mrs. Royal Skidmore, Frostburg, as a memorial to Skidmore's father, the late Clifton W. Skidmore. The dedication will be held after the lawn landscaping is completed.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23—(INS)—Wasn't somebody caught napping when Paramount up and signed Donald O'Connor for three pictures a year—kicking off in high style by co-starring him with Betty Hutton in "Look Ma, I'm Dancing?"

I say—caught napping, because Don has what is expected to be the hit of his career at MGM in "Singing In The Rain."

It was Don Hartman, head man of Para, who caught one of the previews of "Singing In The Rain" and got the comedian's autograph on a contract first. I've had letter after letter from preview fans writing to tell me how great Donald is in this picture.

O'Connor's second for Paramount will be a musical with Mickey Rooney who is just finishing "Military Policemen" with Bob Hope on that lot.

Burt Lancaster, glimpsed on the Paramount lot, wasn't there for fun. He was there to test for "Come Back, Little Sheba," and by the time this is in print he probably will be set.

This will be a blow to Humphrey Bogart who is so crazy about the script and so wanted to do the picture. But maybe Bogey will feel better when I tell him that very quietly "The System" is being prepared for him at Warner's by Sam Bischoff, who has imported Jo Eisinger to write the script.

Apparently there's some reason why "The System" is being kept very hush-hush, but I know that the story is based on government action against crime—something on the order of the Sen. Kefauver investigation.

Universal-International's reward for loaning Peggy Dow to Sam Goldwyn is Joan Evans, who moves to that studio to play Irene Dunne's daughter in "It Grows On Trees."

What grows on trees in this picture is, of course, money, and Irene is the lucky (or unlucky) woman who owns this magic tree which yields five dollar bills.

Joan, who is only 17, has improved immeasurably in the acting department since her first picture, "Roxanna McCoy." She always did have more poise than any teen-ager I ever met, and her role in the Dunne comedy is very colorful.

Very interesting indeed is the plan Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Sol Lesser have to reissue Douglas Fairbanks, Sr.'s silent pictures next summer. But with WHAT changes!

In that list of really great thrillers starring Doug, Sr., are "Robin Hood," "Three Musketeers," "Iron Mask," "Black Pirate." Lesser and young Doug are now talking to such "voices" as Ronald Colman and Charles Laughton to narrate them and thus eliminate the old subtitles.

And no lesser artist than Gene Fowler is being sought to write the narrations, and Ferde Grofe to compose original scores.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Beautiful Mary Sinclair, George Abbott's ex, and a New York TV star, flew in a few days ago and was met at the plane by Dr. Michael Gurdin.

Marion Marshall and Stanley Donen, once Liz Taylor's heartthrob, have set June for their wedding.

Jane Wyman is spending every weekend in bed while she's making "The Story Of Will Rogers," in hopes that she can stave off an operation and be strong enough to go to Europe in April.

Andy McIntyre and Helen O'Connell, taking up where they left off a few months ago, as happy as could be at Ciro's.

Gabriel Pascal found the house he bought in Malibu a few months ago in sections after it was completely demolished by the storm. He had no insurance.

Paul Muni is returning to this country because of the serious illness of his wife. She's in New York.

Constance Collier, whose veil caught on fire while she was lighting a cigaret at a cocktail party in New York, is recovering from a bad case of nerves. I don't wonder.

Vivian Blaine's mink number in "Guys And Dolls" in New York is getting howls since the mink scandal in Washington.

John Ringling North, circus tycoon, undergoes surgery shortly.

Vincent Price, who recently collapsed when he was appearing in Tacoma in "Cocktail Party," is completely recovered and on his way to New York.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

REVIVAL: Gloria Swanson's Escort Wears a Dress Sash

Cummerbunds Back

FASHION: The dress cummerbund, matching the tie and dinner jacket lapel facings, is a major revival of this winter season. Gloria's Swanson's escort, Frank Chapman (left) wears a sash with single-breasted jacket.

Handyman: Wax your snow shovel to keep snow from sticking to it. . . . Moths like to chew up paint brushes. Take care of them the same way you do woolens—with moth balls. . . . A split length of narrow rubber hose makes a fine protection for a saw blade.

Gimmicks: Canned "Spray-New" makes your golf balls as white as new. One container sprays seventy balls. . . . Rustproof, steel wire "Magic Carpets"—one for each rear wheel—get you out of the skids on the snowy or icy roads. . . . A new clothes hanger has four trouser bars—holding a complete suit and three pairs of slacks.

Dress Tips: Use soap and water occasionally on metal or leather watch bands. Keeps them from soiling your shirt cuffs. . . . If collar points curl, give them a good stretching. That will usually straighten them out.

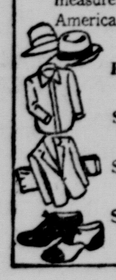
Odd Items: Ten-second interview—"You can't do a good job if your mind is on your feet. Good shoes are a great economy"—Sam Abrams of Esquire Polish. . . . A Russian aircraft worker works fifteen times as long as his American counterpart to make enough to buy an equal amount of food.

Mail Bag: "How can I keep my socks from giving out at the heels almost the first time I wear them?" They certainly shouldn't wear fast with today's nylon reinforcing. Look for worn spots in shoe linings, protruding shoe nails or callouses on your heels.

Cinema: Narrow-brimmed hats, now increasing in popularity, are liked by Hollywood cameramen. It's difficult to light an actor's face under a broad-brimmed chapeau.

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Herb Shriner, first man in television history to make the ever-present commercials either amusing or palatable. Herb manages to do both.

Metric Fitting: When you travel outside the U.S., you'll find that most countries use the metric system in clothes measurements. Here is a quick co-ordinator between American and metric sizes:



HATS	American	7	7⅛	7¼	7⅜	7½
	Metric	57	58	59	60	61
SHIRTS	American	14	14½	15	15½	16	16½ 17
	Metric	36	37	38	39	41	42 43
SUITS	American	36	38	40	42	44	46 48
	Metric	46	48	50	52	54	56 58
SHOES	American	9	10	11	12	13

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"Legally, we can't claim that our new product will cure anything . . . just say that it'll work miracles ! ! . . ."

Alaska lies entirely to the west of the United States. The easternmost part of Alaska is 600 miles farther west than San Francisco.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Dried fruits, such as prunes and raisins, are wholesome foods added to the children's lunch boxes, to be eaten "as is."

TV BULLETIN!

Potomac Valley Television has started to extend its television cable to the heart of Cumberland. By February 15, the company hopes to have the cable at Frederick and Decatur Streets. When the coaxial cable reaches Frederick St., the number of applicants applying for service will determine the direction of the cable from there. Don't be disappointed . . . apply for television service now. Phone us for details.

SUSIE Q. SMITH — By Linda and Jerry Walter

"Why can't she do what you did . . . hitch her wagon to a man who works like a horse?"

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

NO USELESS HANDS

NO MATTER how weak your hand may be, from the standpoint of its high-card measurements, you can't tell by looking at it whether or not it is going to prove unimportant in the eventual play. That's why able and experienced players are not tempted to ask—either of themselves or sympathetic kibitzers—"Who dealt this mess?" They have seen too many examples of an apparently inept holding eventually proving the deciding factor of the deal. So they consider there is no such thing as a useless hand.

Suppose you kibitzed an accomplished card-juggler in the West, and he was a good friend of yours. Perhaps you would feel sorry for him when you saw him pick up his thirteen pieces of cardboard, only one of which contained a pretty picture. But, if you did, and whispered your thoughts to him, you would not find him in agreement with your ideas.

You would see him sit there quietly and patiently, passing as the bidding went by the first time. But if you yourself were keen, you would note that he was just as alert to what went on as if he held the dominant big cards. Finally you would find him making—of all things—a business double. It was based largely, of course, on his partner's ability to open the auction and then double 3-No Trumps with a passing partner. After that, his own holding of four trumps topped by the Q, with a singleton spade, had ceased to be insignificant.

West led the 9 of his partner's spades, the A winning and the 3 coming back for West's ruff with the heart 3. Since East's return was his lowest possible spade, West then returned the lowest possible suit, clubs, his 4; he would have chosen a diamond if East's card had been one which was clearly higher than his lowest. When the club K won that, South's doom was sealed, since the defenders were sure of two more tricks, with the heart A and Q. The contract was therefore down two tricks, due to the two which West took. The deal therefore produced 500 points for West's side, more even than a not vulnerable game would have been worth.

REVIVAL: Gloria Swanson's Escort Wears a Dress Sash

Cummerbunds Back

FASHION: The dress cummerbund, matching the tie and dinner jacket lapel facings, is a major revival of this winter season. Gloria's Swanson's escort, Frank Chapman (left) wears a sash with single-breasted jacket.

Handyman: Wax your snow shovel to keep snow from sticking to it. . . . Moths like to chew up paint brushes. Take care of them the same way you do woolens—with moth balls. . . . A split length of narrow rubber hose makes a fine protection for a saw blade.

Gimmicks: Canned "Spray-New" makes your golf balls as white as new. One container sprays seventy balls. . . . Rustproof, steel wire "Magic Carpets"—one for each rear wheel—get you out of the skids on the snowy or icy roads. . . . A new clothes hanger has four trouser bars—holding a complete suit and three pairs of slacks.

Dress Tips: Use soap and water occasionally on metal or leather watch bands. Keeps them from soiling your shirt cuffs. . . . If collar points curl, give them a good stretching. That will usually straighten them out.

Odd Items: Ten-second interview—"You can't do a good job if your mind is on your feet. Good shoes are a great economy"—Sam Abrams of Esquire Polish. . . . A Russian aircraft worker works fifteen times as long as his American counterpart to make enough to buy an equal amount of food.

Mail Bag: "How can I keep my socks from giving out at the heels almost the first time I wear them?" They certainly shouldn't wear fast with today's nylon reinforcing. Look for worn spots in shoe linings, protruding shoe nails or callouses on your heels.

Cinema: Narrow-brimmed hats, now increasing in popularity, are liked by Hollywood cameramen. It's difficult to light an actor's face under a broad-brimmed chapeau.

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Herb Shriner, first man in television history to make the ever-present commercials either amusing or palatable. Herb manages to do both.

Metric Fitting: When you travel outside the U.S., you'll find that most countries use the metric system in clothes measurements. Here is a quick co-ordinator between American and metric sizes:

HATS	American	7	7⅛	7¼	7⅜	7½
	Metric	57	58	59	60	61
SHIRTS	American	14	14½	15	15½	16	16½ 17
	Metric	36	37	38	39	41	42 43
SUITS	American	36	38	40	42	44	46 48
	Metric	46	48	50	52	54	56 58
SHOES	American	9	10	11	12	13
	Metric	40	41	42	43	44

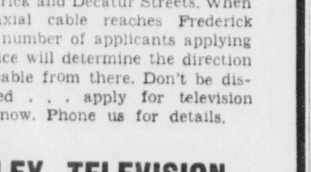
GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"Legally, we can't claim that our new product will cure anything . . . just say that it'll work miracles!! . . ."

Alaska lies entirely to the west of the United States. The easternmost part of Alaska is 600 miles farther west than San Francisco.

WIFE PRESERVERS



Dried fruits, such as prunes and raisins, are wholesome foods added to the children's lunch boxes, to be eaten "as is."

TV BULLETIN!

Potomac Valley Television has started to extend its television cable to the heart of Cumberland. By February 15, the company hopes to have the cable at Frederick and Decatur Streets. When the coaxial cable reaches Frederick St., the number of applicants applying for service will determine the direction of the cable from there. Don't be disappointed . . . apply for television service now. Phone us for details.

SUSIE Q. SMITH — By Linda and Jerry Walter

"Why can't she do what you did . . . hitch her wagon to a man who works like a horse?"

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

NO USELESS HANDS

NO MATTER how weak your hand may be, from the standpoint of its high-card measurements, you can't tell by looking at it whether or not it is going to prove unimportant in the eventual play. That's why able and experienced players are not tempted to ask—either of themselves or sympathetic kibitzers—"Who dealt this mess?" They have seen too many examples of an apparently inept holding eventually proving the deciding factor of the deal. So they consider there is no such thing as a useless hand.

	♠ J 8 7 6 5 ♥ 5 2 ♦ 6 3 ♣ Q J 9 3
♠ 9 ♥ Q 8 6 3 ♦ 10 7 5 ♣ 10 8 7 4	N W E S	♠ A Q 10 ♥ 4 3 ♦ A ♣ Q J 8 ♣ A K 6 2
	♠ K 2 ♥ K J 10 9 7 4 ♦ A K 9 2 ♣ 5

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♠	3 ♥	Pass
3 NT	Dbl.	4 ♥	Dbl.

Suppose you kibitzed an accomplished card-juggler in the West, and he was a good friend of yours. Perhaps you would feel sorry for him when you saw him pick up his thirteen pieces of cardboard, only one of which contained a pretty picture. But, if you did, and whispered your thoughts to him, you would not find him in agreement with your ideas.

You would see him sit there quietly and patiently, passing as the bidding went by the first time. But if you yourself were keen, you would note that he was just as alert to what went on as if he held the dominant big cards. Finally you would find him making—of all things—a business double. It was based largely, of course, on his partner's ability to open the auction and then double 3-No Trumps with a passing partner. After that, his own holding of four trumps topped by the Q, with a singleton spade, had ceased to be insignificant.

West led the 9 of his partner's spades, the A winning and the 3 coming back for West's ruff with the heart 3. Since East's return was his lowest possible spade, West then returned the lowest possible suit, clubs, his 4; he would have chosen a diamond if East's card had been one which was clearly higher than his lowest. When the club K won that, South's doom was sealed, since the defenders were sure of two more tricks, with the heart A and Q. The contract was therefore down two tricks, due to the two which West took. The deal therefore produced 500 points for West's side, more even than a not vulnerable game would have been worth.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A K 10 8 4 2 ♥ J 7 ♦ 10 6 4 ♣ 5 4
♠ 9 ♥ A Q 9 6 5 4 3 ♦ 7 5 ♣ K 3 2	N W E S	♠ J 7 6 5 ♥ 10 ♦ Q J 8 2 ♣ 9 8 7 6
	♠ Q 3 ♥ K 8 2 ♦ A K 9 3 ♣ A Q J 10

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

What would you lead in the West against South's 3-No Trumps, reached after all suits had been bid by somebody?

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for kindness and sympathy shown us during our recent bereavement at the death of our beloved son, William R. Cobaugh. We wish also to thank all for the floral tributes and the use of cars, also the Grantsville American Legion Post 214, for their services.
MR. & MRS. ROBERT COBAUGH,
GRANTSVILLE, MARYLAND

We take this means to thank our many friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the illness and at the death of our son, Paul Bennett. We especially thank those who donated blood, the nurses at Memorial Hospital, the pallbearers, the doctors and the ones who sent floral tributes. Our heartfelt thanks go to Rev. Groves who was such a comfort.
MR. & MRS. DONALD WOODRUM

In loving memory of our beloved father, Edward T. O'Neil who passed away 1 year ago January 24, 1951.
The golden sun is shining
Upon our dear father's grave,
One we loved so dearly,
And tried so hard to save,
When we lost you dearest father,
We lost a wonderful pal,
We love you now and miss you
More and more and ever shall.
Loving sons,
DONALD & WILLIAM O'NEIL

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for kindness and sympathy shown us during our recent bereavement at the death of our beloved son, William R. Cobaugh. We wish also to thank all for the floral tributes and the use of cars, also the Grantsville American Legion Post 214, for their services.
MR. & MRS. ROBERT COBAUGH,
GRANTSVILLE, MARYLAND

We take this means to thank our many friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the illness and at the death of our son, Paul Bennett. We especially thank those who donated blood, the nurses at Memorial Hospital, the pallbearers, the doctors and the ones who sent floral tributes. Our heartfelt thanks go to Rev. Groves who was such a comfort.
MR. & MRS. DONALD WOODRUM

In loving memory of our beloved father, Edward T. O'Neil who passed away 1 year ago January 24, 1951.
The golden sun is shining
Upon our dear father's grave,
One we loved so dearly,
And tried so hard to save,
When we lost you dearest father,
We lost a wonderful pal,
We love you now and miss you
More and more and ever shall.
Loving sons,
DONALD & WILLIAM O'NEIL

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for kindness and sympathy shown us during our recent bereavement at the death of our beloved son, William R. Cobaugh. We wish also to thank all for the floral tributes and the use of cars, also the Grantsville American Legion Post 214, for their services.
MR. & MRS. ROBERT COBAUGH,
GRANTSVILLE, MARYLAND

We take this means to thank our many friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the illness and at the death of our son, Paul Bennett. We especially thank those who donated blood, the nurses at Memorial Hospital, the pallbearers, the doctors and the ones who sent floral tributes. Our heartfelt thanks go to Rev. Groves who was such a comfort.
MR. & MRS. DONALD WOODRUM

In loving memory of our beloved father, Edward T. O'Neil who passed away 1 year ago January 24, 1951.
The golden sun is shining
Upon our dear father's grave,
One we loved so dearly,
And tried so hard to save,
When we lost you dearest father,
We lost a wonderful pal,
We love you now and miss you
More and more and ever shall.
Loving sons,
DONALD & WILLIAM O'NEIL

The infant son of Gilbert and Nora (Van Meter) Stevens, 84 Knobley Street, Ridgeley, W. Va., died yesterday at Memorial Hospital where it had been born Tuesday.

Surviving other than the parents are two brothers, Gilbert Charles and Roger Allen Stevens, at home, maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Van Meter, Oldtown and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Stevens, city. A graveside service will be held this afternoon at Fort Ashby Methodist Cemetery.

DANIEL LEASURE

A funeral service for Daniel Leasure, 92, who died Tuesday at the home of his son, Leo Leasure, Oldtown, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at Oldtown M. E. Church, with Rev. William Anderson, officiating. Interment will be in Davis Memorial Cemetery. The body is at Stein's Chapel.

JOSEPH GARDNER STOREY

FROSTBURG—A funeral service for Joseph Gardner Storey, 71, of Clarysville, who died Tuesday, will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. at the residence with Rev. John Bailey Jones, pastor of First Methodist Church, officiating. Interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park.

MRS. BESSIE COREY

Mrs. Bessie Corey, 80, died yesterday at the home of her nephew, Harry Wilson, Route 2, Baltimore Pike.

Born at Murley's Branch, she was the daughter of the late George A. and Harriet (Willison) Robinette. She was the widow of Addison Corey.

Mrs. Corey had been a resident of this area all her life, and was a member of Mt. Fairview Methodist Church.

She is survived by two step sons, Lester, Litchfield, Mich.; and Carl Corey, Long Beach Calif.; and one sister, Mrs. Mazie E. Wilson, Williams Road.

A funeral service will be held at George's Funeral Home Saturday at 2 p. m. with Rev. Kenneth W. Groves, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, officiating. Interment will be in Green Meadow Cemetery, Breakneck Road.

BROADWATER INFANT

The infant daughter of Guy E. and Marjorie (Brobst) Broadwater, Accident, died yesterday at Memorial Hospital where it was born Monday.

Surviving, other than the parents are a brother, Gary, a sister, Patricia, at home, and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Brobst, of Accident. A graveside service will be held this afternoon at the Accident Brethren Cemetery with Rev. Chaney officiating.

MRS. LLOYD E. PERKINS

MIDLAND — Services for Mrs. Rose Ann Perkins, 36, wife of Lloyd E. Perkins, here, who died Monday in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Midland Methodist Church with Rev. Louis Emerick, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Eckhart Cemetery.

J. MARSHALL MARTIN

WESTERNPORT — J. Marshall Martin, 52, of 120 Church Street, died yesterday afternoon at Sinai Hospital in Baltimore where he had been a patient since December 22. He had been ill for about three months.

A native of here, he was a son of the late John and Grace (Dawson) Martin. He attended the public schools here and was a graduate of the Pittsburgh, Pa., Automobile School of Engineering. He was a member of Trinity Methodist Church at Piedmont, W. Va.

Besides his sister, Miss Lola Martin, with whom he resided, he is survived by three children, Nancy Louise, Bobby Joe, Keyser, W. Va., Mrs. Betty Lee Brill, Verona, Va., and one grandchild.

The body will be brought to the residence this afternoon where a funeral service will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. O. Clarence Mitchell, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, officiating. Interment will be in Philos Cemetery.

WILLIAM P. CARROLL

BERRYVILLE, Va.—William P. Carroll, 75, formerly of Cumberland, died Monday morning at his home here after a long illness.

Born June 6, 1876, in Clarke county, Va., he was a son of the late William and Margaret Lee Carroll.

Mr. Carroll was employed by the B. & O. Railroad in Cumberland for about 35 years. After retiring he moved to Berryville where he had resided since.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Nellie (Wiley) Carroll, here; four daughters, Mrs. Carl Feltner, Mrs. Don Bauman, and Miss Edna Carroll, Arlington, Va.; and Mrs. Jack Russell, Berryville; three sons, Irvin, at home; Charles, Berryville; and Olva Carroll, Berrys Ferry, Va.; two sisters, Mrs. Ruth Ritter, Berryville; and Mrs. Edith Carroll, Silver Spring, Md.

MRS. EFFIE E. BERISFORD

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Mrs. Effie E. Berisford, 77, of 101 Ashfield Street, died yesterday at her home from a heart attack.

Daughter of the late Daniel and Lillian Cowan, Mrs. Berisford was born in Piedmont and was a life resident. She was the widow of George William Berisford, a well known jeweler and optometrist here.

Mrs. Berisford was a member of St. James Episcopal Church, Westernport, and the church guild.

She is survived by one nephew, D. Cowan Metzger, New York City; and one niece, Miss Virginia L. Metzger, Philadelphia.

The body remains at the Fredlock Funeral Home, here, where services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. Rev. George W. Davisson, pastor of St. James Episcopal Church, will officiate, assisted by Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector of St. George Episcopal Church, Mt. Savage. Interment will be in the Cowan family lot, Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

MRS. ISABEL MARIE LEYDIG

HYNDMAN, Pa. — Mrs. Isabel Marie Leydig, 42, of Bard, Pa., died yesterday in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

Born August 20, 1909, she was a daughter of Mrs. Sarah (Blake) May and the late Howard May, of Boynton, Pa. She is survived by her husband, Hubert M. Leydig. They were married July 2, 1926.

Also surviving are six daughters, Mrs. Virginia Lee Lankey, Bard; Miss Phyllis June Leydig, Cumberland; Misses Ona May, Mary, Peggy, and Linda Leydig, all at home; two sons, James and William Leydig, at home; three brothers, John S., Hyndman; Harry and William May, Bedford, Pa.

Market Suffers Its First Setback Since January 15

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Support for stock price levels was lacking in Wall Street today and the market suffered its first setback since January 15.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents to $101.70. Rail and industrial components each dropped 50 cents, utilities were up 10 cents.

Most active was RKO Pictures, up ¼ at 4½. St. Regis Paper was second, ahead ⅛ at 19¼.

Ashland Oil climbed 1⅝ at 43⅛ and was third most active. It was followed by South Carolina Electric & Gas, unchanged and Socony-Vacuum, up ⅜ at 39⅜.

Other issues finishing with gains included American Smelting, Zenith Radio, Admiral, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing Airplane, International Business Machines, International Paper and Western Union.

Prominent losers were Cities Service, down 4 at 108, American Can off 2 at 122¾, Dow Chemical, American Cyanamid, Anaconda Copper, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Bethlehem Steel, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Southern Railway, Standard Oil (N. J.), General Motors, Trans World Airlines, Goodrich and Montgomery Ward.

Merry-Go-Round

Other congressmen have used their offices, furnished free by the taxpayers, to promote personal enterprises or as propaganda mills for lobbies, while, during prohibition, several House members were accused of bootlegging. However, Congressman Pat Sutton of Tennessee has come up with a brand new twist.

Sutton has made a profitable sideline of selling men's suits in his Capitol Hill sanctum. The Tennesseean gets the suits wholesale from his father-in-law, who has a store in Lawrenceburg, Tenn.

Sutton and a male secretary "measure up" prospects to guarantee a good fit, and, when business is brisk, the congressman's office looks like a tailor shop, with the merchandise covering tables and chairs. Recently the congressman received a shipment of 15 suits in one day. Colleagues say the price is reasonable and the suits are a good buy.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Market Suffers Its First Setback Since January 15

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Support for stock price levels was lacking in Wall Street today and the market suffered its first setback since January 15.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents to $101.70. Rail and industrial components each dropped 50 cents, utilities were up 10 cents.

Most active was RKO Pictures, up ¼ at 4½. St. Regis Paper was second, ahead ⅛ at 19¼.

Ashland Oil climbed 1⅝ at 43⅛ and was third most active. It was followed by South Carolina Electric & Gas, unchanged and Socony-Vacuum, up ⅜ at 39⅜.

Other issues finishing with gains included American Smelting, Zenith Radio, Admiral, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing Airplane, International Business Machines, International Paper and Western Union.

Prominent losers were Cities Service, down 4 at 108, American Can off 2 at 122¾, Dow Chemical, American Cyanamid, Anaconda Copper, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Bethlehem Steel, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Southern Railway, Standard Oil (N. J.), General Motors, Trans World Airlines, Goodrich and Montgomery Ward.

Other congressmen have used their offices, furnished free by the taxpayers, to promote personal enterprises or as propaganda mills for lobbies, while, during prohibition, several House members were accused of bootlegging. However, Congressman Pat Sutton of Tennessee has come up with a brand new twist.

Sutton has made a profitable sideline of selling men's suits in his Capitol Hill sanctum. The Tennesseean gets the suits wholesale from his father-in-law, who has a store in Lawrenceburg, Tenn.

Sutton and a male secretary "measure up" prospects to guarantee a good fit, and, when business is brisk, the congressman's office looks like a tailor shop, with the merchandise covering tables and chairs. Recently the congressman received a shipment of 15 suits in one day. Colleagues say the price is reasonable and the suits are a good buy.

Market Suffers Its First Setback Since January 15

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Support for stock price levels was lacking in Wall Street today and the market suffered its first setback since January 15.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents to $101.70. Rail and industrial components each dropped 50 cents, utilities were up 10 cents.

Most active was RKO Pictures, up ⅛ at 4½. St. Regis Paper was second, ahead ⅛ at 19¼.

Ashland Oil climbed 1⅝ at 43⅛ and was third most active. It was followed by South Carolina Electric & Gas, unchanged and Socony-Vacuum, up ⅜ at 39⅜.

Other issues finishing with gains included American Smelting, Zenith Radio, Admiral, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing Airplane, International Business Machines, International Paper and Western Union.

Prominent losers were Cities Service, down 4 at 108, American Can off 2 at 122¾, Dow Chemical, American Cyanamid, Anaconda Copper, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Bethlehem Steel, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Southern Railway, Standard Oil (N. J.), General Motors, Trans World Airlines, Goodrich and Montgomery Ward.

Other congressmen have used their offices, furnished free by the taxpayers, to promote personal enterprises or as propaganda mills for lobbies, while, during prohibition, several House members were accused of bootlegging. However, Congressman Pat Sutton of Tennessee has come up with a brand new twist.

Sutton has made a profitable sideline of selling men's suits in his Capitol Hill sanctum. The Tennesseean gets the suits wholesale from his father-in-law, who has a store in Lawrenceburg, Tenn.

Sutton and a male secretary "measure up" prospects to guarantee a good fit, and, when business is brisk, the congressman's office looks like a tailor shop, with the merchandise covering tables and chairs. Recently the congressman received a shipment of 15 suits in one day. Colleagues say the price is reasonable and the suits are a good buy.

Few Tri-State Counties Hit By New Snow

Low Temperatures Forecast Today

Snow began to fall in some sections of the Tri-State area last night as the Weather Bureau forecast mercury plunges to five above zero this morning.

State Police reported two inches of snow on Garrett County roads last night and still snowing. Snow had covered most of the highways around Altamount, Oakland and Hardman, Terra Alta and Thomas, W. Va.

State Police said roads in that section were becoming dangerously slippery. Temperatures in Garrett County were at 20 degrees about 8:30 p. m. and steadily dropping.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford said heavy snow began falling about 8 o'clock last night on the turnpike and visibility was very poor. Police said snow was confined to Somerset and points west. The Bedford area was clear with temperature at 28 degrees.

West Virginia counties in the Romney district were clear last night but mercury was dropping fast. State Police said a few snow flurries were noted, but roads were clear. They reported snow on Mt. Storm on U. S. Route 50 yesterday afternoon, but was clear last night with the exception of a few icy spots.

As snow began falling in the Cumberland area shortly before midnight last night, State Road Commission standby crews were sent out to the George's Creek and McCoole sections. Roads there were becoming slippery and a number of trucks with cinders began ashing the one-inch layer of snow.

A pickup truck was assigned to patrol Braddock Road and the LaVale section. State Police reported snow falling in that section and covering highways in spots.

Temperature here last night stood at 28 degrees at 6 p. m. and only slightly dropping after 8:30 o'clock.

Temperatures in other points of the district late last night were: Altamount, Oakland, and Terra Alta, W. Va., 20 degrees; Thomas and Elkins, W. Va., 18 degrees; Deal, Pa., 16 degrees, west of Somerset, Pa., 20; east of Somerset, 28 degrees, and Romney, W. Va., 28 degrees.

However, the Weather Bureau predicted mercury in Western Maryland would dip to between 10 and 15 degrees this morning. Today will be fair and somewhat colder.

In Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, thermometers will plunge to between five and 15 degrees this morning. Today will be cloudy and continued cold with snow flurries in Pennsylvania.

MACHINISTS INSTALL—Newly elected officers of Lodge No. 1035, International Association of Machinists, are seen Wednesday following the annual installation at the Knights of Malta Hall. Seated are C. E. Gilford, vice president; L. A. McKenzie, president, and J. P. George, treasurer. Standing are M. Close, conductor; R. A. Mullin, inside sentinel; J. M. Shoemaker, recording secretary, and S. W. Grim, financial secretary. A social hour followed the ceremony.

DUCK BUSTERS—Four of the charter members of the Cumberland Duck Busters Club as seen last night at the 29th annual dinner held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. They are Arthur J. Fitch, former manager of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America; Arthur P. Hoffa and Dr. A. H. Hawkins, who bagged the ducks during their annual hunt in Arkansas, and Somerville Nicholson, treasurer of the club. William A. Gunter was toastmaster at the dinner attended by over 200 prominent business and professional men from the Tri-State area.

Community Chest To Mark Silver Jubilee Tomorrow

Dr. H. C. Byrd To Be Speaker

The Cumberland Community Chest will observe its 25th anniversary tomorrow with a "dutch treat" dinner at 6:30 p. m. at Centre Street Methodist Church Hall.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, will be principal speaker.

Chest workers will pay tribute to George L. Buchanan and Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, leader of the 1951-52 Red Feather and USO campaign.

Directors for the coming year will be elected at 7:30 p. m. The nominating committee includes Frederic W. Eiler, chairman; Mrs. Barnes, Robert E. Barnard, Jr., Edward L. Ewald and James L. Weber.

The nine Chest agencies will present displays designed to show what has been accomplished in the last quarter century. In connection with the displays, Chest officials yesterday released old records pertaining to the organization of the Chest.

History Outlined

Earliest official records on the Chest are the minutes of the first meeting of a group of five local people who were members of a joint committee organized to investigate the possibility of starting a Chest here.

This first recorded meeting on June 15, 1925 was attended by Dr. E. B. Claybrook, Thomas L. Pierce, George G. Young, Harold W. Smith and Franklin H. Ankeney.

It was decided that the Harrisburg, Pa. Welfare Federation be employed to conduct a preliminary survey at a cost of $100 a week and expenses. The Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and the Chamber of Commerce were asked to underwrite these expenses to the extent of a maximum of $600. Each organization was to bear one-third of the cost.

Undertakes Survey

W. L. Maxwell, of the Harrisburg Federation, was employed to undertake the survey. In September, 1925, Maxwell reported to the joint committee which had by this time been enlarged to include J. Milton Patterson, Fulcher P. Smith, Arthur J. Weber and J. George Smith.

The committee then planned a public meeting for September 25 to be held at City Hall to which all interested citizens were invited, including representatives of city and county government.

At the public meeting, Maxwell explained the fundamentals of the Chest, and an organization committee made up of Dr. Claybrook, F. P. Smith and George G. Young, was temporarily appointed to continue with plans of organization. About 100 people attended the public meeting, and the opinion of all was that a welfare federation was desirable in Cumberland.

The next meeting was held October 23, 1925 in City Hall with welfare agencies, city and county officials represented. A constitution and by-laws was presented and was referred to a committee made up of William C. Walsh, George Henderson and Issac S. Hirsch for revision.

Constitution Adopted

Finally at a meeting on January 22, 1926, the constitution was adopted and Cumberland's Community Chest officially came into being.

Over the past 25 years, a total of $1,845,074.77 has been given to the Chest by the people and business firms of the community. These funds have been distributed over the years among 16 different welfare and youth-building agencies.

At present there are nine member agencies in the Chest, and of these, six have been members since the Chest was organized. The six agencies and the funds they have received since 1926 are:

The Salvation Army, $314,002.43; Associated Charities, $290,836.08; Baby Welfare, $38,140.95; Traveler's Aid, $24,475.93; Jewish Welfare, $9,430.13; and Central YMCA, $227,559.86.

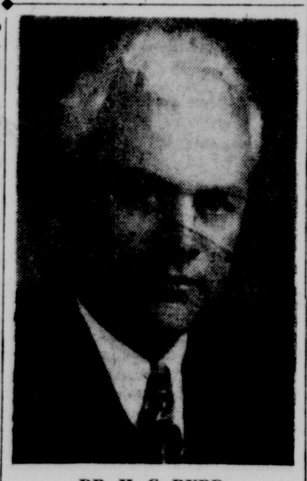
The other three agencies are the Boy Scouts, $117,002.31; the Girl Scouts, $79,502.04; and Keating Nursery, $35,597.17. The Boy Scouts joined the Chest in 1928, the Girl Scouts in 1931, and the Keating Memorial Day Nursery in 1942.

Shares In Funds

In addition other groups have been members of the Chest at various times and have shared in Chest funds. Among them are Allegany Hospital, member from 1926 to 1943, receiving $114,058.35.

The Red Cros was a member from 1926 to 1939 and received $85,196.20. Of this amount, $8,524 was awarded the Red Cross in 1944 during World War II for services to members in the Armed Forces.

Head Clinic, member in 1928-29, was organized by the Chest and later taken over by the State Health Department. It received $3,600 from the Chest. Allegany County League for Crippled Children was a member from 1935 to 1943 and received $21,907.14.



DR. H. C. BYRD

Other awards have been made to different organizations and causes during the existence of the Chest. These include:

National War Fund, received $168,115.18 in 1943 to 1945. In 1951 it received $9,560 from Chest campaign funds for the United Defense Fund. An emergency fund administered by the Associated Charities was set up during the depression and in 1931 and 1932, received a total of $8,000 from Chest funds. Drought Relief, administered by the Red Cross, received $3,000 in 1931.

Ridgeley Police Expect Rabies Report Tonight

Nine Dogs Shot In Eight Days

Ridgeley authorities expect to receive tonight a report from the West Virginia State Department of Health which will show whether nine dogs destroyed in the past eight days had rabies.

Police Chief H. L. Henry said he expects to hear from the department's Charleston headquarters tonight. Chief Henry sent the head of one of the dogs to the department Tuesday for examination.

No dogs have been destroyed since Tuesday, when Henry shot three which frothed at the mouth and threatened to attack when he approached them.

Six others were shot between last Tuesday and Monday.

RABID FOXES IN VA.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 23 (AP)—Rabid foxes, most of them in northern Virginia, still constitute a big proportion of the rabies cases in Virginia, Dr. A. S. McCown, of the State Health Department, said today.

Thus far in 1952 there have been 31 cases of rabies verified by the Department, of which 14 were foxes. The others were dogs, cows and miscellaneous animals.

The foxes constitute a "reservoir" of the disease in the northern part of the state and because the animals are wild it is proving difficult to stamp the disease out, Dr. McCown explained. It is more easily controlled among domestic animals.

Foxes no doubt often die from the disease without being discovered, Dr. McCown explained. Efforts are being made to exterminate the foxes in the area. This, and the vaccination of dogs against rabies, are about the only means of fighting the outbreak, he said.

Thus far this year rabid foxes have been found in these numbers: Fauquier County 4, Rappahannock County 3, Loudoun 3, Warren 3, and Wythe 1.

Labor Officials To Confer With Senator Kimble

Unions Will Plan Election Strategy

A local delegation will attend a conference planned in Hagerstown tonight, when labor representatives of the Sixth Congressional District will confer with State Senator Robert B. Kimble.

Lester McGill, chairman of Local 1874, TWUA-CIO Legislative committee, will head the Cumberland delegation at the meeting set for 7:30 p. m. in the UMW Hall.

Charles F. Davis and Charles Jones, of Local 1874 Political Action Committee will also represent the Celanese local.

Representing the Western Maryland Unity Conference will be Paul L. Burley, Bus Drivers, and Edwin Hoffman, Railway Trainmen.

The same delegation will attend a state-wide CIO political meeting in the NMU Hall in Baltimore Saturday at 1 p. m.

Plans are now underway, Burley said, to revive the Sixth District organization of the Maryland League of United Voters.

Actual organization work will get under way at a meeting in Hagerstown February 16.

During the 1950 election, the League represented the AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods, independent unions and in several counties received support from the Americans for Democratic Action.

C. E. Stutzman, of Local 453, Teamsters Union, was chairman of the League in 1950.

Garrett Youth In Boston Poultry Judging Today

A Garrett County youth will leave for Boston today with Maryland's 4-H Poultry Judging Team to compete in the Poultry Show Exposition.

He is Donald Smith, Bittinger, who represented Garrett County in the state competition and won a place on the four-man Maryland team.

The Marylanders will oppose teams from 10 other states in the regional contest. Accompanying the boys will be Wade H. Rice, University of Maryland extension poultryman, and Roscoe Whipp, assistant agricultural agent of Montgomery County.

Smith's teammates are John Arbaugh, New Windsor, Carroll County, Reginald King, Germantown, and Broderick McCrossin, Gaithersburg.

Beall Opens Baltimore Headquarters

Begins Campaign For U. S. Senate

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23 (AP)—Rep. J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, candidate for the Republican nomination to the seat being vacated this year by Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D-Md), today opened campaign headquarters on the fourth floor of the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

Beall, who represents the Sixth (Western Maryland) District, announced his campaign manager would be Roy Tasco Davis, former Montgomery County state senator, and his treasurer would be Rae Dempsey, Jr., father of the Baltimore City GOP chairman.

Beall said he would travel to Annapolis within the next day or two to file his formal certificate for candidacy.

He said bluntly his personal campaigning would have to be on a catch-as-catch-can basis.

"Congress is in session," he said, "and we'll be working pretty hard over there for the next 90 days. That job comes first, and I will have to fit my campaign activities into in-between times."

Other Republicans in the race for the Senate Seat are H. Grady Gore, Montgomery real estate man, and Paul Robertson of Baltimore.

Ridgeley Fire Losses Are Low

Fire losses were low last year in the area protected by the Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Company.

Chief Leo Rice reported yesterday that the company answered 28 calls in the area during 1951.

Total losses from the 13 fires which were within the town limits were only $170, Chief Rice said.

Another 15 calls were answered from the surrounding area protected by the Ridgeley company and added another $100 damage.

WSB Approves Wage Boost For Celanese Drivers

The Wage Stabilization Board has approved a wage increase for 43 drivers of the Celanese Central Traffic Division.

William C. Somerville, district traffic manager, said the increase of .0015 per mile will be retroactive to August 14, 1951.

The wage boost for drivers of the firm was included in a pact signed August 31, 1951, between the Celanese Corporation of America and Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union (AFL).

Union contract negotiators were C. E. Stutzman, business agent; Amos DeHaven, G. H. Allison, Carter Harness and H. A. Fletcher. The company was represented by Somerville and Robert W. Brown, personnel superintendent.

The Celanese Central Trucking Division is in charge of inter-plant hauling for the firm.

Weather

Yesterday morning's cloudy sky opened for a few hours in the afternoon to allow the sun to appear. A steady wind which swept the city most of the day continued its course late last night. Robert R. Golden, official weather observer at Constitution Park, recorded high temperature at 33 degrees early yesterday morning. The low for the day of 27 degrees was measured about 6 p. m. and remained at this point until about 9 o'clock when mercury began to drop steadily. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 59 per cent. The Weather Bureau says fair and somewhat colder for today with thermometers dipping to between 10 and 15 degrees early this morning.

Fort Hill Band Spring Concert Set March 18

Program Chairmen Named At Meeting

The Fort Hill High School Band will present its annual spring concert March 18 at the school auditorium. Final plans for the concert were made at a meeting of the Band Council at the home of James Reynolds, Tuesday.

Donald Stine was named general chairman for preparation of the concert program. His committees include James Rowley, advertising; Jack Underdonk, tickets; Faith Manges and Warfield Wilson, publicity.

Band members will be in charge of the preparation. They will be assisted by Don Razey, band director, and Reynolds, a member of the Band Parents Association.

Razey announced that cabinets are being made for storing music and drum equipment. The cabinets will be portable, he said.

Warfield Wilson proposed that the band buy a silk banner, to be displayed at the head of the unit when it marches.

The council also completed plans for Fort Hill's participation in the Tri-State Band Clinic tomorrow and Saturday in Martinsburg, W. Va. Eight Sentinel bandsmen will participate.

Births

Captain and Mrs. Charles H. Gover announce the birth of a son Tuesday at Wright Patterson Base Hospital, Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. Gover is the former June E. Ort, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Ort, LaVale.

Memorial Hospital

Kreissig, secretary; Walter Alexander, treasurer; William Dressman, financial secretary; Warren Livengood, chief; Herman Shank, assistant chief; Edward Dressman, sergeant-at-arms; Alvin G. Youngblood, Sr., Earl Zembower and Harry B. Klosterman, trustees. Installing officer was Cromwell Zembower, retiring LaVale president and president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

WCTU To Elect Today

FROSTBURG — The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet at 7:30 p. m. today in the Sunday school room of First Methodist Church. Officers will be elected.

Near-Capacity Audience Hears B&O Glee Club Sing

Aden Lewis 'Fills In' As Accompanist

A near-capacity audience heard the B&O Glee Club present an outstanding concert of classical and popular music last night at Fort Hill High School auditorium.

In spite of the freezing weather, a crowd estimated at 1,500 persons poured into the auditorium to hear the program, sponsored by the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church.

The concert also afforded an opportunity for a display of local talent when Aden Lewis, supervisor of piano education in Allegany County Schools, filled in as accompanist.

Lewis was substituting for Miss Charlotte Reed, accompanist to the chorus for 25 years, who became ill before the group left Baltimore yesterday.

Although he had only an hour's notice, Lewis played through a program ranging from Brahms to Romberg without apparent effort.

Dr. James Allan Dash, conductor of the Glee Club and himself an accomplished pianist, turned in an excellent performance as accompanist for Tenor Henry Krumrein's brilliant solo numbers.

The 60-member chorus was obtained largely through the efforts of Chester T. Williams, local B&O division superintendent and an officer in the Men's Club.

Williams expressed his appreciation to local music lovers for the manner in which the concert was received and the excellent attendance.

Better Business Group To Meet

The newly formed Better Business Association will meet tonight at 7:45 o'clock in the City Hall auditorium.

Reports from committees, including the committee on by-laws are expected and plans will be outlined for a membership campaign.

Also on the agenda are such subjects as better parking facilities, efforts toward creating more jobs here through industrial location, and discussion of regular meeting dates.

Sponsors said the meeting is open to any intrested business people of Cumberland.

Local 1874 Election Results Due Today

Ballots cast in the annual election of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will be counted today.

The Honest Ballot Association which is conducting the poll, said voting will end today at 4 a. m. and that results should be available by this afternoon.

Pilot Of Plane In Which Five Died Former Resident

The pilot of a plane which crashed after a test flight takeoff at Miami, Fla., Tuesday formerly resided here.

He was Ben Perry who was once employed by Louis Waingold.

Perry was also vice-president of Aerodex, Inc., a maintenance firm, which owned the airplane.

All five persons aboard the Lockheed Lodester died in the crash.

Local High School Bandsmen To Play In Tri-State Clinic

Thirteen Cumberland high school students will attend the Tri-State Band Clinic tomorrow and Saturday in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Band members from schools throughout Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia will gather tomorrow morning to begin rehearsing for a combined concert which will be presented before the clinic ends Saturday.

Eight Fort Hill High School bandsmen and five Allegany High musicians will play.

They include Ann Adams, Thomas Rowan, James Rowley, Warfield Wilson, Donald Stine, Faith Manges, William Shanholtz and James Reynolds, all of Fort Hill, and Shirley Markwood, Gretchen Cook, Fred Gellner, Ronald Schoenadel and Phillip Wendt, all of Allegany.

The group will leave tomorrow morning.

Ridgeley Airman Held In Theft Of Narcotics

DETROIT, Mich., Jan 23 (AP)—Two airmen from Selfridge Field were brought into Federal Court today charged with stealing and selling cocaine from the air base hospital.

Narcotics agents said the cocaine was sold to other airmen and civilians at Mt. Clemens, the base home.

The defendants, Sgt. Samuel J. Logsdon, 26, of Ridgeley, W. Va., and Pvt. Stanley Walker, 22, of Detroit, stood mute to the charges. Pleas of innocence were entered in their behalf by Judge Arthur F. Lederle. Bond was set at $1,000.

The agents said that Logsdon took the narcotic and Walker sold it. Logsdon was stationed at the hospital and had charge of drugs. Walker was an ambulance driver.

Officers at the base hospital were reported checking to determine the extent of the alleged theft. Assistant U. S. Attorney J. Connor Austin said they had been going on "for some time."

News In Brief

The Home Owners Association of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO), will meet Friday at 7 p. m. in the local's new hall, 152 North Mechanic Street.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, will speak at a meeting of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police today at 8 p. m. in the Canada Hose House.

Henderson Fines Orioles Nest Trustees $1,500

Men Resign From Club; Relinquish License

The trustees of Orioles Nest No. 220 were fined a total of $1,500 yesterday morning by Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court.

A fine of $1,000 was imposed for selling liquor after hours and an additional $500 fine for allowing minors on the premises.

The three trustees, licensees for the Nest's liquor permit, Bert A. Mason, Harry Ort and Y. S. Levine, had pleaded guilty Thursday.

The three men informed the court they have resigned from the Nest, and turned the organization's license over to the court to be surrendered to the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners.

Responsible Under Law

Judge Henderson told the defendants:

"You pleaded guilty not because you were personally responsible for these violations, but because the law—wisely to my way of thinking, provides that whoever takes out an alcoholic license becomes personally responsible for any violation of the law. And so you three (although you were not present and undoubtedly would never have authorized the violation) became liable under the law which provides a possible penalty of both fine and imprisonment."

"And the law can constitutionally impose on you a penalty which may even include imprisonment for something done without your authority and when you were not present. That is not done without your consent. You voluntarily put yourself in that position when you took out the license in your three names. Nobody compelled you to do that."

The court referred to the fact that a financial transaction between the owners of Wills Mountain Inn, Inc., James Sheehe, Ewald Ruehl and others, and the nest proved a great disadvantage to the Orioles.

Refused License Once

Judge Henderson stated that in April 1950 the Orioles Nest applied to the county liquor board for a liquor license at the same location, but was refused.

Later he pointed out that the license was granted when the defendants appeared in the picture as licensees. The board changed its previous ruling he said, no doubt because of the standing of the defendants.

However, the judge continued, under a lease arrangement the license could be moved from the premises. Later this lease was changed into a purchase so the license could not be removed.

Nest "Captured"

So in effect, he said, the owners had "captured the nest." Previously the lease called for a payment of $3,600 a year, he added, but under the legal transaction, the mortgagees were entitled to everything under the mortgage up to $15,000 a year.

The transaction also said that the owners had the privilege of appointing a steward. The deal also made the trustees and not the actual operators liable for the conduct of the place, he explained.

Judge Henderson said clubs in this county have been given warnings so many times he could not accept the defense, that the defendants did not know what had been going on at the Inn.

Police Are Probing Mysterious Death Of Keyser Housewife

State Police and Mineral County authorities at Keyser, W. Va., are probing the mysterious death of Mrs. Doris Margaret Nutter, 25, of 51 Armstrong Street. She was found unconscious by her husband, Albert Nutter, 30, between 7 and 8 p. m. yesterday in their second floor apartment.

Nutter, who is home on leave from the U. S. Navy, found his wife in an unconscious condition and called for a doctor. When medical aid could not be immediately secured, he called the fire department's ambulance and when it arrived the young wife was found to be dead.

Cpl. O. G. Webly and Trooper Frank Bowley, of the State Police, together with Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Hott, were notified, and are working on the case. The body has been brought to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland where an autopsy will be performed by Dr. Benedict Skitarelic.

Warrant Issued In Bigamy Case

A Grafton, W. Va., judge has issued a warrant for Daniel Harry Huber, 35, who failed to appear for trial yesterday on a bigamy charge filed by a Frostburg woman.

Judge Merle Watkins of Taylor County (W. Va.) Circuit Court also ordered Huber's $1,000 bond forfeited.

The indictment against Huber resulted from a complaint by Mrs. Lucille Maxson Huber. Mrs. Huber said she was married to the defendant in 1935, and that in 1950 Huber married Violet Helm in Kentucky without first divorcing her.

The complaint also said Huber brought his second wife to live at his first wife's home in McGee, W. Va., while the first wife was working in Grafton.

Divorce Granted

Elizabeth Phillips has been granted a divorce from Bruce Phillips in a decree signed January 7 at Allegany County Circuit Court.

Few Tri-State Counties Hit By New Snow

Low Temperatures Forecast Today

Snow began to fall in some sections of the Tri-State area last night as the Weather Bureau forecast mercury plunges to five above zero this morning.

State Police reported two inches of snow on Garrett County roads last night and still snowing. Snow had covered most of the highways around Altamount, Oakland and Hardman, Terra Alta and Thomas, W. Va.

State Police said roads in that section were becoming dangerously slippery. Temperatures in Garrett County were at 20 degrees about 8:30 p. m. and steadily dropping.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford said heavy snow began falling about 8 o'clock last night on the turnpike and visibility was very poor. Police said snow was confined to Somerset and points west. The Bedford area was clear with temperature at 28 degrees.

West Virginia counties in the Romney district were clear last night but mercury was dropping fast. State Police said a few snow flurries were noted, but roads were clear. They reported snow on Mt. Storm on U. S. Route 50 yesterday afternoon, but was clear last night with the exception of a few icy spots.

As snow began falling in the Cumberland area shortly before midnight last night, State Road Commission standby crews were sent out to the George's Creek and McCoole sections. Roads there were becoming slippery and a number of trucks with cinders began ashing the one-inch layer of snow.

A pickup truck was assigned to patrol Braddock Road and the LaVale section. State Police reported snow falling in that section and covering highways in spots.

Temperature here last night stood at 28 degrees at 6 p. m. and only slightly dropping after 8:30 o'clock.

Temperatures in other points of the district late last night were: Altamount, Oakland, and Terra Alta, W. Va., 20 degrees; Thomas and Elkins, W. Va., 18 degrees; Deal, Pa., 16 degrees, west of Somerset, Pa., 20; east of Somerset, 28 degrees, and Romney, W. Va., 28 degrees.

However, the Weather Bureau predicted mercury in Western Maryland would dip to between 10 and 15 degrees this morning. Today will be fair and somewhat colder.

In Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, thermometers will plunge to between five and 15 degrees this morning. Today will be cloudy and continued cold with snow flurries in Pennsylvania.

Labor Officials To Confer With Senator Kimble

Unions Will Plan Election Strategy

A local delegation will attend a conference planned in Hagerstown tonight, when labor representatives of the Sixth Congressional District will confer with State Senator Robert B. Kimble.

Lester McGill, chairman of Local 1874, TWUA-CIO Legislative committee, will head the Cumberland delegation at the meeting set for 7:30 p. m. in the UMW Hall.

Charles F. Davis and Charles Jones, of Local 1874 Political Action Committee will also represent the Celanese local.

Representing the Western Maryland Unity Conference will be Paul L. Burley, Bus Drivers, and Edwin Hoffman, Railway Trainmen.

The same delegation will attend a state-wide CIO political meeting in the NMU Hall in Baltimore Saturday at 1 p. m.

Plans are now underway, Burley said, to revive the Sixth District organization of the Maryland League of United Voters.

Actual organization work will get under way at a meeting in Hagerstown February 16.

During the 1950 election, the League represented the AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods, independent unions and in several counties received support from the Americans for Democratic Action.

C. E. Stutzman, of Local 453, Teamsters Union, was chairman of the League in 1950.

Garrett Youth In Boston Poultry Judging Today

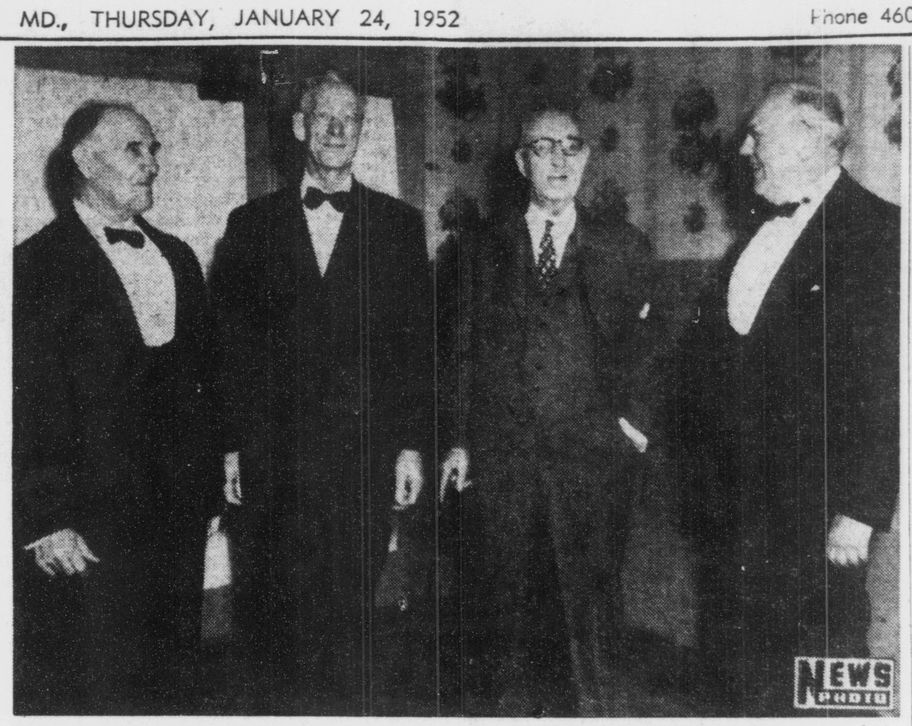
A Garrett County youth will leave for Boston today with Maryland's 4-H Poultry Judging Team to compete in the Poultry Show Exposition.

He is Donald Smith, Bittinger, who represented Garrett County in the state competition and won a place on the four-man Maryland team.

The Marylanders will oppose teams from 10 other states in the regional contest. Accompanying the boys will be Wade H. Rice, University of Maryland extension poultryman, and Roscoe Whipp, assistant agricultural agent of Montgomery County.

Smith's teammates are John Arbaugh, New Windsor, Carroll County, Reginald King, Germantown, and Broderick McCrossin, Gaithersburg.

MACHINISTS INSTALL—Newly elected officers of Lodge No. 1035, International Association of Machinists, are seen Wednesday following the annual installation at the Knights of Malta Hall. Seated are C. E. Gilford, vice president; L. A. McKenzie, president, and J. P. George, treasurer. Standing are M. Close, conductor; R. A. Mullin, inside sentinel; J. M. Shoemaker, recording secretary, and S. W. Grim, financial secretary. A social hour followed the ceremony.



DUCK BUSTERS—Four of the charter members of the Cumberland Duck Busters Club as seen last night at the 29th annual dinner held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. They are Arthur J. Fitch, former manager of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America; Arthur P. Hoffa and Dr. A. H. Hawkins, who bagged the ducks during their annual hunt in Arkansas, and Somerville Nicholson, treasurer of the club. William A. Gunter was toastmaster at the dinner attended by over 200 prominent business and professional men from the Tri-State area.

Community Chest To Mark Silver Jubilee Tomorrow

Dr. H. C. Byrd To Be Speaker

The Cumberland Community Chest will observe its 25th anniversary tomorrow with a "dutch treat" dinner at 6:30 p. m. at Centre Street Methodist Church Hall.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, will be principal speaker.

Chest workers will pay tribute to George L. Buchanan and Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, leader of the 1951-52 Red Feather and USO campaign.

Directors for the coming year will be elected at 7:30 p. m. The nominating committee includes Frederic W. Eiler, chairman; Mrs. Barnes, Robert E. Barnard, Jr., Edward L. Ewald and James L. Weber.

The nine Chest agencies will present displays designed to show what has been accomplished in the last quarter century. In connection with the displays, Chest officials yesterday released old records pertaining to the organization of the Chest.

History Outlined

Earliest official records on the Chest are the minutes of the first meeting of a group of five local people who were members of a joint committee organized to investigate the possibility of starting a Chest here.

This first recorded meeting on June 15, 1925 was attended by Dr. E. B. Claybrook, Thomas L. Pierce, George G. Young, Harold W. Smith and Franklin H. Ankeney.

It was decided that the Harrisburg, Pa. Welfare Federation be employed to conduct a preliminary survey at a cost of $100 a week and expenses. The Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and the Chamber of Commerce were asked to underwrite these expenses to the extent of a maximum of $600. Each organization was to bear one-third of the cost.

Undertakes Survey

W. L. Maxwell, of the Harrisburg Federation, was employed to undertake the survey. In September, 1925, Maxwell reported to the joint committee which had by this time been enlarged to include J. Milton Patterson, Fulcher P. Smith, Arthur J. Weber and J. George Smith.

The committee then planned a public meeting for September 25 to be held at City Hall to which all interested citizens were invited, including representatives of city and county government.

At the public meeting, Maxwell explained the fundamentals of the Chest, and an organization committee made up of Dr. Claybrook, F. P. Smith and George G. Young, was temporarily appointed to continue with plans of organization. About 100 people attended the public meeting, and the opinion of all was that a welfare federation was desirable in Cumberland.

The next meeting was held October 23, 1925 in City Hall with welfare agencies, city and county officials represented. A constitution and by-laws was presented and was referred to a committee made up of William C. Walsh, George Henderson and Issac S. Hirsch for revision.

Constitution Adopted

Finally at a meeting on January 22, 1926, the constitution was adopted and Cumberland's Community Chest officially came into being.

Over the past 25 years, a total of $1,845,074.77 has been given to the Chest by the people and business firms of the community. These funds have been distributed over the years among 16 different welfare and youth-building agencies.

At present there are nine member agencies in the Chest, and of these, six have been members since the Chest was organized. The six agencies and the funds they have received since 1926 are:

The Salvation Army, $314,002.43; Associated Charities, $290,836.08; Baby Welfare, $38,140.95; Traveler's Aid, $24,475.93; Jewish Welfare, $9,430.13; and Central YMCA, $227,559.86.

The other three agencies are the Boy Scouts, $117,002.31; the Girl Scouts, $79,502.04; and Keating Nursery, $35,597.17. The Boy Scouts joined the Chest in 1928, the Girl Scouts in 1931, and the Keating Memorial Day Nursery in 1942.

Shares In Funds

In addition other groups have been members of the Chest at various times and have shared in Chest funds. Among them are Allegany Hospital, member from 1926 to 1943, receiving $114,058.35.

The Red Cros was a member from 1926 to 1939 and received $85,196.20. Of this amount, $8,524 was awarded the Red Cross in 1944 during World War II for services to members in the Armed Forces.

Head Clinic, member in 1928-29,

was organized by the Chest and later taken over by the State Health Department. It received $3,600 from the Chest. Allegany County League for Crippled Children was a member from 1935 to 1943 and received $21,907.14.

Other awards have been made to different organizations and causes during the existence of the Chest. These include:

National War Fund, received $168,115.18 in 1943 to 1945. In 1951 it received $9,560 from Chest campaign funds for the United Defense Fund. An emergency fund administered by the Associated Charities was set up during the depression and in 1931 and 1932, received a total of $8,000 from Chest funds. Drought Relief, administered by the Red Cross, received $3,000 in 1931.

Beall Opens Baltimore Headquarters

Begins Campaign For U. S. Senate

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23 (AP)—Rep. J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, candidate for the Republican nomination to the seat being vacated this year by Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D-Md), today opened campaign headquarters on the fourth floor of the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

Beall, who represents the Sixth (Western Maryland) District, announced his campaign manager would be Roy Tasco Davis, former Montgomery County state senator, and his treasurer would be Rae Dempsey, Jr., father of the Baltimore City GOP chairman.

Beall said he would travel to Annapolis within the next day or two to file his formal certificate for candidacy.

He said bluntly his personal campaigning would have to be on a catch-as-catch-can basis.

"Congress is in session," he said, "and we'll be working pretty hard over there for the next 90 days. That job comes first, and I will have to fit my campaign activities into in-between times."

Other Republicans in the race for the Senate Seat are H. Grady Gore, Montgomery real estate man, and Paul Robertson of Baltimore.

Ridgeley Fire Losses Are Low

Fire losses were low last year in the area protected by the Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Company.

Chief Leo Rice reported yesterday that the company answered 28 calls in the area during 1951.

Total losses from the 13 fires which were within the town limits were only $170, Chief Rice said.

Another 15 calls were answered from the surrounding area protected by the Ridgeley company and added another $100 damage.

The fire chief praised cooperation of all citizens of the area in helping volunteer firemen keep fire losses to a minimum last year.

Ridgeley Police Expect Rabies Report Tonight

Nine Dogs Shot In Eight Days

Ridgeley authorities expect to receive tonight a report from the West Virginia State Department of Health which will show whether nine dogs destroyed in the past eight days had rabies.

Police Chief H. L. Henry said he expects to hear from the department's Charleston headquarters tonight. Chief Henry sent the head of one of the dogs to the department Tuesday for examination.

No dogs have been destroyed since Tuesday, when Henry shot three which frothed at the mouth and threatened to attack when he approached them.

Six others were shot between last Tuesday and Monday.

RABID FOXES IN VA.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 23 (AP)—Rabid foxes, most of them in northern Virginia, still constitute a big proportion of the rabies cases in Virginia, Dr. A. S. McCown, of the State Health Department, said today.

Thus far in 1952 there have been 31 cases of rabies verified by the Department, of which 14 were foxes. The others were dogs, cows and miscellaneous animals.

The foxes constitute a "reservoir" of the disease in the northern part of the state and because the animals are wild it is proving difficult to stamp the disease out, Dr. McCown explained. It is more easily controlled among domestic animals.

Foxes no doubt often die from the disease without being discovered, Dr. McCown explained. Efforts are being made to exterminate the foxes in the area. This, and the vaccination of dogs against rabies, are about the only means of fighting the outbreak, he said.

Thus far this year rabid foxes have been found in these numbers: Fauquier County 4, Rappahannock County 3, Loudoun 3, Warren 3, and Wythe 1.

WSB Approves Wage Boost For Celanese Drivers

The Wage Stabilization Board has approved a wage increase for 43 drivers of the Celanese Central Traffic Division.

William C. Somerville, district traffic manager, said the increase of .0015 per mile will be retroactive to August 14, 1951.

The wage boost for drivers of the firm was included in a pact signed August 31, 1951, between the Celanese Corporation of America and Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union (AFL).

Union contract negotiators were C. E. Stutzman, business agent; Amos DeHaven, G. H. Allison, Carter Harness and H. A. Fletcher. The company was represented by Somerville and Robert W. Brown, personnel superintendent.

The Celanese Central Trucking Division is in charge of inter-plant hauling for the firm.

Weather

Yesterday morning's cloudy sky opened for a few hours in the afternoon to allow the sun to appear. A steady wind which swept the city most of the day continued its course late last night. Robert R. Golden, official weather observer at Constitution Park, recorded high temperature at 33 degrees early yesterday morning. The low for the day of 27 degrees was measured about 6 p. m. and remained at this point until about 9 o'clock when mercury began to drop steadily. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 59 per cent. The Weather Bureau says fair and somewhat colder for today with thermometers dipping to between 10 and 15 degrees early this morning.

Program Chairmen Named At Meeting

The Fort Hill High School Band will present its annual spring concert March 18 at the school auditorium. Final plans for the concert were made at a meeting of the Band Council at the home of James Reynolds, Tuesday.

Donald Stine was named general chairman for preparation of the concert program. His committees include James Rowley, advertising; Jack Underdonk, tickets; Faith Manges and Warfield Wilson, publicity.

Band members will be in charge of the preparation. They will be assisted by Don Razey, band director, and Reynolds, a member of the Band Parents Association.

Razey announced that cabinets are being made for storing music and drum equipment. The cabinets will be portable, he said.

Warfield Wilson proposed that the band buy a silk banner, to be displayed at the head of the unit when it marches.

The council also completed plans for Fort Hill's participation in the Tri-State Band Clinic tomorrow and Saturday in Martinsburg, W. Va. Eight Sentinel bandsmen will participate.

Births

Captain and Mrs. Charles H. Gover announce the birth of a son Tuesday at Wright Patterson Base Hospital, Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. Gover is the former June E. Ort, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Ort, LaVale.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Victor C. Whitaker, 925 Grand Avenue, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn E. Poland, 437 Race Street, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Layton, Wiley Ford, W. Va., a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar F. Shantzer, RFD No. 4, city, a daughter yesterday.

Firemen Install At LaVale Meet

Officers of LaVale Volunteer Fire Department took over their duties at a meeting Tuesday at the fire hall.

L. B. Carter is president for 1952; Joseph Connelly, vice president; E. C. Kreissig, secretary; Walter Alexander, treasurer; William Dressman, financial secretary; Warren Livengood, chief; Herman Shank, assistant chief; Edward Dressman, sergeant-at-arms; Alvin G. Youngblood, Sr., Earl Zembower and Harry B. Klosterman, trustees. Installing officer was Cromwell Zembower, retiring LaVale president and president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

WCTU To Elect Today

FROSTBURG — The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet at 7:30 p. m. today in the Sunday school room of First Methodist Church. Officers will be elected.

Near-Capacity Audience Hears B&O Glee Club Sing

Aden Lewis 'Fills In' As Accompanist

A near-capacity audience heard the B&O Glee Club present an outstanding concert of classical and popular music last night at Fort Hill High School auditorium.

In spite of the freezing weather, a crowd estimated at 1,500 persons poured into the auditorium to hear the program, sponsored by the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church.

The concert also afforded an opportunity for a display of local talent when Aden Lewis, supervisor of piano education in Allegany County Schools, filled in as accompanist.

Lewis was substituting for Miss Charlotte Reed, accompanist to the chorus for 25 years, who became ill before the group left Baltimore yesterday.

Although he had only an hour's notice, Lewis played through a program ranging from Brahms to Romberg without apparent effort.

Dr. James Allan Dash, conductor of the Glee Club and himself an accomplished pianist, turned in an excellent performance as accompanist for Tenor Henry Krumrein's brilliant solo numbers.

The 60-member chorus was obtained largely through the efforts of Chester T. Williams, local B&O division superintendent and an officer in the Men's Club.

Williams expressed his appreciation to local music lovers for the manner in which the concert was received and the excellent attendance.

Better Business Group To Meet

The newly formed Better Business Association will meet tonight at 7:45 o'clock in the City Hall auditorium.

Reports from committees, including the committee on by-laws are expected and plans will be outlined for a membership campaign.

Also on the agenda are such subjects as better parking facilities, efforts toward creating more jobs here through industrial location, and discussion of regular meeting dates.

Sponsors said the meeting is open to any intrested business people of Cumberland.

Local 1874 Election Results Due Today

Ballots cast in the annual election of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will be counted today.

The Honest Ballot Association which is conducting the poll, said voting will end today at 4 a. m. and that results should be available by this afternoon.

Pilot Of Plane In Which Five Died Former Resident

The pilot of a plane which crashed after a test flight takeoff at Miami, Fla., Tuesday formerly resided here.

He was Ben Perry who was once employed by Louis Waingold.

Perry was also vice-president of Aerodex, Inc., a maintenance firm, which owned the airplane.

All five persons aboard the Lockheed Lodester died in the crash.

Local High School Bandsmen To Play In Tri-State Clinic

Thirteen Cumberland high school students will attend the Tri-State Band Clinic tomorrow and Saturday in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Band members from schools throughout Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia will gather tomorrow morning to begin rehearsing for a combined concert which will be presented before the clinic ends Saturday.

Eight Fort Hill High School bandsmen and five Allegany High musicians will play.

They include Ann Adams, Thomas Rowan, James Rowley, Warfield Wilson, Donald Stine, Faith Manges, William Shanholtz and James Reynolds, all of Fort Hill, and Shirley Markwood, Gretchen Cook, Fred Gellner, Ronald Schoenadel and Phillip Wendt, all of Allegany.

The group will leave tomorrow morning.

Ridgeley Airman Held In Theft Of Narcotics

DETROIT, Mich., Jan 23 (AP)—Two airmen from Selfridge Field were brought into Federal Court today charged with stealing and selling cocaine from the air base hospital.

Narcotics agents said the cocaine was sold to other airmen and civilians at Mt. Clemens, the base home.

The defendants, Sgt. Samuel J. Logsdon, 26, of Ridgeley, W. Va., and Pvt. Stanley Walker, 22, of Detroit, stood mute to the charges. Pleas of innocence were entered in their behalf by Judge Arthur F. Lederle. Bond was set at $1,000.

The agents said that Logsdon took the narcotic and Walker sold it. Logsdon was stationed at the hospital and had charge of drugs. Walker was an ambulance driver.

Officers at the base hospital were reported checking to determine the extent of the alleged theft. Assistant U. S. Attorney J. Connor Austin said they had been going on "for some time."

News In Brief

The Home Owners Association of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO), will meet Friday at 7 p. m. in the local's new hall, 152 North Mechanic Street.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, will speak at a meeting of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police today at 8 p. m. in the Canada Hose House.

Henderson Fines Orioles Nest Trustees $1,500

Men Resign From Club; Relinquish License

The trustees of Orioles Nest No. 220 were fined a total of $1,500 yesterday morning by Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court.

A fine of $1,000 was imposed for selling liquor after hours and an additional $500 fine for allowing minors on the premises.

The three trustees, licensees for the Nest's liquor permit, Bert A. Mason, Harry Ort and Y. S. Levine, had pleaded guilty Thursday.

The three men informed the court they have resigned from the Nest, and turned the organization's license over to the court to be surrendered to the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners.

Responsible Under Law

Judge Henderson told the defendants:

"You pleaded guilty not because you were personally responsible for these violations, but because the law—wisely to my way of thinking, provides that whoever takes out an alcoholic license becomes personally responsible for any violation of the law. And so you three (although you were not present and undoubtedly would never have authorized the violation) became liable under the law which provides a possible penalty of both fine and imprisonment."

"And the law can constitutionally impose on you a penalty which may even include imprisonment for something done without your authority and when you were not present. That is not done without your consent. You voluntarily put yourself in that position when you took out the license in your three names. Nobody compelled you to do that."

The court referred to the fact that a financial transaction between the owners of Wills Mountain Inn, Inc., James Sheehe, Ewald Ruehl and others, and the nest proved a great disadvantage to the Orioles.

Refused License Once

Judge Henderson stated that in April 1950 the Orioles Nest applied to the county liquor board for a liquor license at the same location, but was refused.

Later he pointed out that the license was granted when the defendants appeared in the picture as licensees. The board changed its previous ruling he said, no doubt because of the standing of the defendants.

However, the judge continued, under a lease arrangement the license could be moved from the premises. Later this lease was changed into a purchase so the license could not be removed.

Nest "Captured"

So in effect, he said, the owners had "captured the nest." Previously the lease called for a payment of $3,600 a year, he added, but under the legal transaction, the mortgagees were entitled to everything under the mortgage up to $15,000 a year.

The transaction also said that the owners had the privilege of appointing a steward. The deal also made the trustees and not the actual operators liable for the conduct of the place, he explained.

Judge Henderson said clubs in this county have been given warnings so many times he could not accept the defense, that the defendants did not know what had been going on at the Inn.

Police Are Probing Mysterious Death Of Keyser Housewife

State Police and Mineral County authorities at Keyser, W. Va., are probing the mysterious death of Mrs. Doris Margaret Nutter, 25, of 51 Armstrong Street. She was found unconscious by her husband, Albert Nutter, 30, between 7 and 8 p. m. yesterday in their second floor apartment.

Nutter, who is home on leave from the U. S. Navy, found his wife in an unconscious condition and called for a doctor. When medical aid could not be immediately secured, he called the fire department's ambulance and when it arrived the young wife was found to be dead.

Cpl. O. G. Webly and Trooper Frank Bowley, of the State Police, together with Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Hott, were notified, and are working on the case. The body has been brought to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland where an autopsy will be performed by Dr. Benedict Skitarelic.

Warrant Issued In Bigamy Case

A Grafton, W. Va., judge has issued a warrant for Daniel Harry Huber, 35, who failed to appear for trial yesterday on a bigamy charge filed by a Frostburg woman.

Judge Merle Watkins of Taylor County (W. Va.) Circuit Court also ordered Huber's $1,000 bond forfeited.

The indictment against Huber resulted from a complaint by Mrs. Lucille Maxson Huber. Mrs. Huber said she was married to the defendant in 1935, and that in 1950 Huber married Violet Helm in Kentucky without first divorcing her.

The complaint also said Huber brought his second wife to live at his first wife's home in McGee, W. Va., while the first wife was working in Grafton.

Divorce Granted

Elizabeth Phillips has been granted a divorce from Bruce Phillips in a decree signed January 7 at Allegany County Circuit Court.

Few Tri-State Counties Hit By New Snow

Low Temperatures Forecast Today

Snow began to fall in some sections of the Tri-State area last night as the Weather Bureau forecast mercury plunges to five above zero this morning.

State Police reported two inches of snow on Garrett County roads last night and still snowing. Snow had covered most of the highways around Altamount, Oakland and Hardman, Terra Alta and Thomas, W. Va.

State Police said roads in that section were becoming dangerously slippery. Temperatures in Garrett County were at 20 degrees about 8:30 p. m. and steadily dropping.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford said heavy snow began falling about 8 o'clock last night on the turnpike and visibility was very poor. Police said snow was confined to Somerset and points west. The Bedford area was clear with temperature at 28 degrees.

West Virginia counties in the Romney district were clear last night but mercury was dropping fast. State Police said a few snow flurries were noted, but roads were clear. They reported snow on Mt. Storm on U. S. Route 50 yesterday afternoon, but was clear last night with the exception of a few icy spots.

As snow began falling in the Cumberland area shortly before midnight last night, State Road Commission standby crews were sent out to the George's Creek and McCoole sections. Roads there were becoming slippery and a number of trucks with cinders began ashing the one-inch layer of snow.

A pickup truck was assigned to patrol Braddock Road and the LaVale section. State Police reported snow falling in that section and covering highways in spots.

Temperature here last night stood at 28 degrees at 6 p. m. and only slightly dropping after 8:30 o'clock.

Temperatures in other points of the district late last night were: Altamount, Oakland, and Terra Alta, W. Va., 20 degrees; Thomas and Elkins, W. Va., 18 degrees; Deal, Pa., 16 degrees, west of Somerset, Pa., 20; east of Somerset, 28 degrees, and Romney, W. Va., 28 degrees.

However, the Weather Bureau predicted mercury in Western Maryland would dip to between 10 and 15 degrees this morning. Today will be fair and somewhat colder.

In Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, thermometers will plunge to between five and 15 degrees this morning. Today will be cloudy and continued cold with snow flurries in Pennsylvania.

Labor Officials To Confer With Senator Kimble

Unions Will Plan Election Strategy

A local delegation will attend a conference planned in Hagerstown tonight, when labor representatives of the Sixth Congressional District will confer with State Senator Robert B. Kimble.

Lester McGill, chairman of Local 1874, TWUA-CIO Legislative committee, will head the Cumberland delegation at the meeting set for 7:30 p. m. in the UMW Hall.

Charles F. Davis and Charles Jones, of Local 1874 Political Action Committee will also represent the Celanese local.

Representing the Western Maryland Unity Conference will be Paul L. Burley, Bus Drivers, and Edwin Hoffman, Railway Trainmen.

The same delegation will attend a state-wide CIO political meeting in the NMU Hall in Baltimore Saturday at 1 p. m.

Plans are now underway, Burley said, to revive the Sixth District organization of the Maryland League of United Voters.

Actual organization work will get under way at a meeting in Hagerstown February 16.

During the 1950 election, the League represented the AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods, independent unions and in several counties received support from the Americans for Democratic Action.

C. E. Stutzman, of Local 453, Teamsters Union, was chairman of the League in 1950.

Garrett Youth In Boston Poultry Judging Today

A Garrett County youth will leave for Boston today with Maryland's 4-H Poultry Judging Team to compete in the Poultry Show Exposition.

He is Donald Smith, Bittinger, who represented Garrett County in the state competition and won a place on the four-man Maryland team.

The Marylanders will oppose teams from 10 other states in the regional contest. Accompanying the boys will be Wade H. Rice, University of Maryland extension poultryman, and Roscoe Whipp, assistant agricultural agent of Montgomery County.

Smith's teammates are John Arbaugh, New Windsor, Carroll County, Reginald King, Germantown, and Broderick McCrossin, Gaithersburg.

MACHINISTS INSTALL—Newly elected officers of Lodge No. 1035, International Association of Machinists, are seen Wednesday following the annual installation at the Knights of Malta Hall. Seated are C. E. Gilford, vice president; L. A. McKenzie, president, and J. P. George, treasurer. Standing are M. Close, conductor; R. A. Mullin, inside sentinel; J. M. Shoemaker, recording secretary, and S. W. Grim, financial secretary. A social hour followed the ceremony.

DUCK BUSTERS—Four of the charter members of the Cumberland Duck Busters Club as seen last night at the 29th annual dinner held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. They are Arthur J. Fitch, former manager of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America; Arthur P. Hoffa and Dr. A. H. Hawkins, who bagged the ducks during their annual hunt in Arkansas, and Somerville Nicholson, treasurer of the club. William A. Gunter was toastmaster at the dinner attended by over 200 prominent business and professional men from the Tri-State area.

Community Chest To Mark Silver Jubilee Tomorrow

Dr. H. C. Byrd To Be Speaker

The Cumberland Community Chest will observe its 25th anniversary tomorrow with a "dutch treat" dinner at 6:30 p. m. at Centre Street Methodist Church Hall.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, will be principal speaker.

Chest workers will pay tribute to George L. Buchanan and Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, leader of the 1951-52 Red Feather and USO campaign.

Directors for the coming year will be elected at 7:30 p. m. The nominating committee includes Frederic W. Eiler, chairman; Mrs. Barnes, Robert E. Barnard, Jr., Edward L. Ewald and James L. Weber.

The nine Chest agencies will present displays designed to show what has been accomplished in the last quarter century. In connection with the displays, Chest officials yesterday released old records pertaining to the organization of the Chest.

History Outlined

Earliest official records on the Chest are the minutes of the first meeting of a group of five local people who were members of a joint committee organized to investigate the possibility of starting a Chest here.

This first recorded meeting on June 15, 1925 was attended by Dr. E. B. Claybrook, Thomas L. Pierce, George G. Young, Harold W. Smith and Franklin H. Ankeney.

It was decided that the Harrisburg, Pa. Welfare Federation be employed to conduct a preliminary survey at a cost of $100 a week and expenses. The Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and the Chamber of Commerce were asked to underwrite these expenses to the extent of a maximum of $600. Each organization was to bear one-third of the cost.

Undertakes Survey

W. L. Maxwell, of the Harrisburg Federation, was employed to undertake the survey. In September, 1925, Maxwell reported to the joint committee which had by this time been enlarged to include J. Milton Patterson, Fulcher P. Smith, Arthur J. Weber and J. George Smith.

The committee then planned a public meeting for September 25 to be held at City Hall to which all interested citizens were invited, including representatives of city and county government.

At the public meeting, Maxwell explained the fundamentals of the Chest, and an organization committee made up of Dr. Claybrook, F. P. Smith and George G. Young, was temporarily appointed to continue with plans of organization. About 100 people attended the public meeting, and the opinion of all was that a welfare federation was desirable in Cumberland.

The next meeting was held October 23, 1925 in City Hall with welfare agencies, city and county officials represented. A constitution and by-laws was presented and was referred to a committee made up of William C. Walsh, George Henderson and Issac S. Hirsch for revision.

Constitution Adopted

Finally at a meeting on January 22, 1926, the constitution was adopted and Cumberland's Community Chest officially came into being.

Over the past 25 years, a total of $1,845,074.77 has been given to the Chest by the people and business firms of the community. These funds have been distributed over the years among 16 different welfare and youth-building agencies.

At present there are nine member agencies in the Chest, and of these, six have been members since the Chest was organized. The six agencies and the funds they have received since 1926 are:

The Salvation Army, $314,002.43; Associated Charities, $290,836.08; Baby Welfare, $38,140.95; Traveler's Aid, $24,475.93; Jewish Welfare, $9,430.13; and Central YMCA, $227,559.86.

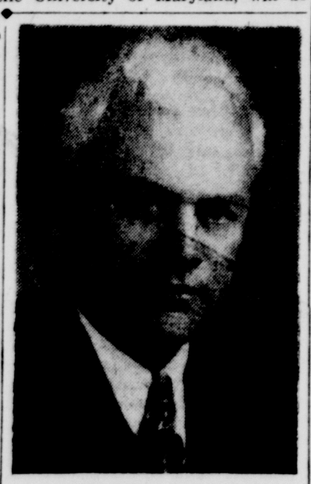
The other three agencies are the Boy Scouts, $117,002.31; the Girl Scouts, $79,502.04; and Keating Nursery, $35,597.17. The Boy Scouts joined the Chest in 1928, the Girl Scouts in 1931, and the Keating Memorial Day Nursery in 1942.

Shares In Funds

In addition other groups have been members of the Chest at various times and have shared in Chest funds. Among them are Allegany Hospital, member from 1926 to 1943, receiving $114,058.35.

The Red Cros was a member from 1926 to 1939 and received $85,196.20. Of this amount, $8,524 was awarded the Red Cross in 1944 during World War II for services to members in the Armed Forces.

Head Clinic, member in 1928-29,



DR. H. C. BYRD

was organized by the Chest and later taken over by the State Health Department. It received $3,600 from the Chest. Allegany County League for Crippled Children was a member from 1935 to 1943 and received $21,907.14.

Other awards have been made to different organizations and causes during the existence of the Chest. These include:

National War Fund, received $168,115.18 in 1943 to 1945. In 1951 it received $9,560 from Chest campaign funds for the United Defense Fund. An emergency fund administered by the Associated Charities was set up during the depression and in 1931 and 1932, received a total of $8,000 from Chest funds. Drought Relief, administered by the Red Cross, received $3,000 in 1931.

Beall Opens Baltimore Headquarters

Begins Campaign For U. S. Senate

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23 (AP)—Rep. J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, candidate for the Republican nomination to the seat being vacated this year by Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D-Md), today opened campaign headquarters on the fourth floor of the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

Beall, who represents the Sixth (Western Maryland) District, announced his campaign manager would be Roy Tasco Davis, former Montgomery County state senator, and his treasurer would be Rae Dempsey, Jr., father of the Baltimore City GOP chairman.

Beall said he would travel to Annapolis within the next day or two to file his formal certificate for candidacy.

He said bluntly his personal campaigning would have to be on a catch-as-catch-can basis.

"Congress is in session," he said, "and we'll be working pretty hard over there for the next 90 days. That job comes first, and I will have to fit my campaign activities into in-between times."

Other Republicans in the race for the Senate Seat are H. Grady Gore, Montgomery real estate man, and Paul Robertson of Baltimore.

Ridgeley Fire Losses Are Low

Fire losses were low last year in the area protected by the Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Company.

Chief Leo Rice reported yesterday that the company answered 28 calls in the area during 1951.

Total losses from the 13 fires which were within the town limits were only $170, Chief Rice said.

Another 15 calls were answered from the surrounding area protected by the Ridgeley company and added another $100 damage.

The fire chief praised cooperation of all citizens of the area in helping volunteer firemen keep fire losses to a minimum last year.

Ridgeley Police Expect Rabies Report Tonight

Nine Dogs Shot In Eight Days

Ridgeley authorities expect to receive tonight a report from the West Virginia State Department of Health which will show whether nine dogs destroyed in the past eight days had rabies.

Police Chief H. L. Henry said he expects to hear from the department's Charleston headquarters tonight. Chief Henry sent the head of one of the dogs to the department Tuesday for examination.

No dogs have been destroyed since Tuesday, when Henry shot three which frothed at the mouth and threatened to attack when he approached them.

Six others were shot between last Tuesday and Monday.

RABID FOXES IN VA.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 23 (AP)—Rabid foxes, most of them in northern Virginia, still constitute a big proportion of the rabies cases in Virginia, Dr. A. S. McCown, of the State Health Department, said today.

Thus far in 1952 there have been 31 cases of rabies verified by the Department, of which 14 were foxes. The others were dogs, cows and miscellaneous animals.

The foxes constitute a "reservoir" of the disease in the northern part of the state and because the animals are wild it is proving difficult to stamp the disease out, Dr. McCown explained. It is more easily controlled among domestic animals.

Foxes no doubt often die from the disease without being discovered, Dr. McCown explained. Efforts are being made to exterminate the foxes in the area. This, and the vaccination of dogs against rabies, are about the only means of fighting the outbreak, he said.

Thus far this year rabid foxes have been found in these numbers: Fauquier County 4, Rappahannock County 3, Loudoun 3, Warren 3, and Wythe 1.

WSB Approves Wage Boost For Celanese Drivers

The Wage Stabilization Board has approved a wage increase for 43 drivers of the Celanese Central Traffic Division.

William C. Somerville, district traffic manager, said the increase of .0015 per mile will be retroactive to August 14, 1951.

The wage boost for drivers of the firm was included in a pact signed August 31, 1951, between the Celanese Corporation of America and Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union (AFL).

Union contract negotiators were C. E. Stutzman, business agent; Amos DeHaven, G. H. Allison, Carter Harness and H. A. Fletcher. The company was represented by Somerville and Robert W. Brown, personnel superintendent.

The Celanese Central Trucking Division is in charge of inter-plant hauling for the firm.

Weather

Yesterday morning's cloudy sky opened for a few hours in the afternoon to allow the sun to appear. A steady wind which swept the city most of the day continued its course late last night. Robert R. Golden, official weather observer at Constitution Park, recorded high temperature at 33 degrees early yesterday morning. The low for the day of 27 degrees was measured about 6 p. m. and remained at this point until about 9 o'clock when mercury began to drop steadily. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 59 per cent. The Weather Bureau says fair and somewhat colder for today with thermometers dipping to between 10 and 15 degrees early this morning.

Fort Hill Band Spring Concert Set March 18

Program Chairmen Named At Meeting

The Fort Hill High School Band will present its annual spring concert March 18 at the school auditorium. Final plans for the concert were made at a meeting of the Band Council at the home of James Reynolds, Tuesday.

Donald Stine was named general chairman for preparation of the concert program. His committees include James Rowley, advertising; Jack Underdonk, tickets; Faith Manges and Warfield Wilson, publicity.

Band members will be in charge of the preparation. They will be assisted by Don Razey, band director, and Reynolds, a member of the Band Parents Association.

Razey announced that cabinets are being made for storing music and drum equipment. The cabinets will be portable, he said.

Warfield Wilson proposed that the band buy a silk banner, to be displayed at the head of the unit when it marches.

The council also completed plans for Fort Hill's participation in the Tri-State Band Clinic tomorrow and Saturday in Martinsburg, W. Va. Eight Sentinel bandsmen will participate.

Youngblood, Sr., Earl Zembower and Harry B. Klosterman, trustees. Installing officer was Cromwell Zembower, retiring LaVale president and president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

WCTU To Elect Today

FROSTBURG — The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet at 7:30 p. m. today in the Sunday school room of First Methodist Church. Officers will be elected.

Near-Capacity Audience Hears B&O Glee Club Sing

Aden Lewis 'Fills In' As Accompanist

A near-capacity audience heard the B&O Glee Club present an outstanding concert of classical and popular music last night at Fort Hill High School auditorium.

In spite of the freezing weather, a crowd estimated at 1,500 persons poured into the auditorium to hear the program, sponsored by the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church.

The concert also afforded an opportunity for a display of local talent when Aden Lewis, supervisor of piano education in Allegany County Schools, filled in as accompanist.

Lewis was substituting for Miss Charlotte Reed, accompanist to the chorus for 25 years, who became ill before the group left Baltimore yesterday.

Although he had only an hour's notice, Lewis played through a program ranging from Brahms to Romberg without apparent effort.

Dr. James Allan Dash, conductor of the Glee Club and himself an accomplished pianist, turned in an excellent performance as accompanist for Tenor Henry Krumrein's brilliant solo numbers.

The 60-member chorus was obtained largely through the efforts of Chester T. Williams, local B&O division superintendent and an officer in the Men's Club.

Williams expressed his appreciation to local music lovers for the manner in which the concert was received and the excellent attendance.

Better Business Group To Meet

The newly formed Better Business Association will meet tonight at 7:45 o'clock in the City Hall auditorium.

Reports from committees, including the committee on by-laws are expected and plans will be outlined for a membership campaign.

Also on the agenda are such subjects as better parking facilities, efforts toward creating more jobs here through industrial location, and discussion of regular meeting dates.

Sponsors said the meeting is open to any intrested business people of Cumberland.

Local 1874 Election Results Due Today

Ballots cast in the annual election of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will be counted today.

The Honest Ballot Association which is conducting the poll, said voting will end today at 4 a. m. and that results should be available by this afternoon.

Pilot Of Plane In Which Five Died Former Resident

The pilot of a plane which crashed after a test flight takeoff at Miami, Fla., Tuesday formerly resided here.

He was Ben Perry who was once employed by Louis Waingold.

Perry was also vice-president of Aerodex, Inc., a maintenance firm, which owned the airplane.

All five persons aboard the Lockheed Lodester died in the crash.

Local High School Bandsmen To Play In Tri-State Clinic

Thirteen Cumberland high school students will attend the Tri-State Band Clinic tomorrow and Saturday in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Band members from schools throughout Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia will gather tomorrow morning to begin rehearsing for a combined concert which will be presented before the clinic ends Saturday.

Eight Fort Hill High School bandsmen and five Allegany High musicians will play.

They include Ann Adams, Thomas Rowan, James Rowley, Warfield Wilson, Donald Stine, Faith Manges, William Shanholtz and James Reynolds, all of Fort Hill, and Shirley Markwood, Gretchen Cook, Fred Gellner, Ronald Schoenadel and Phillip Wendt, all of Allegany.

The group will leave tomorrow morning.

Ridgeley Airman Held In Theft Of Narcotics

DETROIT, Mich., Jan 23 (AP)—Two airmen from Selfridge Field were brought into Federal Court today charged with stealing and selling cocaine from the air base hospital.

Narcotics agents said the cocaine was sold to other airmen and civilians at Mt. Clemens, the base home.

The defendants, Sgt. Samuel J. Logsdon, 26, of Ridgeley, W. Va., and Pvt. Stanley Walker, 22, of Detroit, stood mute to the charges. Pleas of innocence were entered in their behalf by Judge Arthur F. Lederle. Bond was set at $1,000.

The agents said that Logsdon took the narcotic and Walker sold it. Logsdon was stationed at the hospital and had charge of drugs. Walker was an ambulance driver.

Officers at the base hospital were reported checking to determine the extent of the alleged theft. Assistant U. S. Attorney J. Connor Austin said they had been going on "for some time."

News In Brief

The Home Owners Association of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO), will meet Friday at 7 p. m. in the local's new hall, 152 North Mechanic Street.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, will speak at a meeting of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police today at 8 p. m. in the Canada Hose House.

Henderson Fines Orioles Nest Trustees $1,500

Men Resign From Club; Relinquish License

The trustees of Orioles Nest No. 220 were fined a total of $1,500 yesterday morning by Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court.

A fine of $1,000 was imposed for selling liquor after hours and an additional $500 fine for allowing minors on the premises.

The three trustees, licensees for the Nest's liquor permit, Bert A. Mason, Harry Ort and Y. S. Levine, had pleaded guilty Thursday.

The three men informed the court they have resigned from the Nest, and turned the organization's license over to the court to be surrendered to the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners.

Responsible Under Law

Judge Henderson told the defendants:

"You pleaded guilty not because you were personally responsible for these violations, but because the law—wisely to my way of thinking, provides that whoever takes out an alcoholic license becomes personally responsible for any violation of the law. And so you three (although you were not present and undoubtedly would never have authorized the violation) became liable under the law which provides a possible penalty of both fine and imprisonment."

"And the law can constitutionally impose on you a penalty which may even include imprisonment for something done without your authority and when you were not present. That is not done without your consent. You voluntarily put yourself in that position when you took out the license in your three names. Nobody compelled you to do that."

The court referred to the fact that a financial transaction between the owners of Wills Mountain Inn, Inc., James Sheehe, Ewald Ruehl and others, and the nest proved a great disadvantage to the Orioles.

Refused License Once

Judge Henderson stated that in April 1950 the Orioles Nest applied to the county liquor board for a liquor license at the same location, but was refused.

Later he pointed out that the license was granted when the defendants appeared in the picture as licensees. The board changed its previous ruling he said, no doubt because of the standing of the defendants.

However, the judge continued, under a lease arrangement the license could be moved from the premises. Later this lease was changed into a purchase so the license could not be removed.

Nest "Captured"

So in effect, he said, the owners had "captured the nest." Previously the lease called for a payment of $3,600 a year, he added, but under the legal transaction, the mortgagees were entitled to everything under the mortgage up to $15,000 a year.

The transaction also said that the owners had the privilege of appointing a steward. The deal also made the trustees and not the actual operators liable for the conduct of the place, he explained.

Judge Henderson said clubs in this county have been given warnings so many times he could not accept the defense, that the defendants did not know what had been going on at the Inn.

Police Are Probing Mysterious Death Of Keyser Housewife

State Police and Mineral County authorities at Keyser, W. Va., are probing the mysterious death of Mrs. Doris Margaret Nutter, 25, of 51 Armstrong Street. She was found unconscious by her husband, Albert Nutter, 30, between 7 and 8 p. m. yesterday in their second floor apartment.

Nutter, who is home on leave from the U. S. Navy, found his wife in an unconscious condition and called for a doctor. When medical aid could not be immediately secured, he called the fire department's ambulance and when it arrived the young wife was found to be dead.

Cpl. O. G. Webly and Trooper Frank Bowley, of the State Police, together with Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Hott, were notified, and are working on the case. The body has been brought to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland where an autopsy will be performed by Dr. Benedict Skitarelic.

Warrant Issued In Bigamy Case

A Grafton, W. Va., judge has issued a warrant for Daniel Harry Huber, 35, who failed to appear for trial yesterday on a bigamy charge filed by a Frostburg woman.

Judge Merle Watkins of Taylor County (W. Va.) Circuit Court also ordered Huber's $1,000 bond forfeited.

The indictment against Huber resulted from a complaint by Mrs. Lucille Maxson Huber. Mrs. Huber said she was married to the defendant in 1935, and that in 1950 Huber married Violet Helm in Kentucky without first divorcing her.

The complaint also said Huber brought his second wife to live at his first wife's home in McGee, W. Va., while the first wife was working in Grafton.

Divorce Granted

Elizabeth Phillips has been granted a divorce from Bruce Phillips in a decree signed January 7 at Allegany County Circuit Court.
